VANDERBILT RICHES GO TO SONS; MAY BE SUIT ON ESTATE TAX

State to Press Claim for $500,000 on Recent Gift of $15,000,000 to Daughter.

ART BEQUESTS TO THE CITY

$50,000 TO ISLIP CHURCH

Residue, After $13,520,000 in Legacies and Trusts, Willed to W. K., Jr., and Harold S.

A summary of the will of the late William K. Vanderbilt, who died in Paris on July 22, was made public yesterday by Anderson & Anderson, lawyers, of 15 Broad Street. It showed that the residuary estate had been left to his two sons, William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Harold S. Vanderbilt, after $13,520,000 in gifts and trust funds and most of his landed estates in France and this country had been disposed of specifically. The two sons are made the executors.

The will gives no clew to the total value of the estate, which has been estimated at from $40,000,000 to $100,000,000, and at the offices of Anderson & Anderson it was said that the estate had not even received preliminary study for the purpose of determining the amount of inheritance tax payable to the State—a subject which, it was learned yesterday, is likely to give rise to some interesting litigation.

There are three gifts for public purposes. The sum of $250,000 goes to Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tenn., which was founded by Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, the grandfather of the late William K. Vanderbilt, and has been remembered to a greater or less extent in the Vanderbilt wills ever since. St. Mark's Church at Islip, L. I., receives $50,000.

Masterpieces for Art Museum.

A number of fine old masterpieces go to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The list follows:

"Portrait of Mrs. Elliott," by Thomas Gainsborough.

"Portrait of an Old Man in Jeweled Turban," by Rembrandt.

"Portrait of Lady Guildford," by Holbein.

"La Toilette de Venus," by François Boucher.

"Danaë," by Greuze.

"Court Yard Scene," by Peter de Hooge.

Marine scenes by William van der Velde.

"Oeufs Cassées," by Greuze.

The estate is understood to have been reduced in recent years by large direct gifts. According to dispatches within the last few months, Mr. Vanderbilt made an outright gift of $15,000,000 to his daughter, Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough, and of $1,000,000 each to her two children, the Marquis of Blandford and Lord Ivor Churchill. A life estate in his large properties in France and other provision is made for his widow, who was formerly Mrs. Lewis Morris Rutherfurd, but there is no direct money bequest, indicating probably that ample provision for her already had been made, though the will does not specially state so.

Inheritance Tax Litigation Likely.

At the State Transfer Tax Office it was said that if it proved to be true that a gift of $15,000,000 had been made by Mr. Vanderbilt to his daughter, Consuelo, within the last year, the State would undoubtedly render a bill for an inheritance tax on it and on all other similar gifts. The sum due the State on such a $15,000,000 gift was calculated at more than half a million dollars. The State official who was questioned on the subject said:

"The only question which would arise is whether the gifts were made in the expectation of death. If they were so made, the State would be entitled to collect the tax. As Mr. Vanderbilt was 59 years old at the time and had been suffering from heart trouble, it would be a strong presumption that the gifts were made in expectation of death. It would certainly be sufficient to cause the State to ask payment of the tax, and if payment were declined, to go to court. The fact that the Duchess of Marlborough and her children were British subjects would not affect the State's right to the tax."

Bulk of Fortune Goes to His Sons.

The will follows the established family lines in disposing of the estate—that is, leaving the bulk of the estate to the children, more particularly to the male children, and in establishing trust funds for the third generation. With the exception of the three gifts for public purposes and two small legacies to old servants, the whole property is kept within the family. In some of its provisions the will follows closely that of Mr. Vanderbilt's father, William H. Vanderbilt. The father, for instance, instructed the executors of his estate specifically to invest in certain bonds. William K. Vanderbilt does not instruct, but suggests the investment in the same

16 New Merchant Vessels Approved by Shipping Board

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Applications were approved today by the Shipping Board for construction of sixteen vessels, aggregating 293,740 deadweight tons, under provisions of the Merchant Marine act, which permit ship owners and operators to avoid payment of excess profits taxes for ten years, provided the equivalent of the tax is set aside yearly toward building new ships.

Fourteen of the vessels are tankers ordered by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, part of which are to be built at Kearny, N. J., and others at Newport News, Va.; Oakland, Cal., and Vancouver, Wash.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company applied for one 9,800-ton tanker, to be built at New York, and the Sun Company of Philadelphia for a 12,800-ton oil steamer for construction at Chester, Pa.

EFFORTS TO AVERT B. R. T. STRIKE FAIL

Men Will Vote on Walkout Tonight and Tieup Order May Come Tomorrow.

APPEAL MADE TO GOV. SMITH

Both Sides Favor Arbitration, but Judge Mayer Insists on Right to Reduce Award.

A strike on the surface and elevated lines of Brooklyn appeared likely last night to be called for Sunday or Monday when the leaders of the employes who belong to the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railways employes appeared to be hopelessly deadlocked with Receiver Lindley M. Garrison of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company and Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer, who has jurisdiction over the bankrupt lines.

The representatives of the men threatening strike made successive appeals yesterday to Public Service Commissioner John H. Delaney, to Judge Mayer and finally to Governor Alfred E. Smith, without obtaining any promise that the deadlock would be broken in their favor.

In the meantime the officials of the B. R. T. and those charged with the responsibility for the property continued energetic preparations to fight the strike. They believe, according to reliable information, that the advantages are on their side and that they can defeat the strikers, if it comes to an issue. But if the men should strike and get the upper hand, it was stated on responsible authority that Brooklyn would find itself in the situation that large parts of Staten Island are now in—stripped of its principal passenger service for an indefinite period.

Appeal Made for Governor Smith.

"To meet the demands which have been presented would mean that in a very short time the B. R. T. lines would have to stop for lack of money to meet the payrolls," said the spokesman for the company. "A successful strike would mean the same thing. We expect to give 50 per cent. service, at least, if there is a strike, and eventually to win. But, if we fail, we will simply have to put the cars in the barns and give up the business."

Both sides are willing to arbitrate, but the deadlock is produced by the demand of the Executive Committee of the Amalgamated for an unlimited arbitration, with guarantees of acceptance by both sides of the award; whereas Judge Mayer insists that he must retain the power to reduce an award, if necessary, in order to bring it within the financial power of the company to pay it.

The only apparent chance of finding a formula for a settlement of their differences or the postponement of the strike lay in Governor Smith. He received at the Hotel Biltmore last night a committee of the B. R. T. employes, consisting of James Sheridan, Patrick J. Shea and Louis Fridiger. He listened to them and agreed to seek a further discussion with Judge Mayer, but made no further promises. Governor Smith tried unsuccessfully over the telephone to get in touch with Judge Mayer, and finally kept an appointment to go to the theatre, saying that he would continue his efforts later. The union leaders refused to say anything after their talk with the Governor.

Tie-up May Come Tomorrow.

Both sides issued statements yesterday for the purpose of explaining their positions to the public. The labor leaders held that the written agreement between the union and the receiver, which was drawn up to settle the successful strike of last Summer, bound both sides to unlimited future arbitration of differences and to unqualified acceptance of the awards by both sides. Judge Mayer took a different position, and asserted that the committee sought to induce the court to abdicate its function in their favor.

The members of the Amalgamated Association will hold two mass meetings in Brooklyn late to-night and early to-morrow morning to determine their course and an overwhelming vote in favor of a strike was predicted at their headquarters, if no way is found to-day to keep negotiations proceeding. A vote for an immediate strike may tie up most of Brooklyn to-morrow, though it was reported as possible that the strike date might be set some days ahead, in the hope of coming to a working agreement in the meantime.

The representatives of the traction company believe that conditions are very different this year from those which prevailed in 1919 and that the chances of breaking the strike are

HYLAN REPLACES TIERNAN AS JUDGE IN ECKERT INQUIRY

Police Sergeant Mentioned in Bootleg Murder Case Is Suspended by Order of Mayor.

DRY AGENTS ARE EXAMINED

W. P. Tiernan's Books Seized—Case Against Him Complete, Declares Shevlin.

ROSS GETS EVIDENCE TODAY

Prosecutor May Ask Extra Term of Federal Court—Katz Again Held as Murder Witness.

The investigation of the murder of Robert Eckert, chief of a band of Staten Island bootleggers, who was shot last Saturday morning, produced several sensational developments yesterday.

At the request of Mayor Hylan Police Commissioner Enright suspended from duty Police Sergeant John F. Smith of the West Brighton Station, up to several days ago assigned to special duty in the office of Joseph A. Maloy, District Attorney of Staten Island. Announcement of the suspension came from the Mayor's office in the form of a statement which declared the action was the result of "the alleged connection of a police officer with the liquor traffic on Staten Island."

Mayor Hylan at the same time announced that on Thursday he requested Acting Chief City Magistrate McGeehan to assign Magistrate George S. Simpson to the Stapleton Police Court in place of J. Harry Tiernan, County Judge of Richmond County, who was sitting in that court in the absence of Magistrate Frederick S. Mullen, who is ill.

The Mayor said he also had requested Police Commissioner Enright to assign additional detectives from Manhattan to aid in running down Eckert's murderers, as well as the bootleggers believed to have made Staten Island the central distributing point for contraband liquors.

Prohibition Agents Examined.

The Mayor's announcement came soon after District Attorney Maloy had finished a five-hour examination of William J. McGuire and James Weldon, prohibition agents who for five months were in charge of the work of suppressing violations of the Volstead act on Staten Island. Their examination was conducted in the presence of August Hasenflug, counsel to James R. Shevlin, Supervising Prohibition Enforcement Agent for this State; Chief Assistant District Attorney Norton and Captain George Sullivan, head of the Staten Island Detective Bureau.

At the conclusion of the examination Mr. Maloy said he would send the transcripts to Mr. Shevlin and Le Roy W. Ross, United States District Attorney for the Eastern District. He admitted nothing had been adduced to indicate the two agents had been connected with the Eckert murder.

"Mr. Norton and I are of the opinion that McGuire and Weldon know the men who committed the murder, however," declared Mr. Maloy. "McGuire admitted he had met Eckert on two occasions—the first time at Moloney's Hotel, where Eckert and his wife were introduced to him as 'Mr. and Mrs. Hayes.' McGuire said he did not know at the time that Eckert was engaged in the bootlegging business, and did not find it out until a short time before he caused the arrest of Eckert at Madison and Catharine Streets, in Manhattan, on a charge of being a fugitive from New Jersey in connection with his escape from the jail at Lake Hopatcong, following his arrest on a charge of stealing a motor truck load of whisky on the Lincoln Highway, near Newark."

District Attorney Maloy was asked if he had been informed of the reason for Mayor Hylan's request to Police Commissioner Enright to suspend Police Sergeant Smith.

"I don't think Sergeant Smith is connected with the Eckert case," he said.

"I did hear something about his being connected with a liquor case in some way, but I paid no attention to the report, because I know Smith is a reliable man. I did not receive any official word of his suspension from duty from the Police Commissioner or anybody else."

Hasenflug Reports to Shevlin.

Mr. Hasenflug left Mr. Maloy's office at St. George soon after 5 P. M. and immediately went to Mr. Shevlin's office to report on the examination. Later Mr. Shevlin announced that McGuire and Weldon had shown they were in no way connected with Eckert or his band of whisky runners.

"I had the utmost confidence in McGuire and Weldon before they went to Mr. Maloy's office," he said, "and the examination revealed that I was justified in my belief in them."

Mr. Shevlin was asked if anything had been developed by the special agents he had sent to Staten Island to investigate allegations that William P. Tiernan, brother of County Judge Tiernan, was connected with the illicit sale of three barrels of whisky to Henry Hugot, a St. George hotel proprietor, several weeks ago. He replied that four agents had intercepted "Willie" Tiernan and demanded the books and papers showing his sales and withdrawals of liquors under his wholesale "medicinal purpose" permit.

It was learned later that Charles R. O'Connor, State Director of Prohibition, announced that he had issued orders to have the permit held by

Naval Gunners Set High Score In Long-Range Battle Test

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Further details of navy target practice conducted during the past year, made public at the Navy Department, show that, while the short range battle practice scores were somewhat lower than a year ago, the efficiency of the major ships at long range practice under simulated battle conditions was greatly improved.

Firing by division at ranges up to 20,000 yards, the battleship scores, as finally tabulated, showed an average merit of 35.76 this year, as compared with 6.56 a year ago.

In day firing at long ranges for individual ships, the average merit this year was 44.46, the announcement said, against 32.07 last year, an improvement in the ratio of 139 per cent.

The short range director, or centralized control firing, also showed an improvement of 118 per cent. this year.

IRISH STRIKE TIES UP BRITISH SHIPS HERE

Heads of Demonstration Make Threat of Walkout in All Atlantic and Gulf Ports.

An Irish demonstration, started by five young women with banners who paraded before the pier of the White Star liner Baltic on her arrival yesterday morning, in protest against the action of the British authorities in removing Archbishop Daniel Mannix from the Baltic at Penzance, spread rapidly along the waterfront, involving several thousand longshoremen, coal passers and members of steamship crews. Before night it was estimated that 2,000 workers had quit, and the "vacationists" declared that they had tied up every British ship in port.

Threats of a general walkout on all British vessels and their piers in Atlantic and Gulf ports to hold the vessels until Terence MacSweney, Lord Mayor of Cork, was released from prison, and Archbishop Mannix was allowed to land in Ireland, were made by leaders of the demonstration.

The larger steamers affected by the walkout were the Baltic, Celtic, Olympic and Canopic of the White Star, and the Gothland and Finland of the Red Star, and the St. Paul of the American Line, all owned by the International Mercantile Marine Company; the Aquitania and the Pannonia of the Cunard Line, and several freighters at Pier 86, foot of West Forty-fourth Street. Of these five of the International Mercantile Marine Company and both of the Cunarders are due to sail today with passengers, freight and mails.

Unloading of Baltic Delayed.

The result of the walkout was to delay the unloading of the Baltic and the last of the cargoes on the ships scheduled to sail today. Most of this cargo will be left behind unless the men return t y. There was no trouble among the crews of the British ships. Officers of the Baltic denied reports that 130 firemen and water tenders had quit, and officials of the line said they knew of nothing that would prevent the sailing of the boats on schedule.

Officials of the International Longshoremen's Association said that as far as the unions were concerned, the strike was unauthorized, and that they knew nothing about it until after the men had quit. They predicted that the workers would be at their posts this morning at 7 o'clock, but the steamship officials were pessimistic and were planning to use their pier staffs for the baggage and mails.

Three American ships—the Finland, Gothland and St. Paul—were affected by the walkout, in spite of the protests of officials on the pier, who pointed out that the United States had nothing to do with Archbishop Mannix or the imprisonment of the Mayor of Cork and begged the men to respect the American flag.

Beef for American Army.

The pier superintendents also pointed out that the Finland was loading beef and provisions to be landed at Antwerp for the American army of occupation at Coblenz and asked that the longshoremen should not be taken off the work for fear that the supplies would be spoiled. The leaders of the demonstration were deaf to the arguments of the pier superintendents, however, and the men were called out. The beef had to be sent back to storage houses.

The Mauretania is due to dock at 10 o'clock this morning from Southampton and Cherbourg at Pier 56, foot of West Fourteenth Street, with a big crowd of passengers and mails. The Cunard officials have made arrangements to have the baggage handled by their pier staff, with the assistance of the crew of the ship. A wireless message was sent last night to Captain Arthur H. Rostron, informing him of conditions, so that the baggage would be ready and on deck before the liner docks.

Long before the Baltic was due to dock at Pier 59, foot of West Nineteenth Street, North River, several young women, carrying large banners, appeared in the street before the pier entrance. The police barred them from the pier, but they paraded up and down in front of the gate and called upon the longshore workers to join them in the protest.

COX DECLARES FUND REPUBLICANS SEEK IS FOR CORRUPTION

ACCUSES HAYS OF UNTRUTH

Declares if Chairman Says the Limit Is $1,000 "He Lies, and Knows He Lies."

SPEAKS OF IRISH QUESTION

Tells New Haven Audience League Does Not Prevent Any Race from Determining Its Destiny.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 27.—Governor James M. Cox, in addresses here today, followed up his charge that at least $15,000,000 was being raised by the Republican Party with which to "buy the Presidency," with the assertion that the fund was not a campaign fund, but a "corruption fund" and that a large number of those who were helping to swell it had axes to grind.

"And don't get it into your heads that they are stirred by patriotic motives," Governor Cox added, "for many of them who are writing the largest checks were home making their fortunes while our boys were over there risking their lives."

The Governor brushed aside the denials by the Republican National Chairman, Will H. Hays, and Fred W. Upham, Treasurer of the National Committee, as unworthy of serious consideration.

"I refer them to the Congressional Committee investigating campaign contributions," he said. "All they have to do is to call the right men and they can establish the facts."

He added that if Will H. Hays said that contributions to the Republican campaign fund had been limited to $1,000 he "lies and knows that he lies."

Hailed at a Shore Dinner.

Governor Cox returned to his attack on the Republican "money diggers," as he termed them, at a shore dinner given by the Democratic State Committee at a resort on the outskirts of New Haven. A crowd of 1,500 persons was packed into the pavilion and many more were unable to gain entrance.

When the Governor was introduced he jumped upon a table and stood there smiling while the crowd gave him a big demonstration.

"I hope you will pardon me for standing on the table," he said, "but I want to be situated so that I can see you and you can see me, and if I am elected President I promise that you always will be able to keep your eyes on me."

Governor Cox referred to the Irish question for the first time during his campaign, when he asserted that the League of Nations did not restrict in any way the right of free peoples to determine their destiny; that, in fact, that right was one of the fourteen cardinal points on which the League principle was based.

Told of Republican Converts.

When the Governor arrived here he was told by party leaders that his attacks on the Republican leaders and the campaign fund exposures had had a strong effect which promised to turn thousands of Republicans into the Democratic ranks in November. It was hoped that Senator Brandegee, arch-enemy of the League, would be defeated in his race for re-election, Governor Cox was told, and that Homer S. Cummings, former Democratic National Chairman, would be sent to the Senate to represent Connecticut.

Reports of the leaders here were that the women would be found strongly on the side of the League of Nations and would vote for Governor Cox. These reports squared with others received by the Governor in States in which he has campaigned.

After a cordial greeting at the station Governor Cox was driven to the Taft Hotel and was welcomed there by Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, who said he was prepared to announce, with Dr. Charles W. Eliot, former President of Harvard; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York and other prominent Republicans and independents, that he would support Governor Cox on the League of Nations issue.

"I speak as an independent and not as a Democrat," said Professor Fisher. "I have always voted an independent ticket, and this time I'm going to vote for Governor Cox. I find any number of the men who are spoken of as independents of the same mind. Therefore, I am convinced that through the country there must be a big movement from the Republican ranks to Governor Cox.

"There were so many interested on the situation," continued Professor Fisher, "that I went to see Governor Cox and Senator Harding to get their statements. After that I went to Murray Bay to see former President Taft, my honored friend and colleague, and I discussed the question thoroughly with him. I saw former President Eliot of Harvard, and George W. Wickersham, Attorney General in the Taft Administration.

Getting Independents Together.

"I found the independent voters anxious to band together in a Cox-Roosevelt Independent League. I am simply a clearing house to get them together. The league is not yet organized. Those who are most interested are planning to call a meeting soon and organize.

"I am not at liberty to mention the names of all who expressed their interest

ROOT'S PLAN FOR INTERNATIONAL COURT AS WASHINGTON RECEIVES IT IN OUTLINE; ITS FUNCTIONS INTERTWINE WITH LEAGUE

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—There is a strong impression here among those best informed who have followed the proceedings of the organizers of the proposed Permanent Court of International Justice, in which Elihu Root has taken so prominent a part, that a development of the plan will be that ultimately the supreme international court will apply the processes of law against would-be peace breakers much as ordinary courts issue injunctions to prevent infringements of national law. One argument heard here is that American objections to the covenant of the League of Nations would be dissipated by this proposal and that the League, with all the great countries in its membership, would thus become an effective force.

The authority for the formation of the new court under the plan recommended by the Jurists Advisory Committee is found in Article XIV. of the League covenant, which reads:

The Council shall formulate and submit to the members of the League for adoption plans for the establishment of a Permanent Court of International Justice. The court shall be competent to hear and determine any dispute of an international character which the parties thereto submit to it. The court may also give an advisory opinion upon any dispute or question referred to it by the Council or by the Assembly.

HARDING DEFENDS RAIL LEGISLATION

ADVISES WOMEN VOTERS

Completes Preparations for Speech Today Elucidating Stand on Foreign Policies.

Special to The New York Times.

GALION, Ohio, Aug. 27.—Facing a supposedly hostile crowd of 900 railroad men here today, Senator Harding told them the time would come when they would hail the Cummins-Esch railroad act as "the greatest forward step in all the history of railway legislation."

"Some of you do not approve," he said. "Some of you wished the Plumb plan. Let me look you in the face and let me tell you I think the Cummins-Esch act is the expression of the conscience of a Congress which sought to give highest service to the country.

"Some day, may be not this year, you railway workers will hail that law as the greatest forward step in all the history of railway legislation."

The Senator knew some of the men were hostile to the new railroad law and he anticipated some heckling, but none occurred. His plea for justice both to the public and railway men was heartily applauded.

"You're a brave man and you got away with it," one of the Reception Committee told Senator Harding as he entered his motor to return to Marion.

Nearly a thousand employes of all divisions of the Erie Railroad are billeted here at Camp Underwood for three days for athletic contests and prize competitions between fourteen railroad bands. A heavy rain early in the morning had converted the althletic field into a gigantic mud pie by the time the Harding party arrived. In view of the unfavorable conditions, the Senator's coming was not expected until afternoon, but the railroad men made hasty preparations and a crowd of between two and three thousand had gathered by the time Senator Harding was ready to speak.

Stands in Mess Line.

While Mrs. Harding dropped off in Galion for luncheon with friends the Harding party proceeded to Camp Underwood, climbed through a wire fence and wallowed across the athletic field to the mess tents. Senator Harding stood first in the mess line, while a band struck up "Hail to the Chief." The "chief," meanwhile, was hunting for a fork. Then occurred something no army mess line would have tolerated. The band crashed into "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Senator Harding seated himself at a pine table and bench in the mess tent with his plate of camp fare prepared by those who suspiciously resembled the haughty kings of a dining car. His search for a fork having been cut short by honors rendered by the band, the candidate observed a good, old agricultural custom by eating his pie held in his fingers.

"I regard play as having no small part in the building of citizenship," the Senator told the railroad athletes. "I am glad to make a campaign speech about play. Competition in play teaches the square deal.

"I am making no appeal in this campaign that I will not be willing to have tested by the standards that good, competitive sport has set up in all ages and among all men. I want only those behind me who are willing to play the game. We have had too much encouragement from Washington given to the men who wanted to cut second base or get something for nothing. In the first place, that is not the square deal to the rest of us and in the second place there is no way to make a delivery that is worth anything."

The crowd laughed as the Senator told

BOLSHEVIKI MAKING A STAND AT GRODNO

Battle Extending Over a 100-Mile Front to Brest-Litovsk Is Expected.

TROTZKY TAKES COMMAND

France Urges Poles to Gain Strategic Advantages Regardless of Frontier.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—The Bolsheviki are rallying after their disasters in Poland. Messages from Warsaw refer to the appearance of a new Red force of from 30,000 to 40,000 men in the northeastern battle area, which is said to have slipped past the Polish vanguard on the Lithuanian-German front, "to have turned Bialostock and to be marching on Lomza to the relief of the Red troops surrounded there."

The probable explanation is that the destruction of the Red right wing was less nearly complete than the Poles reported, and that considerable numbers succeeded in breaking through the Polish net. These have been joined by reserves north of the Niemen and, driven by Trotzky's implacable will, are now making a counter stroke against the Poles, exhausted by the long pursuit. It is a surprising manoeuvre, but this is an unorthodox war.

Poles May Have Weakened Left.

There is also reason to believe that, contrary to General Weygand's advice, the Poles have transferred a large force from their victorious left to their extreme right in Galicia, where Bodenny's horsemen have been ravaging rich territory. This may be the reason for Weygand's sudden departure, which has not failed to give rise to comment here.

It was known that only the extremity of danger enabled him to persuade the Poles to take troops from Galicia for the central counter-offensive that won the battle of Warsaw. Now that the immediate danger is over Pilsudski will have his own way again, and it may be that his insistence has caused the French General's departure.

Another suggestion is that Weygand found it impossible to restrain the Poles from an effort to carry the war into the enemy's country. In view of the assurances they are reported to have given the American State Department on the subject, this is less likely and, anyway, the Bolshevist rally in the north may prove a salutary corrective to any such dreams.

Despite vague reports of mutinies in the Red Army and of huge incendiary fires in Soviet Russia, there are few signs yet that the grip of the Bolsheviki on Russia is weakening. Bolshevism is now so firmly in the saddle that the assassination of one, or even two or three of its principal leaders would not bring it down.

High Hopes of Wrangel's Victories.

General Wrangel reports a great development of his action against the Reds in Cossack territories, and it seems that he offers the only possibility of the overthrow of the Bolsheviki. If he can withstand the influence of the numerous supporters of the old régime that are reported to be flocking to his standard and continue his wise policy of putting each section of the territory he wins under an orderly and liberal administration, he may ultimately achieve success. Western nations are likely to forget that time does not matter in Russia, and if Wrangel can utilize the next two months of grace that the Polish victory will have given him to consolidate his hold on the Cossack territories and the important Donetz coal basin south of Kharkov—where re-

LEAGUE IS ENFORCING POWER

BOYCOTT MIGHT FOLLOW

CALL SUBSTITUTE DIFFICULT

Washington Observers Fail to See How Harding Can Have Court Without League.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—THE TIMES correspondent is able to give an outline of the plan for the formation of a Permanent Court of International Justice drawn by the Jurists' Advisory Committee appointed by the Council of the League of Nations and submitted to the Council of the League at its sessions at San Sebastian.

In addition to its great international importance, the plan has a marked bearing on the domestic political situation in the United States. From the immediate American standpoint it derives its chief interest in the fact that Elihu Root, who was a member of the Jurists' Advisory Committee, is expected to submit the plan for a Permanent Court of International Justice to Senator Harding for the latter's acceptance as embodying the Republican scheme for preventing war by consultations between Governments, instead of the direct political machinery of the League of Nations.

There have been hints from Marion and elsewhere that "the Root plan," as it has been termed, would be put forward by Mr. Harding in opposition to the League provisions for maintaining the peace of the world.

Mr. Harding's virtual promise to remake the whole structure of the foreign policy of the United States is supposed to find its basis in this plan for the establishment of an international court.

Yesterday at Marion Myron T. Herrick, former Ambassador to France, who is just back from Europe, told the newspaper men that Mr. Root's return from The Hague would be followed by "an announcement of very important accomplishments that will go far toward clarifying the entire international situation," and he added, in response to a question, that he expected Mr. Root's work would be of "very great political significance"—political in the domestic sense.

Senator Harding will deliver a speech tomorrow in which, according to announcement, he will clearly define his foreign policies and will remove doubt as to where he stands concerning "an association of nations"—the term used in the League plank of the Republican national platform. He told a delegation of school teachers yesterday that his foreign policy did not contemplate that America should stand aloof from international affairs, but rather that we should remain free to act in accordance with American instead of international principles.

These remarks and other things that Senator Harding has said, and particularly his advocacy in the speech of acceptance of an "association of nations based on justice and moral ties," are held to have obtained a deep significance in the light of the information that Mr. Root is bringing from Europe a plan for an international court.

Doubt That Root Entirely Agrees.

The inference has been drawn that the Republican candidate will advocate an international policy involving the abandonment of the League of Nations and the substitution of an international court for the settlement of disputes between nations, whose decrees will be enforcible by the power of moral suasion and not by the application of physical force or kindred means such as the League machinery provides.

It is difficult, however, for those who know something of Mr. Root's attitude toward the League to believe that he will seek to have the Republican candidate propose the entire abandonment of the League and the substitution therefor of a court which will not have any backing of international action other than the insistence that nations are morally bound to accept its decisions. It is equally difficult for them to see how the so-called Root plan for an international court of justice can be disassociated from the League of Nations, as its functions dovetail into the League machinery.

The old Permanent Court at The Hague was a failure so far as its ability to prevent wars was concerned. It did not have behind it the power of concerted influence and action of the nations which subscribed to its organization. Any nation which refused to accept its decrees could not be compelled to accept them through the moving persuasion of the economic boycott, or a resort to force by all the other nations signatory to the treaties which provided for its establishment.

The new court provided for by the Committee of Jurists, of which Mr. Root was a member, goes several steps beyond the functions of the present Hague Court in its provisions for preventing wars, but the new court, left alone without the physical as well as the moral backing of the League of Nations, would be little more effective in imposing its rulings than the existing tribunal. At least that is the way the matter seems certain to be viewed if the question of accepting the new court as a substitute for the League of Nations becomes an issue in the Presidential campaign.

The plan outlined by the Jurists' Advisory Committee of the Council of the League of Nations was drafted at The Hague in the period between June 16 and July 24. It provided for a continuance of the present Permanent Court of Arbitral Justice and for the establishment of a Permanent Court of International Justice, directed to be formed by the covenant of the League of Nations.

Plan of New World Court.

The Permanent Court of International Justice is to consist of eleven judges and four alternate judges. These are to serve for nine years. The court is to sit permanently at The Hague, the purpose of the permanent sitting being that the tribunal shall always be ready to determine causes arising between Governments where questions strictly of a legal nature are concerned.

The Permanent Court of Arbitral Justice is to be continued as a body to arbitrate disputes between nations.

The judges of the Permanent Court of Arbitral Justice are to nominate the judges of the Permanent Court of International Justice, whose sittings shall also be at The Hague.

In the selection of judges for the new court, the jurists of each nation who are members of the Court of Arbitral Justice are to form groups, each group to choose not more than six candidates for recommendation to the League of Nations. Not more than two of the six candidates of each nation may be citizens of that nation.

In selecting its six candidates each national group in the present Permanent Court is expected to consult with the highest legal authorities of its own country, including societies devoted to the application and interpretation of international law.

In the case of the United States the members of the American group in the present Hague tribunal would consult, under the terms of the plan submitted, with the United States Supreme Court and probably with the American International Law Society and the American Bar Association.

Out of the long list of nominees thus provided for, numbering six for each nation, the eleven members of the Permanent Court of International Justice are to be chosen. The list will be submitted by the Permanent Court of Arbitral Justice to both the Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations. Each of the governing bodies of the league will vote separately on the nominations, a majority being necessary to election. To be elected, a nominee must have received a majority of both Council and Assembly. If the Council and the Assembly have failed through their agreeing majority votes to select the full number of judges, there will be another ballot. If, then, there would be a deadlock, each governing body will appoint a committee of conference of three members, and this joint committee of six will select a number of nominees to fill the vacancies. In this duty the conference committee is not to be restricted to choosing from the list submitted by the Permanent Court of Arbitral Justice at The Hague.

If the deadlock continues, the Judges already composing the new court are to fill the remaining vacancies.

The International Court of Justice is always to be open for adjudicating cases.

To Have Compulsory Power.

The court is to have the right to compel nations to accept adjudication within certain limitations defining the character of the cases to be adjudicated.

The decisions of the new court are to be founded solely on law and on fact, and the members of the court must not compromise.

To overcome the sensibilities of the Governments that the court might infringe upon their sovereignty in undertaking to adjust disputes, the Committee of Jurists followed the definition of proper cases for adjudication laid down in Article 13 of the Covenant of the League of Nations. This definition goes a considerable distance beyond prior definitions of what are to be considered justiciable international cases. The appropriate paragraph of Article 13 reads as follows:

"Disputes as to the interpretation of a treaty, as to any question of international law, as to the existence of any fact which if established would constitute a breach of any international obligation, or as to the extent and nature of the reparation to be made for any such breach, are declared to be among those generally suitable for submission to arbitration."

This provision avoids the danger that nations would reject the assumption by the court of the right to adjudicate compulsorily all or nearly all questions of differences between nations.

Any Government will have the privilege of bringing to the court any legal question that bears upon any of the matters defined in Article XIII. of the covenant. If the Government made defendant fails to appear, the court will hear the cause and render its judgment.

In determining cases, the court will be empowered to be guided by international agreements to which the nations involved are parties or which they have accepted, recognized practices accepted as international law, general legal principles that have been recognized by civilized nations, judicial decisions accepted by eminent jurists of various nations.

If a nation involved in a dispute before the court is represented on the court this will not exclude that judge from participating in the case.

If a nation which is a party to a dispute is not represented on the court it will have the privilege of naming a member of the court to sit in the adjudication of the case as a special judge for the occasion.

If any nation not a member of the League of Nations wishes to have a case adjudicated before the court it could qualify for that purpose by accepting the obligations defined in Article XVII. of the League covenant and by paying its proportional portion of the expenses of the adjudication.

Leaves Enforcement to the League.

The plan does not provide the means of enforcing the decrees of the court. That means is found in the provisions of the League of Nations covenant for concerted action to bring a recalcitrant nation to accept the dictates of the League.

In their consideration of the plan for the Permanent Court of International Justice, the members of the Jurists' Advisory Committee were confronted by the problem of providing the certainty that members of the court would be jurists of the most profound knowledge of international affairs and ability in the law, and the additional qualification of a conscientious sense of justice that would place smaller nationalities on an equality with the great powers in disputes between them.

This problem, it was believed, was overcome by the committee in its provisions permitting each nation, great or small, to have membership in the League of Nations, to act upon the selection of judges through its direct or group representation in the League Council and its direct representation in the League Assembly.

The nomination of those from whom the judges of the court are to be chosen by the Council and the Assembly is left by the Committee of Jurists to the national groups represented in the present Permanent Court of Arbitral Justice at The Hague. It was the conviction of members of the committee that in providing for nominations through this means there was assured the selection of Judges of the highest judicial character and reputation.

In this connection it was realized by the committee that one of the most serious weaknesses of previous international courts had been the failure to select Judges who would be acceptable alike to the smaller nationalities and the great powers.

With only eleven members of the court, a limited number of nations will be represented in the court personally, and in the organization of prior international courts the great powers had insisted upon direct representation, which was regarded by the smaller nationalities as a discrimination against them. In fact, the great powers followed the principle of excluding nationals of smaller nationalities from world courts. In consequence of this, the smaller nationalities refused to recognize these world courts, and to some extent this position was responsible for the failure of such international tribunals.

Recognition of Small Nations.

When the representatives of the great powers met at Paris to formulate the treaty of peace there was a full realization of the weaknesses of previous international courts in their failure to recognize the sovereign standing of small nations in the composition of the membership of these courts. The outcome of this realization was the recognition of small nations in the personnel of both the League of Nations Council and its Assembly.

The Council consists of representatives of five great powers, with the four other members jointly selected by the smaller nationalities which are members of the League. In the League Assembly each member Government, small or great, is to have direct representation.

Another problem that confronted the committee of tourists involved the question whether compulsory adjudication should be imposed in cases where a Government had refused to accept the court's position in such cases. The committee adjusted the problem through applying the principles laid down in Article 13 of the League covenant. A conclusion in solving this problem took into consideration the attitude of the United States Senate when it declined to ratify the treaties of arbitration with Great Britain and France negotiated under the Taft administration because the Senate considered that the expression "justiciable disputes" was too vague to permit the United States to be committed to it.

A fact of great interest in connection with the Jurists' Committee's adoption of the principles contained in Article 13 of the covenant is that these principles have been indorsed by Mr. Root before their incorporation in the covenant. It was Viscount Bryce, former Ambassador to the United States, who wrote this new definition in international law which recognizes the desirability of obligatory arbitration in the cases defined. The first draft of the League covenant had been accepted at Paris and published before the definition was furnished, and the fact that the definition was accepted by Mr. Root was in large measure responsible for its incorporation in the final draft of the covenant.

Articles of the Covenant cover matters within the jurisdiction of the Council and provide the machinery for submitting questions to the court for adjudication. The court serves in an advisory capacity to the Council, which is empowered by the covenant, under Article XIII., to "propose what steps should be taken" to give effect to any award that may be rendered by the court.

On the basis of what is known of Senator Harding's plan of an international body which he will advocate, it is supposed that the Harding substitute for the League of Nations will be based on the first paragraph of the League of Nations plank of the Republican national platform.

This paragraph was sanctioned by Mr. Root and is known as the Root plank. It avoids any reference directly to the League of Nations provided for in the Versailles Treaty, but speaks of an "international association" based upon "international justice." In a sense it is an indorsement of the association of nations for the purpose of preserving peace.

How it is possible, however, to create an international tribunal for preserving peace without some concrete association of nations to compel the enforcement of its decrees and rulings and the greatest interest is manifested in what Senator Harding will have to say in elucidating this point.

"Conference" to Prevent War.

The Roof paragraph of the Republican platform's League plank declares that "the Republican Party stands for agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world." It is also set forth that "such an international association must be based upon international justice and must provide methods which shall maintain the rule of public right by development of law and the decision of impartial courts, and which shall secure instant and general international conference wherever peace shall be threatened by political action, so that the nations pledged to do and insist upon what is just and fair may exercise their influence and power for the prevention of war."

Applying this declaration to the plan for the Permanent Court of International Justice devised by the committee of which Mr. Root was a member, it is inferred that Mr. Root's proposal will be that where the court has rendered a decision which a nation that is a party to it declines to accept, and war is threatened thereby, the nations of the world shall have an "instant and general international conference" to determine what should be done by them to prevent hostilities.

In other words, there would be no permanent "League of Nations" to impose its dictates upon a recalcitrant nation, but in each case where the International Court rendered a verdict unacceptable to one or more parties to the dispute, and war was threatened, the nations of the world would send representatives to an international conference to carry out a prior agreement among themselves "to do and insist upon what is just and fair" and "exercise their influence and power for the prevention of war."

It will cause surprise here if Mr. Root's plan shows that he has entirely abandoned the League of Nations. While the cryptic language of the Republican platform indicates that some other association of nations than that covered in the movement is contemplated by the Republican Party, it is felt here that Mr. Root was too definitely committed to the principles of the League, qualified by certain reservations, to be willing to advocate a complete disregard for the League machinery.

Therein lies the mystery of the complete details of the Root plan which may be disclosed by Senator Harding in his address tomorrow, or not until the arrival of Mr. Root from abroad.

In London, where great interest has been taken in the so-called Root plan, it is understood to embody the formation of the supreme international court which would have the power to apply the process of law against nations contemplating breaking the peace.

The court's action in this respect, it was believed in London, would be similar to that of the authority of an ordinary court to issue an injunction to prevent an infringement of the law. There is nothing inconsistent in this understanding with the plan drawn by the committee of jurists for the establishment of the Permanent Court of International Justice. The interesting question that remains unanswered is how far Mr. Root would be willing to go in having the nations of the world enforce the decrees of the court.

Whether the Republican Party will advocate an entirely new association of nations to take the place of the League of Nations, or will be satisfied to accept the League as at present constituted, subject to reservations by this country, is something that is known to few other than Senator Harding and Mr. Root. That some such association, whether the present League of Nations or another grouping of Governments, will be necessary to enforce the decrees of the new international court devised by Mr. Root and his associates at The Hague, is assumed by those who have studied the subject.

HARDING SILENT ON CHARGES

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 27.—Senator Harding refused today to discuss Governor Cox's speech at Pittsburgh last night giving his evidence that the Republicans were raising a "huge fund" to "buy the Presidency," and charging that the campaign for money had been approved by Senator Harding.

"I have read it hastily, and haven't a word to say," he said. "I do not expect to have anything to say."

There appears to be a disposition at Harding headquarters to leave all explanations of campaign contributions to Chairman Hays and Treasurer Upham of the Republican National Committee. With the exception of a conference with forty members of the Campaign Contribution Committee for Chicago several weeks ago, Senator Harding has had no conference, as far as can be learned, regarding campaign contributions since his return from Washington.

Members of the Republican Ways and Means Committee are expected here Sept. 4, when campaign finances will be discussed with Senator Harding.

The general belief at Harding headquarters is that Mr. Hays will have some important disclosures to make Monday, when, it is understood here, he will appear before the Senate investigating committee in Chicago.

COX TO AMPLIFY HIS CHARGES HERE

ASSERTS USE OF "DUMMIES"

Governor Spends an Hour in This City on His Way to New Haven.

Governor James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for President, was in New York City yesterday for an hour and five minutes, long enough to follow up his Pittsburgh speech with a declaration that he had more proof to offer in substantiation of his charge that the Republicans were raising a campaign fund of at least $15,000,000 to elect Senator Warren G. Harding. He said he intended to keep on talking about "slush funds" right up to Election Day.

Governor Cox said that in Indianapolis a year ago, he predicted the reactionary group in the Republican Party would attempt to return to Mark Hanna days and buy this election and that they would be defeated by their own money.

The Governor said it was a remarkable coincidence, if the quota of contributions to be raised by the Republicans in cities were never adopted, that within twenty-four hours confirmation of the quotas mentioned had been received from Cleveland, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, and that Fred W. Upham, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, had admitted the correctness of the quota for Chicago.

Call Hays's Statement Untrue.

Asked what he thought about the reported assertions of Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, that contributions to the Republican fund had been confined to $1,000 from each individual subscriber, Governor Cox said:

"Of course, when Mr. Hays makes that statement, he knows that he is not telling the truth.

"What happens is this. They get a 'big fellow' to give $20,000 or $25,000 and then put in nineteen or twenty-four dummies. That is the common practice."

The "dummy" subscription is understood to be one of the things Governor Cox has in reserve. The $1,000 limit for campaign contributions is Chairman Hays's pet project, adopted against some opposition for the purpose of meeting charges that the Republican funds came from wealthy men. Governor Cox is said to have evidence of several definite instances where "dummies" were used to cover subscriptions above the $1,000 limit.

Governor Cox's stay here was merely between trains at the Pennsylvania Station during his journey from Pittsburgh to New Haven, where he made two speeches yesterday. The Governor did not get out of his private car, which was switched from a Pennsylvania train to a New Haven train.

May Elaborate Charges Today.

Governor Cox intimated that he might elaborate on his fund charges in his speech this afternoon at the police field day at Gravesend, although, when asked about the matter, he said he had no set speech prepared. Asked if he intended to press his charges further, he replied:

"Yes, you will have new leads within a week, I think."

When told Mr. Hays had said his charge that sinister and corrupt influences were combining to buy an underhold on the Presidency was an insult to the Republican voters and the contributers to the Republican fund, Governor Cox smiled and replied:

"No one needs to worry about the sources of the Republican fund not being made public. I need make no apology for exposing so infamous a thing as this. The defense is up to Mr. Hays. I think all the facts will be made known to the public."

Governor Cox made it plain that he intended to press his charges.

"Here is the crux of the situation," he said. "The Senate investigating Committee has the lead. They can call Mr. Upham, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, and Mr. Blair, his assistant, and say to them, 'Give us the names of your State Chairmen.' You can then call the State Chairmen and say to them, 'Give us the names of your local Chairmen.' In that way they can go to the bottom of the whole thing. I have every confidence that the Senate Investigating Committee will do this."

Willing to Meet Committee.

Governor Cox was asked if he would appear before the Senate committee to substantiate in person his charges.

"I will if it is the desire of the committee," he replied. "I want to help in any way I can."

"I made the prediction before the Editorial Association in Indianapolis a year ago," Governor Cox continued, "that the reactionary group in the Republican Party would attempt to carry their party back to Mark Hanna days and that they would be defeated by their own money. I think in the light of subsequent events that at least a part of that prediction has already come true."

Governor Cox was asked about the scheme of W. D. Jamieson, director of finance of the Democratic National Committee, to raise a campaign fund of $5,000,000 or $10,000,000, which Mr. Jamieson broached and made some attempt to try out about a year ago. The Governor's answer showed he was prepared to accept all responsibility for any action by the Democratic National Committee since his nomination, but would disclaim any responsibility for happenings before that time.

"I came on board the Democratic ship on July 7," he said. "I know nothing about what took place in the Democratic organization before that time, but I will know everything that takes place since then. I can say, though, that I found not a Democratic campaign fund, but a deficit."

Private Car Arrives at 10:35.

The private car of Governor Cox, attached to the first section of the Metropolitan Express, pulled into the Pennsylvania Station at 10:35 A. M., while Governor Cox, his secretary, Charles E. Morris, and a group of newspaper correspondents were still at breakfast. Accompanying Governor Cox were Joseph Guffey, Democratic National Committeeman from Pennsylvania; Robert Scott, secretary to Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer; Edmond H. Moore, Governor Cox's pre-convention campaign manager, and Clarence Greer, Democratic leader of Dayton, Ohio.

There appears to be a disposition at Harding headquarters to leave all explanations of campaign contributions to Chairman Hays and Treasurer Upham of the Republican National Committee. With the exception of a conference with forty members of the Campaign Contribution Committee for Chicago several weeks ago, Senator Harding has had no conference, as far as can be learned, regarding campaign contributions since his return from Washington.

Members of the Republican Ways and Means Committee are expected here Sept. 4, when campaign finances will be discussed with Senator Harding.

The general belief at Harding headquarters is that Mr. Hays will have some important disclosures to make Monday, when, it is understood here, he will appear before the Senate investigating committee in Chicago.

resentative Augustine Lonergan and Sheriff Thomas L. Reilly, all of Connecticut, who accompanied him to New Haven. Oswald West, former Governor of Oregon, also went to New Haven with the candidate.

Student-Son Greets Candidate.

But it was not wholly a political reception that awaited Governor Cox here. At the station were James M. Cox, Jr., a student at a military academy, and Daniel J. Mahoney, son-in-law of the Governor and editor in charge of his newspaper during his absence from Dayton. Master Cox, Jr., in cadet uniform, sprang a sensation of his own when he announced to waiting newspapermen that he was going to accompany his father on his Western tour. Mr. Mahoney, however, interrupted to inform the youngster that he was mistaken—he was going back to school on Sept. 13.

Governor Cox, after finishing his breakfast, came to the rear platform of his car and faced a battery of cameras of both the still and motion picture variety. The Governor was patient and smilingly posed for nearly ten minutes.

"Take my boy, Jim, too," he said, and the photographers snapped father and son in a group picture.

The Governor then received about thirty newspaper reporters in his car and shook hands all around with the sixty or seventy persons who had gathered to meet him. Thirty or forty railroad men, who had heard of Governor Cox's arrival, joined the welcoming party. They set up a cheer as the Governor appeared and another as his car was coupled to a New Haven train and departed for that city.

THRONG TO HEAR GOV. COX.

Police Arrange to Handle Big Crowd at Gravesend Track.

Arrangements for the reception of Governor Cox at the police games this afternoon on the former Gravesend race track, Brooklyn, were completed last night at a council of police officials, who expect to be called upon to handle an immense crowd. A total of 355,000 tickets has been sold for the first games, all of which are good for admission today.

Every precaution has been taken to insure safety and comfort of the public along the route to the grounds, with an escort for Governor Cox, Governor Smith of New York, Mayor Hylan and other guests.

The procession accompanying Governor Cox to the track will include more than 500 autos and sightseeing cars. While the police are forming this procession Governor Cox will halt at Fortieth Street and Fifth Avenue and make a brief speech. It is expected that Governor Cox will begin his address at the track a 2 o'clock. By means of amplifying telephones the sound of his voice will be carried to all parts of the big field.

The Reception Committee appointed to meet Governor Cox on his arrival at the Grand Central Terminal was announced last night as follows:

Thor to keep the streets in that vicinity clear for the passage of Governor Cox and his party in automobiles.

KENYON PROMISES LIGHT.

Senator Says That Fund Investigation Will Satisfy Voters.

Special to The New York Times.

DES MOINES, Aug. 27.—Senator William S. Kenyon, Chairman of the committee investigating campaign funds, says that the decision whether or not to call Governor Cox before the committee rests with the committee as a whole, and is not for him to say. The Senator will take this matter up with the committee on his return to Chicago. This statement of his attitude came from Senator Kenyon last night.

The Senator is in his home State for several days visiting Senator Cummins and also making political speeches at farmers' picnics.

Senator Kenyon was shown the statement of the Republican campaign quotas as given out by Governor Cox. He read it over, but said he did not wish to comment upon it now outside of committee hearings, because the charges are still in abeyance and not formally presented to the committee. Senator Kenyon has several telegrams from Governor Cox, in which the latter says he can furnish leads to other information touching on the Republican campaign fund.

"The committee will delve into the campaign fund matter in a manner satisfactory to every American voter," the Senator said. "Whatever charges are made by Governor Cox will be thoroughly investigated. It will be for the committee to say just when Governor Cox will be asked to appear before it." Senator Kenyon intimated that as Cox had expressed a willingness to appear, he would probably be up to him to fulfill that expression." The Senator will be in Chicago Monday for further committee hearings.

WILL ENTERTAIN COX.

Candidate to Stay at Home of Ex-Congressman Fitzgerald.

After attending the police games at Gravesend today, Governor James M. Cox will go to the home of ex-Congressman John J. Fitzgerald, 881 Ocean Avenue, Brooklyn, where he will be Mr. Fitzgerald's guest until his departure for Columbus on Sunday night. Mr. Fitzgerald will give an informal dinner for Governor Cox at his home this evening.

HAYS INSISTS COX CHARGES ARE FALSE

Republican Chairman Also Retorts with Hint at Vast Administration Waste in War.

NO COMMENT ON "DUMMIES"

Leaders Would Offset Attack by Forcing Investigation of Democratic Contributions.

Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, declared yesterday before departing for Marion, Ohio, home of Senator Harding, that Governor Cox had failed to prove his charges against the Republican national organization because the charges were false.

Mr. Hays attempted something in the nature of a "backfire," when he said Governor Cox had such "intimate knowledge" of the wasting of millions in aircraft production in his State and that Mr. Roosevelt had such intimate knowledge of the burning of billions by the national Administration that they dream in millions.

Mr. Hays was informed that Governor Cox had said he was not telling the truth when he said that Republican campaign contributions had been limited to $1,000 each. He displayed interest when told Governor Cox had charged that dummies had been used on the Republican subscription lists to conceal the contributions of wealthy men, but would make no comment. In a statement on Governor Cox's speech, Mr. Hays said:

"Of course, Candidate Cox fails to prove, as he has failed to prove and will fail to prove, his charges. This is simply because the charges are false.

Reduced from $100,000,000.

"He says millions have been paid into the Republican National Committee by sinister influences to corrupt the electorate. He first is reported to have said a hundred million, then Secretary Roosevelt said thirty millions, then Candidate Cox said fifteen millions and now Candidate Cox says eight millions.

"He attempts to prove this by quoting from the official bulletin of the Ways and Means Committee of the Republican National Committee, a pamphlet published every few days and sent broadcast over the country to party workers every where and to newspapers, all to instill interest among the workers, and from an alleged quota sheet, which he claims indicates amounts hoped to be raised in certain cities, which he does not even charge was ever adopted or any operation had thereunder.

"Candidate Cox, himself a millionaire, has had such intimate knowledge of the wasting of millions in the aircraft production in his State, and Secretary Roosevelt has had such an intimate knowledge of the burning of billions by the Administration of which he has been an important part, that these men dream in millions.

"They will have a chance next week in Chicago to prove this insult to the thousands of good citizens all over the country who are contributing to the Republican Party. Incidentally, they will have a chance next week to indicate the source of their own money, both to their National Committee and other agencies outside of their National Committee raising money to try to aid in Candidate Cox's election."

Would Sift Democratic Fund.

It was learned at Republican headquarters that an attempt would be made by the Republican leaders to offset Governor Cox's attack at least in part by trying to get the Senate Investigating committee to make an inquiry into the Democratic campaign funds. A special effort will be made to have the committee investigate the activity of W. D. Jamieson, director of finance of the Democratic National Committee, to raise a large fund, work on which is said to have begun more than a year ago. It was asserted at Republican headquarters that the expenditures of the Democratic National Committee since 1918 had been much greater than those of the Republican National Committee and that an attempt would be made to have the committee investigate those expenditures.

Mr. Hays departed for Marion at 5:30 P. M. It was explained that he would take part in the Indiana Day exercises today and that he had arranged to visit Senator Harding's home city several days ago, before it was known that Governor Cox intended to offer proof of his charges at Pittsburgh. Delegations from the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth Congressional Districts of Indiana, known as the Indianapolis, Richmond and Muncie districts, are to visit Senator Harding, and Mr. Hays, as a patriotic Indianian, desired to be present.

Several days ago Mr. Hays announced he would leave here for Chicago on Sunday, arriving there on Monday morning to testify before the Senate investigating committee, but it was denied at Republican headquarters especially to confer with Senator Harding regarding Governor Cox's charge.

'NAILED TO THE CROSS,' SAY WHITE AND MOORE

Democratic Chairman and Ohio Committeeman Satisfied with Slush Fund Charges.

Complete satisfaction with the corroboration of the charge that the Republicans were raising a $15,000,000 campaign fund, offered by Governor Cox in his Pittsburgh speech, was expressed by Democratic leaders yesterday. George White, Democratic National Chairman, said Governor Cox had presented the indictment and it was for Will H. Hays, Republican National Chairman and Fred W. Upham, Republican National Treasurer, to explain to the Senate Investigating Committee.

Mr. White said Mr. Hays could not deny the authenticity of information taken from the official bulletin of the Republican Ways and Means Committee, and emphasized certain statements published in it, as "Get the money, put on the gas, step on it."

"Evidently meaning the accellerator," commented Mr. White, with reference to the things to be stepped on.

Edmond H. Moore, Democratic National Committeeman from Ohio and Governor Cox's pre-nomination campaign manager, said the Governor's speech had "nailed them to the cross."

Both Mr. White and Mr. Moore dwelt upon the fact that the Senate Investigating Committee, before whom will come the next most important development in the fund controversy, has a majority of Republicans. Mr. Moore, answering the assertion of Mr. Hays that Governor Cox had failed to show any collections from "corrupt and sinister sources," said this was now up to the "Republican Senate Investigating Committee." Mr. Moore said he expected the committee to discover the sources of the Republican campaign contributions, but added that Governor Cox would expose them if the committee did not.

Mr. Moore, who came here from Pittsburgh with Governor Cox, was asked at Democratic National Headquarters what he thought of Governor Cox's speech.

"Great speech," was the reply. "He nailed them to the cross.

SAYS COX TALKS OF 'DREAM MONEY'

Treasurer Upham Declares Republicans So Far Have Raised $225,292 in New York.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—"Dream money" was the characterization made today by Fred W. Upham, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee in Chicago, of the charges of Governor Cox that $15,000,000 was being raised by the Republican Party "to buy the Presidency."

Mr. Upham said he was prepared to go before the Senate Investigating committee and disprove Governor Cox's charges.

COX DECLARES FUND IS FOR CORRUPTION

in the movement or who expect to join in it. But I am at liberty to mention some of them. I name only those I consider Republicans or independents.

"Former President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard is very strongly in favor of Governor Cox on account of the League of Nations issue. Another is Miss Caroline Hazzard, a former President of Wellesley College, member of a very strong Republican family, whose brother was prominent in politics in New York. Miss Wooley, President of Mount Holyoke College, will be a member. So will Miss Catherine Lee Bates, professor at Wellesley.

"Another I am at liberty to name is Professor Charles Seymour, Professor of History at Yale, a strong Republican and the author of "The Diplomatic Background of the War," which Mr. Taft said was the most useful book written about the war. He was one of the experts who went from Yale to Europe with President Wilson and was greatly affected by the conditions."

Professor Fisher also named Professor J. W. Toumen, Dean of Forestry at Yale; Professor Schlesinger, head of the Yale Observatory; Professor F. R. Fairchild, Professor Sailers and Professor Gesell of the Economic Department of Yale. These men, he said, all might be listed as Republicans or independents.

There were three others not connected with Yale who would be found on the membership roll of the new league, said Professor Fisher. They were Theodore Marbury, American Minister to Belgium in the Taft Administration; Hamilton Holt, editor of The Independent, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

"I think that is about all there is for me to say now," he concluded, "but it illustrates the scope and spirit of the movement, which I believe to be widespread and a big factor in the campaign."

Addresses First Voters.

Governor Cox addressed a meeting of the Men's First Voters' Club at the Hotel Garde before starting for the seashore meeting. There were about 5,200 young men present, and they cheered him mightily.

"I have been especially pleased," he said, "with the enthusiasm with which the young men who are to cast their first vote are assuming their duty. They are facing it with the same spirit as they exhibited in the front line trenches. They are going to see to it that every man under the flag has an equal chance.

"I did not have the privilege of attending a great university like the one you have here, but I hold a diploma from the School of Hard Knocks, and I think that one of the first requirements of a President of the United States is to have had the experiences of the under man."

"We younger men must see to it that we make even a greater contribution to the future than did our fathers. While they accomplished great things, it is a horrible thought that the sons of man, millions of them, could be called to war and that the trenches ran with blood."

Visits Sick Soldiers and Sailors.

On the way to the seashore Governor Cox stopped for half an hour at the United States Public Health Service Hospital, where soldiers, sailors and marines who were stricken with tuberculosis in the World War are being rebuilt. After talking with several patients who are confined to their wards, he made a short address on the lawn.

"As a result of what I have seen today," he said, "I go away from here stronger in the resolve to give all of my strength in an effort to make wars impossible in the future. I am here as the Governor of one part of this great country to give assurance of the appreciation of Government to the men who offered their lives. There is in the hearts of all the people of the nation a gratitude which is never ending."

The Governor received a hearty cheer as his automobile drove away, and he called back a last word to the patients, telling them to keep up the fight until their health was won back.

Mayor Fitzgerald of New Haven presided at the meeting at the seashore, where Governor Cox went from the hospital. He opened the speaking by proposing a toast to President Wilson, and there was a ringing applause.

There were more shouts of approval when Governor Cox called upon the voters to defeat Senator Brandegee and send a Democrat to the Senate.

"Cummings!" shouted a man in the rear of the pavilion.

"Yes, Homer will look pretty good in the Senate," replied Cox.

Speaks on Irish Question.

Governor Cox treated the Irish question during his discussion of the League of Nations. There had been reports that pro-Irish agitators were prepared to heckle speakers at the meeting. In referring to this question he said:

"When the armistice was written it was based on fourteen cardinal points, and the major one of these fourteen points is self-determination in the matter of government by the people. The League of Nations does not abridge the right of any racial entity to determine its own destiny in the affairs of the world, in whatever part of the globe it may be.

"The League of Nations intends to establish international order and international peace. It was never intended to be, and never will be, an agency which will either restrain or discourage the same kind of emotions that stirred the American colonists in their fight for independence in 1776."

Governor Cox told the voters that he brought to them from the Middle West the assurance that the hosts of Democracy were marching to certain victory in the Fall.

He awoke his hearers to laughter and cheering by ridiculing the front porch campaign of Senator Harding and then made his attack on the "Senate oligarchy" and the raising of what he termed today "the corruption fund."

Takes Up Campaign Fund Charge.

The second break in the line of the opposition had been entered by the Democratic hosts at Pittsburgh last night, Governor Cox declared, referring to the statements he had produced in proof of his charge that a fund of $15,000,000 was being raised "to buy the Presidency."

"Leading the forces of the Independents, Democrats and Independent Republicans," he continued, "I marched into the first break in the line when the Republican nominee declared for a separate peace with Germany.

"The second break came at Pittsburgh last night. They had been going along with the work of gathering the greatest fund in the history of the world, this year of the Chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee has set to work a great force of men, State Chairmen, county Chairmen and traveling representatives, whom he refers to as 'money diggers.'

"I charge that at least $15,000,000 was being raised, Mr. Hays denied it, and said that the estimate was $3,000,000. Later Mr. Upham explained that the sum was $7,500,000. In my Pittsburgh speech I convinced every fairminded voter that Mr. Upham's figure could be multiplied at least by two.

"I repeat the charge now, and I shall continue to repeat it until Nov. 2. The Republican fund, not a campaign fund but a corruption fund, will not be less than $15,000,000."

Governor Cox asserted he was convinced that there was going on a great awakening of the moral thinking forces of the nation which not only would result in a triumph for Democracy, but would necessitate the entire reformation of the Republican Party.

"We have not got the money. We will not try to match their fund," he added.

Says Contributors Want Favors.

The Governor said he had heard the names of prominent men in Ohio who had sent their contributions to the Republican fund.

"The ones who have sent large checks," he added, "are the same who came to the Governor's office in Ohio—and what did they want? They wanted me to send out soldiers to settle labor disputes. I wouldn't send them.

"These men are attempting to buy an Administration that will favorably to their policies, and one of these policies is the use of the bayonet in the settlement of these industrial disputes."

Governor Cox warned the business men that such a course was short-sighted, as a readjustment based on such methods would not be lasting and an accumulation of wrongs would only bring on a multiplicity of wrath. The Democratic Party, he added, was pledged to a readjustment so made that the average man could regard government as an agency of justice.

Governor Cox told of his visit at the Public Health Service Hospital. Without exception, he said, the boys with whom he talked said that they had been stricken after going into the service. He had talked, he said, with one big Irishman, and had asked him how he had got along.

"He replied," said the Governor, "that, aside from being buried alive for some time he got along pretty well. I asked him how he felt about war, and he replied: 'Governor, we have had enough of it.'"

Cites Purpose of the League.

It was the high moral purpose of those who were advocating the League of Nations, Governor Cox said, that all nations should stop carrying concealed weapons, stop building warships and adding to armament. National debts could not be paid and stability brought about while such things were going on.

The Republican leaders, he added, had fought the League of Nations, not from any great moral reason, but for selfish ends.

"Ask the average Republican politican about it and you will find out what the trouble is," he said. "You will find out that it was because the almighty God, while this great conflict was going on, left him sitting on the bleachers."

There was a striking moment when Governor Cox spoke of a conversation he had had with "The Great Church Dignitary, the great spiritual leader of the war," whose name, he said, he was not at liberty to mention.

"Why is it that they are delaying, delaying and delaying?" He quoted the churchman as saying, "Don't they know that there is confusion everywhere, that the fires of Bolshevism are here, and that a danger is faced which has not been faced for centuries? Why do they not bring the war to an end?"

"I told him: 'If I am frank with you, Sir, I must tell you that they are attempting to add to the confusion and the woes of humanity so that when the next election comes they can blame it all on the party in power?'

"He shook his head and replied: 'Perhaps there won't be any election in 1920.'

"I am glad that he was wrong, but now the time has come to put the house in order."

Governor Cox said the women would vote heavily for the League because they knew what war meant, and this brought much cheering from the women

POSTAL BANK PLAN TO STABILIZE NATION

Expand System Tenfold and Money Will Be Released Is Eugene Meyer's Idea.

HE WOULD PAY 4% INTEREST

COULD PAY OFF U. S. DEBT

Banks Would Have Nothing to Fear from Competition, He Says—Social Value Important.

By the simple expedient of making ten postal savings banks grow where only one grew before, sufficient money would be released to finance all the housing necessary in the United States, as well as to cope with many industrial and financial problems which at present face the country, said Eugene Meyer, Jr., former Managing Director of the War Finance Corporation, who appeared yesterday before the Senate Special Committee on Reconstruction and Production at the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street.

Mr. Meyer proposed to increase the rate of interest on postal savings from 2 to 4 per cent. He would increase the number of post offices authorized to receive deposits from 6,500, as at present, to 55,000, the total number of post offices, branches and sub-stations.

While the Government has provided a Federal Reserve System to furnish financial assistance to the bankers and industries of the country, not enough has been done by the Government, he said, to furnish banking facilities to the great body of the common people. If the postal system of the country were developed and enlarged according to his plan, Mr. Meyer was confident that among the benefits to the country would be the following:

An actual direct saving of $1,000,000,000 a year.

Within one year sufficient deposits would accrue to pay off the floating indebtedness of the Government, amounting to $2,500,000,000. Subsequently, deposits could be increased to such an extent as to cover a large part, if not all, of the Victory loan of more than $4,000,000,000.

Hoarders would come forth with $250,000,000 in coin and currency which would be restored to circulation.

A saving of $200,000,000 a year by ignorant people whose money goes into the hands of swindling promoters and wildcat schemes.

A saving of $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 a year as the result of the inoculation of the spirit of thrift, as against extravagant expenditures now being made.

In speaking of his plan Mr. Meyer said he was impressed with the necessity of attacking the financial and industrial problems of the country at their source. He was convinced that the fundamental need was enlarged savings through increased production of necessities and essential construction work and reduced consumption of luxuries and the absolute importance of the Government safeguarding these savings.

U. S. Behind in Savings Deposits.

In the United States today only 565,000 individuals have Government savings deposits, he said, amounting to less than one-half of one per cent of the people of the country, a bare fraction of the possible number. While 11 per cent. of the people in the United States have savings banks accounts, he quoted statistics to show that in European countries about 42 per cent. of the population were savings banks depositors. The United Kingdom, with a population exceeding 42,000,000, has 17,260,000 depositors, or about 40 per cent. of the population.

Mr. Meyer thought the savings banks had nothing to fear from an extension of the postal savings system. He pointed out that the countries having the greatest number of savings bank depositors were those having highly developed postal savings systems. If it turned out, he said, that the plan would cause great withdrawals from the savings banks, provision might be made for this emergency and still all the objects of the proposal could be retained.

Of Social Value to Nation.

The attractive rate of interest would bring out $200,000,000 from hoarders. In addition, Mr. Meyer expressed the belief that important items outside of tangible cash issues would result from the proper extension of the postal system. Every man, woman and child has contact with the Government through the Post Office and by the proposed means the people of the country would take a greater interest in the Government and so become better and more patriotic citizens and law low the Bolshevist bogy. He pointed out the social value to the country and the individual of contact between the citizen and the Government by means of the postal savings system.

The extension of the postal savings system was the best single step, Mr. Meyer thought, that could be taken in the way of Americanization of the foreign population. He said that relief from the pressure of Government financing would result in the stabilization of business and would do much to offset the rapid contraction in business now taking place in some lines of industry with probabilities of widespread unemployment before long.

By stabilizing the finances of the Government in this way, the finances of business would also be stabilized, Mr. Meyer declared.

Senator William M. Calder, Chairman of the committee, told Mr. Meyer that the plan had a great deal of merit and promised to take advantage of Mr. Meyer's willingness to do all in his power to explain the plan to witnesses to be called by the committee. Mr. Meyer suggested a series of hearings on the subject to include the official of the Post Office Department, the Treasury, the Federal Reserve Board, savings banks, financiers and economists in general, as well as representatives of industrial, labor and farm organizations. Senator Calder promised that these hearings would be arranged.

Mr. Meyer was preceded by John L. Parish, Secretary of the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, who gave the results of a survey of the mortgage market in New York.

The Senate committee will meet on Monday and Tuesday in Boston.

Governors who have accepted invitations include: Lowden of Illinois, Philipp of Wisconsin, Norbeck of South Dakota, McKelvie of Nebraska, Carey of Wyoming, Stephens of California, Campbell of Arizona, Beeckman of Rhode Island, Sproul of Pennsylvania, Morrow of Kentucky, Harding of Iowa and Goodrich of Indiana.

COCKRAN ENTERS RACE IN T. F. SMITH'S PLACE

Eleventh-Hour Declination and Substitution Made in Race for Congress.

An eleventh-hour shift of candidates of more than usual importance took place last night when Representative Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall, filed his declination for designation as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Sixteenth Congressional District and W. Bourke Cockran was substituted in his place by the committee to fill vacancies. The retirement of Mr. Smith, of whom it has been known for a year or more that he desired to be withdrawn from his duties at Washington, was not unexpected. The selection of Mr. Cockran was regarded not only as a bid for the votes of the advocates of Irish independence, many of whom have become alienated from the Democratic Party, but as marking his complete restoration to membership in good standing in the Tammany organization.

COX TO SPEAK IN MICHIGAN.

Will Open Democratic Campaign in Lansing Sept. 3.

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 23.—Announcing that Governor Cox would address the convention of the Michigan State Good Roads Convention here on Sept. 3, Secretary Ray Canfield of the Democratic State Central Committee said today that the address would be "the opening gun of the livest campaign the Democrats of Michigan have waged since 1896."

The Democratic Party would have a complete State ticket in the field, Mr. Canfield said, adding that former Governor Ferris, candidate for Governor, would take the stump immediately after the Democratic State Convention, late next month.

Members of the State Central Committee, Mr. Canfield said, perfected plans last night to greet Governor Cox here next Friday.

CALL BRITTEN TO TESTIFY.

Senate Investigators Ask Proof of British Aid to Democrats.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. — Congressman Fred A. Britten of Illinois tonight was subpoenaed by the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee to appear before it Monday with proof of his charges made a few days ago that $87,000 appropriated by Great Britain for entertainment purposes at the embassy in Washington had found its way into the Democratic National Committee.

Congressman Britten tonight said that he would gladly furnish evidence in support of his statement.

"If the Senate Committee will inquire in the right direction, I am convinced it will find that most if not all of this $87,000 for 'entertainment purposes' has been going into newspaper and magazine publicity for the Democrats," he said.

"The appropriation was not really intended for entertainment but to further the League of Nations and the Democrats—in other words, to help Great Britain in this way."

DENY COX LIQUOR FUND.

Charge of Official Collusion with Bootleggers Is Rejected.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—W. W. Hindman declared tonight that there is no collusion between prohibition officers of western Pennsylvania and bootleggers to permit the sale of liquor for the purpose of boosting the campaign fund of Governor Cox, as Democratic Presidential candidate.

Mr. Hindman, who is the Prohibition Director for Pennsylvania, made this denial in commenting tonight on the statement given out yesterday by E. Huston.

Boston Man Sends $1,000 to Hays.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—A telegram sent to Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, by Charles Sumner Bird, says the latter has not been asked to subscribe for the Republican campaign, but authorizes the Chairman to call on him for $1,000, which he understands is the limit accepted from one person. Mr. Bird adds that "every dollar honestly applied to insure an overwhelming and decisive Republican victory will be to the advantage of the American employer, the American wage earner and the American people."

PREMIER IS BESET WITH IRISH PLEAS

He Is Accused of Overriding "King's Desire to Show Clemency to MacSweney."

MAYOR MAY LIVE A WEEK

Two Girls Are Burned to Death in Incendiary Fire at Dundalk—Belfast Riots Subside.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Premier Lloyd George, at Lucerne, is being bombarded with appeals in behalf of Terence MacSweney, Lord Mayor of Cork, who is on a hunger strike in prison here.

The general tenor of the appeals is that a show of clemency in this case will open the gate for reconciliation with Ireland, while a refusal would have the opposite effect. A strongly worded letter from James O'Grady, Member of the House of Commons, also has been received.

"The test of your sincerity in desiring a reconciliation is unconditional release of MacSweney," says Mr. O'Grady's letter. "If you refuse this, then be damned to you and your Government."

Timothy M. Healy, former Member of Parliament, in a letter to the Dublin press, angrily accuses Premier Lloyd George of overriding the King's desire to show clemency in the MacSweney case. He declares that the Premier "by closing the gates of mercy with a clang has made a more perverse, ignorant and lawless invasion of the authority of the Crown in Ireland than any man in arms against it."

Bishop Daniel Cohalan of Cork has written a strong appeal to The London Times, urging the release of Lord Mayor MacSweney, saying his imprisonment offends all sense of justice.

"The offense charged to the Lord Mayor has no substance," says the Bishop's letter. "The sentence has no moral sanction and is a manifest injustice."

The Bishop points out that pacification of Ireland would be rendered more difficult through harsh treatment of the Lord Mayor.

Commenting on existing conditions in Ireland, Bishop Cohalan says the Government has resumed a Balfourian policy. "It is now a familiar and true aspersion that government in Ireland is government by imprisonment, by deportation, by arson and by murder," he concludes.

Mayor MacSweney's condition was unchanged tonight. He was very weak and one of his relatives remained almost constantly at his bedside. The Lord Mayor today began his fifteenth day on hunger strike.

It was said that Mayor MacSweney might live another week, if his lungs have not been attacked as a result of a previous illness.

DUBLIN, Aug. 27.—A large congregation gathered at the Cathedral here this morning for a special mass of intercession, celebrated in behalf of Lord Mayor MacSweney of Cork, who is on a hunger strike in prison in London.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin and the members of the City Corporation attended, and several hundred dock workers suspended labor, marching to the Cathedral to participate in the services.

A military lorry was attacked today at Cahermore, near Middleton, County Cork.

The driver of the lorry was killed and an officer and two privates were wounded.

CORK, Aug. 27.—A fierce though brief battle was fought early this morning at Clonakilty, a seaport southwest of Cork, when fifty men attacked a small garrison in the police barracks.

The attackers poured a heavy rifle fire into the building and one bomb was thrown.

The police returned a steady fire and the raiders were forced to withdraw. No casualties were reported.

DUNDALK, Aug. 27.—Two salesgirls and one salesman were burned to death in stores of two Protestant Unionist tradesmen in Dundalk early this morning.

The buildings were set on fire, and likewise the homes of the owners of the stores were burned.

Other clerks in the stores were able to make their escape, but the fire spread to adjacent property, including the Ulster Bank, which was damaged.

The assertion is made that the fires were started in reprisal for the destruction of property of Catholics in Lisburn and Belfast.

Rioting Ceases in Belfast.

BELFAST, Aug. 27.—John Leonard, a taxicab driver, and James Montgomery and Vincent Montgomery, were formally remanded to prison here today on a charge of murdering Police Inspector Swanzy last Sunday.

Leonard has been in custody since the shooting of the Inspector. It is alleged that his car was used by the assassins.

The riots of the last few days in Belfast ceased after 2 o'clock this morning and a portion of the military was withdrawn from the streets, special constables patrolling the thoroughfares.

Last night's casualties included one person killed and a considerable number wounded. The military had to fire repeatedly in Newtownards Road, where snipers fired on the soldiers in the darkness.

Enormous damage was done by fires, of which there were twenty between 6 o'clock last evening and 1:30 o'clock this morning.

Including the casualties reported in the first day's renewed rioting at Belfast on Tuesday night and Wednesday, the death roll now stands at three, with more than thirty wounded.

Altogether, forty-eight incendiary fires have been reported.

TAKE IRISH PLEA TO COLBY.

Women Fail to See Him, and He Refuses to Intervene.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—A number of women who have been active in connection with the Irish freedom movement here failed today in their effort to lay before Secretary Colby a protest against the continued imprisonment of Lord Mayor MacSweney of Cork. After waiting several hours to see Mr. Colby the women went to the White House, but found that officials there also were out.

The group was headed by Mrs. Gertrude Corless, who said that a cablegram had been received from Mrs. Hana Sheehy-Skeffington, recently named a "Justice of the Irish Republican Supreme Court," asking the newly enfranchised women of the United States to urge action in behalf of Lord Mayor MacSweney.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 27.—The Reverend Sister MacSweney, a sister of the imprisoned Lord Mayor of Cork, connected with a religious school here, has been informed by the State Department that no official action toward her brother's release is possible by the American Government as he is not an American citizen.

She telegraphed Secretary Colby yesterday urging such action.

MAKES PLEA FOR HARDING.

Chairman of Defense Society Asks Support for Republican Ticket.

Support of Senator Warren G. Harding and Governor Calvin Coolidge, Republican nominees for President and Vice President, is urged by Charles Stewart Davison, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American Defense Society, in a letter to officers, members and contributors made public yesterday. The society was mentioned by Governor Cox in a recent speech as supporting the Republican nominees under the guise of a patriotic organization.

Mr. Davison says in his letter that of the candidates presented by the political parties Senator Harding "most fully represents in his views the aims to foster which the American Defense Society was instituted and for which it has contended throughout its existence, and quotes the latter's speech before the Ohio Society here as follows:

"It is fine to idealize, but it is very practical to make sure, that our own house is in perfect order before we attempt the miracle of Old World stabilization."

Mr. Davison also quoted Senator Harding, as follows:

"I think it is an inspiration to patriotic devotion—to safeguard America first, to stabilize America first, to prosper America first, to think of America first, to exalt America first, to live for and revere America first."

Mr. Davison says Senator Harding's opposition to the dangerous doctrines which lead to Bolshevism is well known.

Officers of the American Defense Society, which has its national headquarters at 116 East Twenty-fourth street, include Madison Peters, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Robert Appleton, Treasurer; Clarence S. Thompson, Secretary, and David Jayne Hill, William Guggenheim, Perry Belmont, Charles S. Fairchild, Charles J. Bonaparte, Henry B. Joy and Dr. William T. Hornaday, honorary Vice Presidents.

LAUD CORK MAYOR AT PROTEST MEETING

SHIP STRIKERS TAKE PART

Stokers from British Liner Cheered as They March In — Resolutions Urge Colby to Save MacSweney.

Irish men and women strained the capacity of the Lexington Opera House last night at a meeting that began as a protest against the imprisonment of Terence MacSweney, Lord Mayor of Cork, and wound up by being also a spirited outburst against the failure of the British Government to permit Archbishop Mannix to land at Queenstown.

From the moment the gathering formally was called to order by Frank P. Walsh, Chairman of the American Commission on Irish Independence, and former Joint Chairman of President Wilson's War Labor Board, who presided until the end, shortly after 11 o'clock, there was no doubting the enthusiasm of the occasion.

The highlight of the evening was the arrival in a body of about fifty stokers of the steamship Baltic. They marched in carrying banners abusive of the British Empire, while the audience howled. After a demonstration that lasted about ten minutes Mr. Walsh said:

"We are standing at the dawn of a new era. These men who have marched on the stage tonight symbolize the resistless force of labor in the world. Tomorrow are advertised to sail from the greatest harbor in the world three mighty ships—the Baltic (apparently an error for the Celtic), the Olympic and the Acquitania. They (the British Empire) may realize the real power that comes from the stoker's hold. Stokers are opposed to murder and piracy on the high seas. They will not be part and parcel of the murder of the Lord Mayor of Cork."

A moment later he said that yesterday's editorial in THE NEW YORK TIMES on "Irish Moderates and Others" was the first time that assassination had been preached in the United States. Immediately there was another noisy demonstration in which "Picket THE TIMES" was among the mildest of the exclamations.

Striking Firemen Attend.

Other delegations of strikers from the holds of British ships in the North River and of striking longshoremen came into the meeting at intervals. Perhaps a hundred of these were seated on the stage. Others were in the audience. All were greeted with great enthusiasm. They were brought uptown in Fifth Avenue buses chartered for the purpose.

Eamonn de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," said in part:

"If I were in MacSweney's place I would like to have some one speak for me. MacSweney will die if he does not get his liberty. If MacSweney dies in an English prison 100,000 Irishmen are ready to do the same thing. They (the British) tell us it is a suicide, but he dies like a soldier and his death is at the hands of the enemy. He is offering his life just as would a soldier on the battlefield. England may do what she will with MacSweney's body, but MacSweney's spirit will triumph over that brute force and make Ireland's cause victorious.

"MacSweney doesn't wan to die, as no sane man looking on the sweetness of life does, but he is making a sacrifice for the greatest principle in the world—liberty. This same spirit in the 100,000 (Irish Sinn Fein) will be dead when brute force is dead.

"Tonight 2,000 men left English ships. One hundred and fifty who left the Baltic were native-born English. They are protesting against murder and piracy on the high seas."

After de Valera, Dudley Field Malone and Liam Mellows spoke, Malone started a subscription to care for the longshore strikers with a donation of $50 and applause. Receptacles were heaped with greenbacks and silver, but no announcement had been made from the platform as to the total of the collection when the meeting broke up.

Pastor Addresses Overflow Meeting.

While the speeches were being made inside, the Rev. John H. Dooley, pastor of Corpus Christi Roman Catholic Church, addressed overflow gatherings outside. A number of policemen and detectives who were present to keep order had little to do except to prevent more from entering the hall after it was estimated 3,500 had passed inside.

Just before the meeting adjourned the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas the British Imperial Government in the continuation of its centuries-long war against the Irish people has selected one of the elected members of the elected Government of Ireland—the Lord Mayor of the City of Cork—as the first victim of the eighty-eighth and most brutal Coercion act it has yet applied to Ireland; and

Whereas the said Lord Mayor of Cork, denying the right of a usurping and foreign Government to impose its will upon the Irish people, has resisted imprisonment at the instance of that foreign Government with the only weapon left in the Irish people's hands—the weapon of the spirit; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, American citizens, in mass meeting assembled in the City of New York, express our admiration of the gallant sacrifices being made by the people of Ireland in their magnificent fight for liberty; and in particular we express our appreciation of the heroic stand for principle now being made by the Lord Mayor of Cork, and we congratulate him on the opportunity that has come to him to win a moral victory that will ring round the world; be it further

Resolved, That we ask our Secretary of State Colby to use his good offices to prevent the murder of Mayor MacSweney of Cork.

HOOKER SPEAKS IN MAINE.

New Yorker Attacks Administration for Unpreparedness.

SOUTH GARDINER, Me., Aug. 27.—Unpreparedness, both in war and in peace, was charged against the Democratic Administration in a campaign speech here tonight by Elon H. Hooker of New York, who was a contender for the New York State Gubernatorial nomination.

"We have been in the maze of unsound thinking, finely drawn phrases and involved deductions which serve for the exercise of parlor wit rather than the basis for the strong realities of life in these cataclysmic years," he said.

"It is my individual belief," he said, "that a study of the population, wealth and areas of the countries covered by our responsibility under the Monroe Doctrine will show that the United States is bearing a larger share of the world's burden of responsibility than would have been our proportional allotment under Mr. Wilson's proposed corporation. On the other hand, our traditional policy leaves us free members of the family of nations and not involved in other people's quarrels except of our own volition."

GARDEN CITY, L. I., Aug. 27.—After Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Gaillard had been held in $5,000 bail each for the Nassau County Grand Jury on the charge of grand larceny, Chief of Police Conran gave out a list of the homes alleged to have been robbed by the couple while they were working as cook and butler.

With Mrs. Thomas Hilliard of Pelham, N. Y., Chief Conran today visited the house at New Rochelle where the Gaillards were said to have hidden their loot and Mrs. Hilliard took away an automobile full of household goods which she said had been taken from her home. According to Chief Conran, the Gaillards admit having stolen between $10,000 and $15,000 worth of bric-a-brac, silver, linen, paintings and other household goods. They told him they had taken most of the booty to their home in New Rochelle.

According to the police, the Gaillards said they had worked in the last three years for C. F. Stead of Nassau Boulevard, L. I.; Jonathan Godfrey of Fairfield, Conn.; Marshall Stearns of New Canaan, Conn.; Mrs. Thomas Hilliard of Pelham, and George B. Brewster of Jericho, L. I. Several other persons telephoned to the police here to report similar thefts after the last employer of the Gaillards, J. William Morrison, had complained to the police that household effects and a bottle of whisky were missing from his home.

5 TO 10 YEARS FOR KIDNAPER

First of Veronica Flynn's Assailants Is Sentenced.

After Judge Nott and a jury in General Sessions yesterday heard the story of the kidnapping of Veronica Flynn, 17, who was seized on a North River pier at Twenty-fifth Street, carried to a boat and held a prisoner for many hours, James Garrity, 21, of 500 West Twenty-fifth Street, was convicted and sentenced to five to ten years in prison. He was the first to be tried of seven alleged assailants of the girl, all of whom were arrested when Miss Flynn escaped from the boat and appealed to a watchman on the pier to help her.

"The attack on Miss Flynn," Assistant District Attorney Markewich told the court, "was the most brutal that has ever been called to my attention. I ask the court to impose the maximum sentence."

On June 14, Miss Flynn, who had come to this city with her mother from their home at Tamaqua, Penn., got permission to visit the waterfront to see the ships. She was walking toward the land end of the pier, intending to return to the home of friends where she and her mother were guests, when three men seized her.

FIUME ENVOYS IN ROME.

Ask Recognition as Free City, Since Efforts to Join Italy Fail.

ROME, Aug. 27.—Premier Giolitti today received a delegation from the National Council of Fiume, which sought to have the independence of that city declared.

It was stated that the Fiume Government, having abandoned its long cherished desire for annexation to Italy as impossible under present conditions, was anxious to end a situation found to be injurious to both Italy and Fiume by separating entirely.

of his youthful ambitions to become a locomotive driver, how he had helped "wood up" on the old Atlantic & Great Western and the Bee Line before the days of coal burning engines, and how he once drove in a locomotive to Cleveland with "villages seemingly only a few rods apart and road crossings so close that fly screens seemed loose laced."

"I have never been ambitious to be a driver since then," he confessed.

Tells of Concern for Workers.

"Let me tell you the things which are in my heart about railway employment," he said. "No matter what any one tells you, no matter what your own erroneous impressions are, no thoughtful man in business or private life, no earnest man in public life is without a deep concern for the good fortunes of every railway worker, in the shop, in the yards or office, on the track or on the trains—every man in the service. We may differ about the way to better conditions and the assurances of soul and contentment in your work, but we are agreed about the ends at which we aim.

"I believe railway workers ought to know the best conditions and be as abundantly compensated of any wage earners in our modern activities. I am not thinking of the rail workers alone. I am thinking of the American public.

"Transportation is the great necessity of modern life. We could not have our present day methods without it. The sustenance of the cities and their millions depend upon it, the good fortunes of the agricultural world are inseparable therefrom. There is nothing else on which we are so reliant. As a publisher I want to know that my paper supply is coming promptly and the printed papers speedily carried to those at a distance who read them. When one travels he not only wishes to go speedily but he wants to, ride safely. The work of transportation, high or low, is the surpassing organization of a continent linked in intimate, neighborly association. This is why it must be highly regarded and know the best working conditions.

Promises Justice to All Classes.

"Time does not admit more than a reference to workers' interests. Let me ask what the great force of railway workers must wish—wish for themselves and are willing to concede to others. Justice, is it not? Justice is the underlying foundation of civilization, justice is the inspiration and compensation of all endeavor. And the Cummins-Esch act has aimed at justice, full, complete and instant justice for the railway wage earner; justice on appeal and hearing without having to fight or measure strength; justice without inconveniencing the American people or hindering their transportation or suspending railway activities.

"I like to think of an era in public service where Government means not only to guarantee but to bestow prompt justice on the workers in a public service, not grudgingly yield it in an hour of apprehension and concern. Your service is not that of workmen in a private and competitive enterprise. No matter what old abuses prevail, no matter what crimes were once committed, capital and its issues and compensations are under Government control, rates of charges are also under Government regulation, and I want continuity of service, a Government guarantee, assured because your Government and the people's Government makes your just treatment its first concern.

"You wouldn't wish your Government to do more, because you want just government for all the people, not a Government yielding to class. Our thought must be more than one of today. Most of the railway workers have sons and daughters who will choose other pursuits in life. A reassuring contemplation of the morrow sees a Government which ever thinks of all the people and seeks to add to their common good fortune."

Henry P. Davison, partner in the Morgan firm, with F. D. Underwood, President of the Erie Railroad, conferred with Senator Harding for nearly an hour after his return from Galion this afternoon.

"My visit had no political significance," Mr. Davison said. "I merely stopped over in Marion on my return from the West to New York to see Senator Harding and renew my acquaintance."

"Will you support Senator Harding?" Mr. Davison was asked.

"Certainly," he replied.

"Do you know whether your partner, Thomas Lamont, is a Harding supporter?"

"I really cannot say," Mr. Davison answered. "I haven't seen Mr. Lamont since Senator Harding was nominated."

Celebrates Suffrage Victory.

Fifteen hundred women of Marion County, members of suffrage organizations and Women's Harding-for-President Clubs, marched to Senator Harding's front porch tonight in celebration of ratification of the Federal amendment, and to express their gratitude to the Republican candidate. About 2,500 Marion citizens were crowded in the darkness of the Harding lawn, while the front porch, the scene of a night delegation for the first time in the campaign, was illuminated as brilliantly as a stage.

"I rejoice with you in the coming of suffrage to the woman citizenship of America," said Senator Harding. "I do not mean to credit myself with a very exceptional part in bringing this about. In a small way, more because of the fortune which came to me at Chicago, I may have had some part in bringing about ratification.

"I have not played the part some of the more insistant advocates of suffrage would have had me play, for I don't believe in trespass of power or unbecoming assumption of authority, but I have frequently said and have asked my supporters: 'Bring about ratification.'

"I hail the new era of citizenship for the women of America—not because of some of your representatives, but because of justice due the women of America.

"You will meet your obligations by joining political parties. I should regret to see segregated women parties. We always have had two great parties, and I hope we always shall.

"But I am glad that I belong to what I believe will be the winning party. I have no apprehension of the prejudices of woman related to incidents bringing about ratification. How silly that would be! No man would be guilty of this, although some men might have thought of it.

"There would have been no ratification in Tennessee without some of the Republican members of its Legislature, and there would not be any use of Tennessee if the way had not been directed by twenty-nine Republican States.

"The biggest business of politics now is the preservation of the nationality of the United States of America. And I stand for this, my countrymen all."

Pays Tribute to Colonel Harvey.

Turning to Colonel George Harvey on the front porch behind him, Senator Harding said:

"Some of us in the Senate are proud of our service in saving our nationality. I now want to introduce one of my guests, one who probably had more to do in awakening the soul of America than any one outside of official life, a man whose clarion call to America sounded throughout the Republic and who, I believe, writes with the most trenchant and convincing pen of any man in the country—Colonel George Harvey, an outstanding American."

The crowd cheered Colonel Harvey heartily.

"Sister Democrats," Colonel Harvey began. "I am a Democrat, and I am probably the only real Democrat left east of the Alleghanies. I say this because my party left me some time ago.

"How am I going to prove my democracy? I am going to vote, write a little, and say a few things in favor of the election of the biggest, broadest and bravest American I know—Senator Warren G. Harding."

Senator Harding's speech on international affairs, which will be delivered tomorrow afternoon from his front porch to the Indianapolis Harding-Coolidge Club, was completed this morning before the Senator left for Galion. Those who have seen the speech pronounced it the most important utterance Senator Harding has made since his nomination, ranking it above his acceptance speech. It is said that Senator Harding has taken great pains to so express himself that there shall be no doubt as to what course he would pursue in foreign relations should he be elected.

imprisonment of MacSweney seemed to be the chief cause of protest. One woman cried: "Will you stand back and see MacSweney killed by the British Premier? Will you see the Mayor of Cork suffer in jail?" There were cries of "No, no." "Are you going to resent the insult to Archbishop Mannix and his arrest by British detectives? If you are, then quit your jobs now, and we will tie up every British ship in port."

Some of the placards read: "Mayor MacCurtain foully murdered; Mayor MacSweney dying, thrown into Brixton Jail. England has said: 'Let them die.' The British Consular Offices told the world that they get a great deal of amusement out of it. Independent American citizenship says: 'Nero fiddled while Rome burned. Stop, look and listen. Americans, stand by.'"

"When Mannix goes to Ireland let the Baltic leave New York."

Ignore Guard and Gatemen.

After the Baltic's passengers had stopped streaming out of the pier gates with their baggage, the five pickets, at the head of about 200 idle longshoremen, suddenly turned from the sidewalk and marched in through the gate, Pier 59, where the Baltic and the Olympic were made fast. It was during the dinner hour, between 12 and 1 o'clock, and only two gatemen and a customs guard were there to try to bar them from the pier. The women were asked where they were going. "Oh," said one, "we just want to get a peep at the big ships." "Never mind him, shove on," called one of the longshoremen from the rear, and the march was resumed.

The paraders went out to a point between the two ships and tried to get at some of the ship's firemen, who had just come up from their dinner to have a smoke. The firemen listened to the pickets, but stayed on their jobs. A few minutes later, however, about 500 longshoremen came back to work. Here was a more fertile field. One of the women got upon a truck and made a violent speech, ending with an appeal for all the pier workers to quit as a protest.

There was an immediate rush of the longshoremen to join the demonstration and a minute later the paraders, with a doubled force, marched off the pier, leaving it empty of workers. Then there were cries of "Let's go to the next pier." So the march continued, from one pier to another, with a steadily increasing force of paraders. Then the marchers went back to pier 58, where the Atlantic Transport liner Minnekahda was loading.

About 1,200 Quit Work.

After they had covered all of the International Mercantile Marine piers the "vacationists" went to the Cunard Line. By this time they had about 600 marchers, but there were many others who had quit work and were standing in the streets, making in all a total of about 1,200 strikers. Apparently the longshoremen had quit 100 per cent.

About 500 longshoremen and 100 "coalies" quit on the piers of the Cunard Line. From here the Irish sympathizers went to the Anchor Line, where about 100 workers on the liner Calabria and two freighters joined in the demonstration. Then they went up to Forty-fourth Street, where there were a British and French freighter docked. They took about 100 more men from the pier, tying up the French boat as well as the British.

James Lynch, organizer for the Marine Firemen, Oilers and Watertenders' Union, said the men on all British ships from Galveston to Portland would be called out.

Among those who joined the walk-out were 100 negro longshoremen, who were employed in loading the steamer Norman Monarch of the Cunard Line. They formed in the rear of the parade and followed pickets along the line of march.

to all the splendid women of America and especially the efficient committees of New York and Pennsylvania who stood the storms of opposition and succeeded in amending the Constitution of the United States to give women the right to vote.

For many years past the old men, the rich men, the slackers, who never voted on a rainy day, have left the elections in the hands of the millions of young men of the cities, States and Nation.

The coming to the front—and staying there—of the noble women of each State has brought on this day of a just and righteous freedom which has dawned upon the United States.

It ushers in the new era devoutly prayed for.

It raises a golden star of hope in the sky that means much to the world around, which has been laboring and fighting for a golden age to come to manhood and womanhood. May it not be that the wise men of the East will again follow the star and find in the United States the answer to their prayers.

Great opportunities beckon.

The horizon enlarges itself to make room for enlarging souls bent upon the making of the new world that Theodore Roosevelt preached, fit for every man and woman to live in.

The serious and difficult questions yet to be settled by patience and hard thinking will be faithfully met and adjusted in time and experience.

There are men and women still living who can be safely trusted as of the spirit and wisdom of the fathers of this Republic who found George Washington as later the people found Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Jefferson and Theodore Roosevelt in their need.

Are there not dangers ahead?

Most assuredly there are, but not as great as the perils which we have lived through when demagogues and corruptions of political parties held sway at times since the Revolutionary days.

We are safer now than ever before and the better days are coming soon.

BURLESON DEFENDS POSTAL SERVICE

Blames Republican Congress for Failure to Increase Fast Mail Facilities.

ANSWERS MADDEN ATTACK

Appeal for Improvements in New York, Chicago, For Air Service and Penny Drop Postage Denied.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Declaring that the postal establishment welcomes criticism, Albert S. Burleson, Postmaster General, today issued a statement in reply to the attack made upon his administration of that department by Representative Martin B. Madden of Illinois, a ranking Republican member of the House Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, in which Mr. Burleson asserts that the postal service is usually made a target for criticism in Presidential years.

Among other things, Mr. Madden accused the Postmaster General of adopting a policy of alleged false economy and charged that instead of adding fast mail facilities, the department has saved small sums through slow and delayed mails. In his statement Mr. Burleson says:

"Representative Madden in this morning's papers criticises the Postmaster General for what he terms 'a penny wise and pound foolish' policy, claiming that at the cost of $2,000,000 to the public by slow and delayed mails the Postmaster General has saved small sums to the department; that instead of adding facilities to handle fast mail he has slowed the service to meet facilities, and that he 'would urge the handling of fast mails by fast trains and the parcel post by slower trains.'

"If the department has failed to add facilities to handle fast mail it is because the Congress has failed to provide them.

"Both first-class mail and parcel post mails are now handled on the fastest trains. The postal establishment does not control train schedules. Delays have occurred through the demoralized train service, which has not yet fully recovered from the effects of the war. The intelligent public is fully cognizant of this condition. The Postmaster General is not in accord with Representative Madden's policy of sending 'parcel post by slower trains.'

"Express companies use the fastest trains for express matter; to send parcel post mails by 'slower trains' would not serve the interests of the public, but such slower service would serve the express interest, which is an active competitor with the parcel post service. The Postmaster General prefers to serve the public.

"Now as to 'adding facilities to handle fast mail,' what are the facts? The Postmaster General urged that he be authorized to arrange with telephone and telegraph companies for transmission between 11 P. M. and 6 A. M. of letters by wire service to be handled on the first morning delivery at a rate not to exceed 30 cents for 100 words. This would have been fast mail indeed, and would have proved of incalculable benefit to the business public, but the Republican Congress denied this facility, although this service would have been conducted at a profit.

"The Postmaster General urged that he be authorized to provide a system of tunnels for New York City, the gateway of 80 per cent. of our foreign mails, and where the mails have increased 50 per cent. since the war; a facility that would have aided wonderfully in expediting mail handling; but the Republican Congress refused this in the face of the fact that the New York office produces millions of postal revenues in excess of the costs of its operation."

Mr. Burleson also charges Congress with failing to provide for an adequate building in Chicago, and adds:

"The Postmaster General urged a reasonable development of the air mail service, which had been demonstrated a success; in fact, it surpassed anything that had been accomplished anywhere in the world; and yet the Republican House struck out the entire appropriation for this service and the Senate gave it only half-way support; and but for the persistence of one Representative the whole service would have probably been crippled, if not eliminated.

"Furthermore, the Postmaster General urged that the business men of America be given penny postage on drop letters. They deserved it because as users of first class postage they are paying an unjust portion of the postal burden; but the Republican Congress refused this, notwithstanding those in responsible places (Republicans) admitted it was justly deserved."

PROMISES TO RELEASE ARGENTINE GOLD HERE

Foreign Minister Says Banks Have Been Making Excessive Arbitrage Profits.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 26.—Señor Salaberry, the Foreign Minister, announced today that he would soon release $28,000,000 which is held in the United States to the credit of the account of the Argentine Embassy in Washington. This was the balance remaining to the credit of the embassy when the Government last month suspended the operation of releasing Argentine gold deposits against deposits of equal amounts here by bankers.

Orders for the suspension of these releases were issued, the Foreign Minister said, because exaggerated profits were being made through arbitrage operations in connection with these transactions and in the absence of transportation charges which the banks would have been obliged to pay if the gold had been actually exported. He added that, with the release of the remaining deposits, transactions based on them would be intrusted exclusively to the Banco de la Nación under regulations which would eliminate arbitrage operations and insure bona fide transactions based upon actual purchases of commodities in the United States.

The decree releasing the gold is expected on Saturday, and it is presumed it will have the effect of reducing the heavy discount on the Argentine peso in the United States, which has already caused advances in prices on many United States products here and has restricted business by North American merchants.

The operations of branches of foreign banks in Argentina, will be investigated by a special committee which the Chamber of Deputies last night resolved to appoint after a discussion of the exchange operations of these banks.

Deputy Peña, who introduced the resolution, asserted in the course of the debate that foreign banks controlled 902,000,000 pesos of Argentine savings and liquid capital, or one-third of the total. He declared that these banks had brought no capital to the country, but had come to operate with Argentine capital. The committee will consider putting exchange operations under control of the Banco de la Nación.

MEXICO SEIZES 1,000 OFFICERS AS REDS

2 EXECUTED IN VERA CRUZ

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27.—Enemies of President de la Huerta's Government are seeking to embarrass and weaken it by fomenting Bolshevism within the army, Eduardo Garcia, Chief of Staff in the War Department, told correspondents yesterday.

"For the past several weeks," Garcia said, "the Government has been confronted with the serious problem of keeping the army out of politics. In many instances, we have discovered, members of the opposition have caused an intrusion of politics in the army, encouraging certain officers to create dissension. The present wave of Bolshevism is a product of this movement.

"The Government is now investigating radical movements in the garrisons throughout the country, and when the agitators are located we intend to act with drastic measures.

"Already nearly one thousand officers have been arrested and face charges of meddling in politics. Some of these are now in confinement."

The campaign to exterminate Sovietism among the soldiers has already borne fruit in the State of Campeche, where Colonel Jose Preve, who revolted recently, leading his revolutionary followers under the Red banner of Bolshevism, has been captured. He will be brought to Mexico City and tried on a charge of insurrection.

Two rebel leaders in the State of Vera Cruz, Captain Trinidad Sanches and Sergeant Roman Fernandez, who initiated a revolt a week ago, were captured yesterday and executed, thus ending all signs of sedition in that State, according to officials of the War Office.

Pedro Zamora has been defeated by Federal troops, but the fate of his American and British captives is unknown.

Federal troops under the direction of General Calles, Minister of War, who left the War Department to push the campaign against the bandit, defeated the forces of Zamora after a four-hour fight, killing forty-three bandits.

Zamora's forces, hard pushed by Federal cavalry, were almost surrounded, but during the fighting Zamora and eighty men retreated to the northern part of Jalisco, pursued by four squadrons of cavalry.

The report of General Bulnes stated that the American and British captives are supposed to have escaped, as they had plenty opportunities during the four-hour fight. However, careful investigation is being made to discover the location of the prisoners.

GARMENT SHOPS CUT TIME.

Union Official Blames Woolen Company for Situation.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27.—According to Hyman Blumberg, manager of the Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the industry is now facing the worst period of idleness it has experienced in the last four or five years. Practically all the shops, big and little, are employing 10,000 workers on a three-day basis. This has endured for six weeks, says Mr. Blumberg, and is likely to continue until December.

"It is due," said Mr. Blumberg, "to the shut-down of the American Woolen Company's mills in an effort to keep the price of cloth up, and to the consequent fact that the manufacturer cannot get cloth."

He admits, however, that the Fall clothing trade has been very dull.

"This idleness will not, however, result in lower clothing prices to the public," said Blumberg. "The prices of cloth and trimmings have not come down. They are the greatest elements in the costs of a suit of clothing."

CLASH IN SEOUL OVER CONGRESSMAN

Police Stop an Impromptu Meeting That Was Addressed by Hersman.

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 25 (Associated Press).—An impromptu meeting of Koreans, addressed by Congressman Hugh S. Hersman of California, a member of the American Congressional party which is touring the Far East, was held at the Young Men's Christian Association Building last night, despite the abandonment of a reception which had been planned.

Although the gathering which the Koreans had planned in honor of the American Congressmen had been officially canceled, and a notice had been posted in the building to that effect, Congressman Hersman was unaware of the cancellation. He dropped into the building when it was filled with Koreans waiting for a heavy shower to stop in order that they might return home.

The California Congressman was invited to the platform to address the meeting, the committee thinking he had come for that purpose. He made a short address, saying he was glad to see something of the Koreans before leaving the country. An address of response was delivered by a Korean.

The audience had begun cheering when the police rushed in and stopped the meeting, requesting Congressman Hersman to leave.

Some of the Koreans were handled roughly by the police outside the building, and the American Congressman refused to depart until all of the Koreans present had been released, and remained about an hour, while the Koreans were permitted to leave. He returned to his hotel accompanied by the United States Consul General, Ransford S. Miller, who had gone to the Young Men's Christian Association Building on hearing of the incident.

The affair occurred at the time set for the reception given in honor of the party by Admiral Baron Saito, the Japanese Governor of Korea.

good. They believe that, with the several hundred strike breakers who have been hired, with the non-members of the union now working for the road and the men who may break away from it, the company will be able to render 50 per cent. of service at the outset and to increase this percentage rapidly.

Last year the success of the strike was attributed by the company to the fact that the police were evidently under the impression that Mayor Hylan wanted the strikers to win and were lax in curbing violence. Today the strong stand of Public Service Commissioner Delaney against the strike is taken as expressing the attitude of his personal and political friend, Mayor Hylan, and as assuring vigorous police work. On the other hand, the Amalgamated Association has the operating employes highly organized this year, whereas they were compelled last year to organize them in the course of the strike.

Letter to Mr. Delaney.

In their letter to Commissioner Delaney, which he conveyed at their request to Judge Mayer, the labor committee rested its claim to unqualified, unlimited arbitration, in perpetuity, on the following clauses of last year's agreement:

Article 3—In the event such grievances or any which may hereafter arise cannot be adjusted by and between the receiver and the committee, they shall be arbitrated by a board, to consist of P. J. Shea, or his nominee, and Lindley M. Garrison, or his nominee, and if necessary by a third member to be mutually agreed upon by said Shea and said Garrison; and in the event of said Shea and Garrison being unable to agree upon a third member, and so stating to Mayor Hylan and Commissioner Nixon, the two gentlemen last named shall thereupon designate the third arbitrator.

Article 4—All parties agree to abide by the decision of the said arbitrators.

The pay increases asked by the men run up to 50 per cent. and their demands include such particulars as that employes who are also union officials shall have leaves of absence with pay when they are engaged on union business.

Fifty delegates of the signalmen and towermen of the B. R. T., who belong to the Brotherhood of Signalmen of America, met at the Labor Lyceum in Brooklyn last night and sent a letter to Receiver Garrison asking him to reconsider his position on Articles 3 and 4 of last year's agreement. When asked if they would join the strike, if it were declared tonight, officials of the signalmen said they would not, because they were bound by a separate agreement running until Jan. 1, 1921.

PRINCE CHRISTOPHER OF GREECE.

Character sketch of Prince Christopher of Greece, who recently married an American woman, Mrs. William B. Leeds, will be given in The New York Times Book Review and Magazine Section tomorrow. "Ricoro Beats the Band"

I AM one of those extravagant persons who always believed that an article, to be good must also be expensive—particularly as regards cigars. Of course, I heard my friends talk about Ricoro, but I honestly did not believe it possible to get a really good cigar at such an extremely moderate price.

TALES OF RICORO

I had never bought a Ricoro. On principle I even refused them when they were offered to me. My friend Sam Gordon pestered me constantly to "discover the world's best smoke," as he phrased it, but I remained steadfast.

So, when I was down at Sam's place for the week-end and found that I had forgotten to bring my own cigars, I was much disturbed.

"Never mind," said Sam, with a twinkle in his eye "I have a box of the brand I keep at the office for my star customers, and they're good enough to suit even your epicurean taste.

"Sounds good, anyway," I commented—and sure enough when I lighted up one of them, it was even more smooth and delightful than I had anticipated.

"Great—great," I enthused, "But tell me Gordon, —why don't you smoke these fine cigars regularly?"

"I do," he answered, smiling.

"But—," I faltered, astonished, "I thought you smoked Ricoros."

"I do—and so do you!" he laughed, indicating my cigar—"you see I just took the Ricoro bands off and . . . . ."

* * * * * * * *

"Live and learn," says the proverb.

Well, that's how I discovered Ricoro.

the "Self-Made" Cigar

Sooner or later, you'll discover Ricoro. Every smoker seeks real quality in a cigar, and countless thousands of them have found it in Ricoro. Ricoro is a smooth and balmy imported cigar, with all the fragrance and bouquet of the most expensive imported brands. But because Ricoro comes from Porto Rico duty free, it costs no more than the ordinary domestic.

Ricoro will meet your every requirement of quality and economy, because it is a real imported cigar at a domestic price.

TAX RIOTS SPREAD IN GERMAN TOWNS

Factory Directors Wounded in Violent Outbreaks Near Cologne and Essen.

THREATEN BERLIN STRIKE

Daimler Motor Works in Wuertemberg Close as 16,000 Men Demand Untaxed Wage.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—Movements for a general refusal to pay taxes are rapidly assuming alarming dimensions, spreading south, north, east and west, and seemingly fraught with much more danger for the continuation of the present Government than any of the numerous little imaginary or real plots and conspiracies reported lately.

The Daimler motor works yesterday closed their various factories in Wuertemberg because the workers threatened violence if the firm should deduct the lawful tax of 10 per cent. from their weekly wages. Consequently some 16,000 men were without work today.

The closing down of the factories, however, has not improved the situation. Riots are reported from several towns where the Daimler concern is established, and it is feared that the employes of other establishments will follow the example and that open rebellion may develop.

The Factory Councils, after consulting with Government representatives, admit the necessity of paying exorbitant taxes in the present precarious situation of the Fatherland, but protest that "the present Wuertemberg Government, being composed of Centrists and democratic partisans, is endeavoring to reinstitute the old capitalist régime and does not deserve the workmen's aid."

Regardless of this purely Socialist argument, the masses of the people throughout Germany protest that they have good ground for refusing the 10 per cent. tax deduction to a Government "which makes no effort to seize excessive and often fraudulent war and revolution profits, which does not punish men compromised by the Kapp rebellion, does not punish the statesmen and Generals of Wilhelm's criminal gang, permits the Junkers to arm against the people, and permits the managers of licensed corporations, the so-called Federal and State offices of Reichstellen for the supply of food and raw products, to swindle the people, extort money and grow fat, while contributing next to nothing to the State's household in pre-war times, and even now finding means to escape the tax collectors when the poor employes are unmercifully taxed.

The discontent of the people over this state of affairs is being put to clever use by the Communist-Anarchist leaders, and is finding expression in disastrous strikes and lockouts.

Berlin employees and employers are both threatening such action even now, while in the Siegerland mines near Cologne, and also in Essen, the tax refusal caused violent scenes yesterday, several mine and factory directors being severely wounded.

TOWER REPROVES DANZIG.

Charges Constitutional Assembly with Obstructing Aid to Poles.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—At today's sitting of the Danzig State Council Sir Reginald Tower, Allied High Commissioner in Danzig, stated that the past few weeks had shown that peace and order had not yet been restored in Danzig, and that the Constitutional Assembly's recent resolution concerning neutrality was unwarranted, as Danzig was not yet a free State.

Sir Reginald charged the Assembly with hampering the transport of munitions for Poland and the return of Poles to their country. He added that if more foreign troops were landed it was the fault of the people of Danzig themselves, because they had not respected the terms of the peace treaty, and the town would have to pay the cost of the increased occupational force.

Head Burgomaster Sahm, in reply, said that a distinction should be made between the neutrality declaration and the harbor men's refusal to unload war materials. He explained that the Assembly had merely proposed that the Danzig district should be declared a neutral zone, not because of hostility to the Poles, but to save the country from war. The harbor men did not favor violence, the Burgomaster declared and the authorities would do their utmost to protect foreign and State property.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—News received from allied sources in Danzig is to the effect that the Poles who recently returned to Danzig from the United States, but were not permitted to land, have now been allowed to disembark and proceed freely to their destination.

ANTWERP, Aug. 27.—The American steamer Warszawa, with munitions for Poland, left here today for Danzig.

A Brussels dispatch of Aug. 21 quoted the Nation Belge saying that the Antwerp dock workers had refused to continue loading munitions aboard the Warszawa.

UPHOLDS OPEN SHOP IN STRIKE DECISION

Newark Judge Says Attempt to Prevent Non-Union Men from Working Is Illegal.

FAVORS FREE COMPETITION

Court Holds Workers Have No Right to Keep Others from Their Legitimate Employment.

Vice Chancellor Backes at Newark yesterday decided that strikes to prevent the open shop or employment of non-union labor were illegal and contrary to public policy because the underlying purpose of such strikes is to create a monopoly of labor, thereby infringing the rights of the employers and of workers who are not members of labor unions.

The decision was handed down in the suit of the Donnell-Zane Company of New York against William E. Lehman, architect, of Newark, and the Atlantic Smelting and Refining Works of Brooklyn. As a result of the decision an injunction will be issued restraining the defendants and the officers of the International Brotherhood of Bridge and Iron Workers of America from interfering with the completion of the Donnell-Zane Company's contract to build a new factory for the smelting works in Newark.

Work on this new factory was almost completed when Timothy Tierney, business agent of the ironworkers' local, called a strike because the Donnell-Zane Company, the sub-contractors, were not employing union men on a building in New York. The contractors attempted to go ahead with non-union men, but this was prevented, according to the complaint, by Lehman and the Atlantic Company. Lehman said the latter company had agreed with the contractors that only union men would be employed. The Donnell-Zane Company refused to recognize any such agreement, and the architect notified the main contractor, the Lehigh Structural Steel Company, that the contract would be canceled unless union men were used.

"The principle of the closed shop, namely the monopolization of the labor market," said the Vice Chancellor, "has found no judicial sponsor. In whatever form organized labor has asserted it, whether to the injury of employer or to labor or to labor unions outside the fold, the judiciary of the country has responded uniformly that it is inimical to the freedom of individual pursuit guaranteed by the fundamental law of the land and contravenes public policy.

"On the other hand, public policy favors free competition, and the courts have been keen to recognize the right of organized labor to compete for work and wage and economic and social betterment, and to use its weapon—the strike—to realize its lawful aspirations, but none has gone to the length of sanctioning a strike for a closed shop, which has for its object the exclusion from work of workmen who are not members of the association."

Government Commission Accuses Them of Atrocities in Montenegro.

ROME, Aug. 27.—A commission of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs has just completed an inquiry into allegations of atrocities committed by Serbian soldiers upon Montenegrins. Witnesses testified that after shutting up women and children in their houses the Serbs flung in hives of bees and that they sewed up cats in the garments of some, afterward beating them with whips so that the maddened animals clawed the flesh.

The commission gives the names and rank of Serbian officers who are accused of having tortured and murdered women and children. The report says that unless the pity of Europe and America intervenes the Montenegrins will soon be exterminated.

$10 TO SEE GRIFFITH FILM.

Record Admission Price for Movies at "'Way Down East" Opening.

A record admission price for motion pictures will be established by David W. Griffith's production of "'Way Down East," which will charge $10 for most of the orchestra seats on its opening night at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre next Friday. Seats in the first balcony will be $5. On succeeding nights, it is expected, a majority of seats on the lower floor will be sold at $2, this having been the scale at which Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation" was exhibited some years ago.

The picture is in twelve reels, and is Mr. Griffith's first special offering since his production of "Hearts of the World" more than two years ago. It is a picturization of the play by Lottie Blair Parker and Joseph R. Grismer, which William A. Brady presented in this country for twenty-two seasons. Mr. Griffith paid $175,000 for the film rights to the play. Among those who appear in the picture are Lillian Gish, Richard Barthelmess, Lowell Sherman and Burr McIntosh.

Direct from London to the Shubert Theatre there came last evening a new four-act-comedy called "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," which for many months has been in prosperous possession of the Savoy Theatre in the Strand. It is a recognizable bid for the favor that was accorded the world around to "Peg o' My Heart," one of those plays that revolve around and around a hoydenish, lovable broth of a colleen. Furthermore, it is one of those pieces that is classified as an Irish comedy on the strength of one jig, one Irish tune, one use of the expression, "Bad 'cess to him," two uses of the expression, "At all, at all," and one reference to a shillelagh.

The authors, Gayer Mackay and Robert Ord, took their story from a novel by Gertrude Page, although they might have found its formula in many a sentimental comedy of the eighties and nineties. Reduced to its simplest terms, the scheme is to introduce a heroine in the first act who glowers at the hero and says: "I hate him. I hate him." This she must keep up with minor variations throughout the rest of the play and surrender only just in time to reach his outstretched arms for the final curtain.

So it is with Paddy, the wild, mad, tousle-headed Paddy Adair, who gladdened the heart of old General Adair because, while he had hoped she would be a boy, she turned out to be the next best thing—a hoyden. So it goes with her from the time when her lover first fishes her out of the sea to the climax, when she hurls a large medicine jar at him through the glass of the dispensary door.

Much of all the high-spirited fooling which led up to this climax was received by last night's audience with a not unjustifiable apathy. Of course it is no unusual thing for a New York audience to sit with congealing silence through the unfolding of a play at which London has fairly rocked with laughter for months and months. In such cases a disinterested onlooker, while knowing only one side of the story, is inclined to suspect that the difference is less in the audiences than between the two companies presenting the same piece on both sides of the Atlantic.

So one may be permitted to suspect, after seeing "Paddy, the Next Best Thing" at the Shubert, that its popularity in London is largely attributable to a winning and infectious embodiment of Paddy herself by our own Peggy O'Neil, the actress who so enthralled Chicago when the Middle Western edition of "Peg o' My Heart" was in its heyday.

Certainly, Eileen Huban as Paddy falls somewhat short of expectations and the necessities of the occasion. She was the heroine of "Dark Rosaleen," and before that the elfin youngster who so captivated those who saw her in the brief run of "The Grasshopper" at the Garrick. The woes of Paddy she can express to perfection, but the long scenes of rambunctious fooling seem sadly to overstrain her. At least she works at them with such hard-hitting vigor, such strenuous and breathless endeavor, as to overreach herself and induce in her audience only a sympathetic fatigue.

No one else in "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," except Paddy herself, is allowed to matter much, but Cyril Scott may be reported as present in familiar guise, and there is a moment of mirth provoked in an otherwise inexplicable dispensary scene by Alice Belmore Cliffe as a stout old London invalid come around for a drop of medicine.

By WALTER DURANTY.

volts against the Reds are reported at several points—he may be able during the Winter to build up such a force as will be capable of engaging in a decisive struggle with the Bolsheviki next year.

There are already signs that the Russian committee in Warsaw, under the presidency of Savinkov, Kerensky's War Minister, is trying to raise a Russian force to co-operate with Wrangel from the northwest. Its commander is General Balakhovitch, with whom I came into contact last year on the Lettish front. He is a bit of a bandit, rather on the lines of Villa, but possessed of great energy, courage and personal magnetism. He is under 40, and his motto is always "Balakhovitch First," but he might be a thorn in the Bolshevist flank, just as another bandit chief, Makne, has proved himself in the Ukraine.

Reds Concentrating at Grodno.

PARIS, Aug. 27. (Associated Press).—The Bolsheviki are making a desperate stand at Grodno, according to a statement of the Foreign Ministry here today. The statement adds that all available Bolshevist troops are being concentrated at Grodno, and a great battle is expected soon, extending from that place to Brest-Litovsk. [From Grodno to Brest-Litovsk is somewhat more than 100 miles.]

The Foreign Ministry announced today that France had counseled Poland to attain the best strategical military position possible until peace should be signed, regardless of her ethnographical frontier, because the military situation would influence the peace terms.

It was added, however, that France had advised Poland to withdraw her armies within the Polish frontier at the signing of peace.

Eighty thousand Russian Soviet soldiers have been captured in Poland, 40,000 killed and 30,000 interned in East Prussia, according to the latest report received from the French mission in Poland.

Poles Continue Their Advance.

The Poles continue to advance along the East Prussian frontier. Notwithstanding all their efforts, the Red command has failed to instill in the Bolshevist troops enough courage or energy to resist the Poles, who, after a few hours of almost desultory fighting, took possession of the Ossovetz forts, opened a passage across the Bobr marshes and reached the Augustowo Lakes east of the East Prussian frontier, thus gaining command of the whole of the southern side of that frontier as far as Augustowo.

The Reds, driven back on the line of Augustowo-Grodno, are, in a good defensive position, on account of the forests and marshes which cover it. Consequently it is difficult for the Poles to attack frontally, owing to the nature of the ground and the fact that the flanks of the enemy rest on the west on the German frontier and on the east on the Niemen River. The Soviet forces are concentrating in this region with the object of stopping the Poles from extending their line eastward. For this purpose the Augustowo-Grodno line constitutes a flank position so highly extolled by the late Karl von Clause Witz, the German master of theoretical warfare.

This danger is not considered a serious one in military circles here, where it is said that to be of any use a flank position must serve as a base for an offensive. The military observers assert that it is hard to see with what success the Soviet forces could be formed for a mass manoeuvre. They say that the Bolsheviki at present have available 30,000 to 40,000 men who escaped from the battle of Warsaw, but that little can be expected from the interior of Russia, where mutinies are already reported among the troops ordered to the front.

In addition, they say that the Augustowo-Grodno position depends for its communication upon Vilna as a centre, and that should the Poles come to an agreement with the Lithuanians the Russians would be deprived of this line of communication.

Bolshevist batteries stationed on German soil have fired upon Polish troops, says a Polish official communiqué issued yesterday. The text of the statement follows:

"On the northern front, in the sectors occupied by the First and Fifth Armies, the situation is unchanged. During the process of cleaning up the territory between Miawa and Ciechanow, we made 3,000 prisoners—stragglers from remnants of the Bolshevist troops.

"In the centre of the front there remain a few thousand Russian troops, who are retreating toward the German frontier, fighting desperately. In this sector we noted that our troops were fired upon from batteries and from machine guns which Bolshevist troops had installed in German territory.

"On the Kolmo-Myszniec road we captured six cannon and ten machine guns. In Kobryn Pass we took 1,100 prisoners, including the full staff of the Bolshevist Thirty-seventh Division, with four cannon and twelve machine guns.

"On the Southern front, east of Leonpol, bitter fighting is in progress."

Weygand Advises Poles to Intrench.

Bolshevist reaction against Polish armies along the front east of Warsaw is not expected, at least for the present, by General Weygand, who is credited with having directed the defense of the Polish capital and hurled the Soviet armies back from that city. The Warsaw correspondent of the Petit Parisien quotes him as saying that the Poles should not advance too far eastward, but should intrench themselves along a line that can be easily held, so that they may be able to resist any effort on the part of Soviet Russia to bring overwhelming forces against them in the future.

"Where that line should be," the General added, "I do not know, and if I did I would be very careful not to give any information regarding it."

Trotzky Assumes Army Command.

WARSAW, Aug. 27 (Associated Press).—General Tuchatschewski, known as the "Soviet Napoleon," has been relieved of his post as Commander in Chief of the Bolshevist Army on the Polish front because of his failure to take Warsaw, according to information given to the press here. Leon Trotzky, Bolshevist Minister of War and Marine, has personally taken command of the army. It is reported by Bolshevist officers who have been captured.

General Tuchatschewski has had a remarkable career in the Russian Army. He was of noble birth and at the outbreak of the World War was captured by the Germans. Later he escaped and resumed his place in the army, rising to the rank of Lieutenant. When the Soviet Government was established he was promoted and rose to high command, being credited with the defeat of Admiral Kolchak in Siberia and General Denikin in Southern Russia. He is only 28 years old.

Fierce Fighting for Brest-Litovsk.

LONDON, Aug. 27. — The Poles and Russians are fighting fiercely for the forts of Brest-Litovsk, the strongly fortified town on the Bug River 120 miles east of Warsaw, says the Russian Soviet official statement of Thursday, received here by wireless today. In the Lemberg sector violent fighting is continuing with fluctuating results, the statement adds. The communication reads:

"We are conducting a fierce fight for possession of the forts of Brest-Litovsk.

"In the Lemberg region fierce fighting continues with alternating successes.

"On the Crimean sector, in the Kherson region, we have again driven back the enemy. In the Orlekov region exceedingly fierce fighting is proceeding with considerable forces of enemy cavalry."

The first day of mobilization of the Soviet workers of Petrograd for the struggle against the Poles and General Wrangel produced three-quarters of the required number, says a wireless message from Moscow today. The workers in all factories unanimously expressed readiness to proceed to the front, according to the message.

In Moscow the best workers also were mobilized.

75,000 Red Prisoners in Germany.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—It is expected that the number of fugitive Russian Soviet troops, who are accompanied by many women and children in their flight from Poland into East Prussia, will by tonight reach 75,000. The Ministry of Defense will be obliged to transport the Russians to Pillau, twenty-five miles west of Königsberg, where they will be embarked for Swinemünde, near Stettin, or some other German Baltic port, en route to camps in the interior.

Because of her proclaimed neutrality Germany is obliged to confine the fugitive Russians until the Russia-Polish hostilities are ended. There are still 150,000 former Russian war prisoners in various German camps, and the food and quarantine question presents difficult problems. In addition, the confiscation of Russian rubles under German customs regulations threatens to leave the Bolsheviki penniless. Members of the Inter-Allied Control Commission at Königsberg are co-operating with German border officials, especially in disposing of the arms and munitions brought in by the Russians. Included among the fugitives are units from several cavalry divisions.

VICTORY DOESN'T ALTER POLAND'S PEACE POLICY

Premier Witos Assures Moscow That His Country Desires Only Honorable Peace.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Premier Witos has notified the Russian Soviet Government by wireless that the Polish victory has produced no change in the intentions of his Government, says a Warsaw dispatch to The London Times. The Premier added that instructions to the Polish peace delegation at Minsk had not been changed, and that the Poles desired only an honorable peace.

The following dispatch from Lucerne has been received by The London Times:

"Premier Lloyd George has received the Soviet note, and the impression created by it is not a satisfactory one. The tone of the communication is considered to verge on stupid impertinence. The note will be the subject of an exchange of views between London, Paris and Rome.

"It is expected that Premier Lloyd George will remain here another week."

The Soviet reply to the note of Arthur J. Balfour, Lord President of the Council, signifying the willingness of the Russian Soviet Government to withdraw the clause in the Russian peace terms to Poland concerning the army of Polish workmen, is under consideration by the British Government. A copy of the reply has been sent to Premier Lloyd George at Lucerne.

In usually well-informed quarters it is held that, as the Soviet Government has agreed to withdraw the offending clause, there is no need for further action at present by Great Britain.

WARSAW, Aug. 27.—The President of the Polish delegation at Minsk on Aug. 19 laid down the following as Poland's principal conditions for peace:

"The political and economic integrity and complete sovereignty and independence of Poland within her frontiers are indispensable to her economic and political development.

"Guarantees that Russia will not interfere with the internal question of Poland."

HEAR FALL OF SOVIET IS NOW IMMINENT

News from the Front and Economic Failure Stir Petrograd Discontent.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 27. — Advices from Petrograd to the Berlingske Tidende says that conditions in that city are becoming critical and that the fall of the Soviet Government appears imminent. Information from the front, together with the desperate economic situation, is believed to be responsible for the discontent prevailing in the city.

All freedom of trade has been prohibited, says the report. Many shops have been closed and valuables seized. It is further stated that the Bolsheviki have punished demonstrations by shooting. Excitement within the Petrograd garrison is increasing.

WITHHOLDS POLISH NOTE.

State Department Is Still in Correspondence Concerning It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Contrary to expectations the reply from Poland to the American note of Aug. 21, admonishing the Polish Government that the United States would not approve any transgression by Polish forces of the provisional ethnographic boundary of Poland during hostilities against the Russian Bolsheviki, was not made public today.

State Department officials explained that they were not yet prepared to divulge the contents of the note. It was stated that the contents of the reply were still a subject of correspondence between the two Governments, so that disclosure of them at this time would be inadvisable. Officials stated yesterday, however, that the Polish note appeared to contain nothing in the nature of a disappointment to this Government.

The representative of Lithuania in Washington received the following from the Lithuanian Government at Kovno announcing the occupation of Vilna by Lithuanian troops and the disarming by Lithuanian authorities of Bolshevist troops crossing into the country in their retreat before the advancing Poles:

"Our troops today occupied Vilna. The Vilna-Grodno railroad line, with the exception of Grodno, is in our hands. We are disarming Bolshevist troops crossing our boundaries, and are trying to induce the Poles to respect our territory without conflict."

WHAT GOVERNOR COX PROVES.

Governor Cox has not done the impossible. No one versed in such matters expected for a moment that he could "prove" the existence of a $15,000,000 Republican campaign fund. That was a round figure, convenient for use on the stump. But in the nature of the case there could be no proof, whether mathematical or logical, that such a sum had been or could be raised. "Quotas" are not collections. Campaign solicitors go out to their work very much in the spirit of General GRANT, when a boy, selling a horse for his father. The asking price was much higher than what he was ready to take. We have also to be fair enough to take knowledge of the fact that the amounts gathered by the Republican National Committee are to be apportioned among State and local organizations. This puts a somewhat different color on the large total. Even accepting the figures produced by Governor Cox, the Republican campaign fund is still several millions short of what had been confidently charged.

Making all these concessions, however, it is plain that Governor Cox has made a highly effective speech. It will be exceedingly damaging to the Republicans. The reason is that the confidential party documents of which the Governor has got hold are stamped all over with the commercial spirit. They are pervaded by the tone of the most vulgar "salesmanship." Polonius could not have been more insistent upon the advice, "put money in thy purse." The Republicans have got fine candidates, "but, boys, get the money." The platform is just what it should be, "but, boys, get the money." That phrase will surely haunt the Republican managers, and give them many a nightmare. It will be of no use for them to draw up elaborate tables to prove that Governor Cox's figures are wrong. It is now not so much a question of figures as of methods and attitude. Those official circulars sent out by the Republican Committee are exactly of the cast of the exhortation of a bustling and not too scrupulous soap manufacturer bidding his agents "go after the stuff."

Here is evidently one of the vices of the Republican mania for "organization." Ever since Mr. HAYS became Chairman of the National Committee, the obvious aim has been to create a wonderful business machine. Nothing was to be overlooked; nothing left to chance. The organization was to be at once minute and all-embracing. The very latest devices of big business were to be adopted. Each department and each locality was to have its subcommittee, and all the subcommittees were to work out a subdivision of labor to the smallest detail. The whole country was to be covered by a perfect network of party organizations. Everything was to be classified and indexed. Never was there to have been such a triumph of "scientific" business methods applied to politics.

Well, we now see the results. The Republicans are suffering from the curse of over-organization. They have got so many committees and hustling workers that they cannot keep track of them. It is not to be believed that the disgusting and hurtful letters and appeals which Governor Cox has made public were ever directly authorized by responsible Republican politicians. These men may be venal, but they are not idiots. And unless they were without both mind and morals they would not have failed to see the instant effect of such mercenary circulars, if they ever fell, as they have fallen, into the hands of the enemy. What probably happened was that former drummers, or expert salesmen on commission, had been hired to "do the publicity" for the committee, or the Treasurer, and had gone about the business in the frankest style of a man with something to "sell" which every man, woman and child simply must have. Only, in this case it happened to be the Presidency that was to be sold.

The mischief has been done. What the Republicans have now to consider is how to undo as much of it as possible. Old hands like PENROSE and WATSON must groan and writhe as they see what deadly ammunition, what catchwords and campaign phrases, the fool subordinates of the National Committee have placed in the hands of the Democrats. Matter only one-tenth as damaging was used by President ROOSEVELT against Mr. BRYAN in 1908 with telling effect. And the Republicans now realize that in Governor Cox they have got an aggressive opponent, who will not hesitate to ring the changes on the Republican directions: "Get the right man to see the right people"; "Senator HARDING'S election involves just a few of the simplest principles of salesmanship"; "boys, get the money." What can the Republican managers do to offset this mordant and mortifying stuff? They can, in any event, offset it only in part. But they should set about it at once. Let them begin by making a clean breast of their folly in employing or utilizing agents capable of such glaring folly. The men who wrote and sent out the political dynamite which Governor Cox has exploded should immediately be disowned and discharged—drowned, also, one is tempted to say—and then Chairman HAYS and his fellows should hasten to make public the source of every contribution and the manner in which every dollar is spent. Only by swift and frank confession and amendment can the Republicans hope to recover from the heavy blow which Governor Cox has dealt their campaign.

A FAMOUS SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

It is difficult for the moderns to understand from what ridiculed beginnings the Department of Agriculture grew into its present uncontested multifarious usefulness and high reputation. At first there was a humble Commissioner of Agriculture. Then, as a sop to the farmers and for political purposes, the department was established. It was not expected to do much. JERRY RUSK, a rude, vigorous figure from Wisconsin, was the first Secretary. His successor, J. STERLING MORTON of Nebraska, an able, cultivated, accomplished and witty man, thought that his department was a humbug and a joke. It is fact or legend that his first annual report, suppressed, recommended the abolition of the department.

Then the Ayrshire Scotchman from Iowa, JAMES WILSON, was appointed by Mr. MCKINLEY. Persons who chant the praise of the "dirt farmer" should be reminded that in 1897 Mr. WILSON was Director of State Agriculture Experiment Stations and Professor of Agriculture in Iowa Agricultural College. He at once set to work to raise his department from an otiose institution to a mighty force for the development of American agriculture. He sent his missionaries scouring over the country and over the earth. What region was ignorant of his labor? From Brazil the suave oranges of Bahia were brought to be naturalized in California. In Mr. MORTON'S Nebraska, pine trees, hunted down in Greenland, were planted and thrived in sand hills where nothing had ever been induced to grow. South Carolina cultivated Cuban tobacco; Sumatra wrapper tobacco emigrated to Texas; dates from the Sahara flourished in the hopeless Colorado "desert"; Mr. WILSON'S emissaries gave to the Banana Belt durum wheat the annual crop of which is now worth $50,000,000; Swedish oats found that the Alaska climate agreed with them; Egyptian cotton settled in Arizona; Asia and way stations were explored to find an alfalfa that would grow anywhere in the United States; the rice industry of the South profited to the tune of many millions by the research of the Wilson wealth-finders in Japan.

Mohair, milch goats, the revival of the Morgan horse, the development of the American coach horse—there is no end to the experiments and achievements of "Tama Jim." It would be hard to say how many millions of wealth have come from his pondered policy of introducing foreign plants, or combining them with native. He attended to the boll weevil, which was ruining the cotton crop of the South, then substantially a one-crop region. With his demonstrators he taught the South and the rest of the country scientific, productive farming, the science of making the farm yield to its utmost capacity. He organized farmer boys and girls. By a simple process he freed more than 160,000 square miles of pasture from the fever tick, that vampire of hogs and cattle.

His experts found a serum for hog cholera. He stirred the country to make an energetic fight against tuberculosis in cattle. He did fruitful work for forest conservation, reforestation, irrigation. His Bureau of Plant Industry developed with valuable results the German idea of increasing the productivity of the soil by inoculating it with nitrogenous bacteria. We don't know anybody who added so much to the national wealth as Mr. WILSON did in his sixteen years in the Department of Agriculture. He made it the greatest and the most practical and useful of agricultural universities, a national farming university. Mr. HOUSTON carried on and bettered, as Mr. MEREDITH is carrying on and bettering, the work; but the first honor is JAMES WILSON'S, great developer of our agricultural empire.

He was a marrowy and salient character. He had a genius for getting appropriations from Congress. He increased the power, the energy and the happiness of the country. Many men of noisier names haven't been of a millionth part as much use to the United States. He deserves grateful and long remembrance.

WITH NEITHER DEAR CHARMER.

Sympathy is due to Miss ALICE PAUL, and to the party of militant suffragists entire. After half a century of struggle, in the culmination of which they bore so conspicuous a part, the Nineteenth Amendment was to be signed and proclaimed. Secretary COLBY had the proclamation, also a pen and ink. It was only necessary to receive a formal certification from the Governor of Tennessee. Miss PAUL and her faithful lieutenants were on hand, some of them having sat up all night awaiting the arrival of the document. The movie men were with them, straining at the leash to confer immortality upon one and all. And then Secretary COLBY, without budging from the fastness of 1,507 K Street Northwest, wrote in his name the moment he received the certification—as if he were signing a voucher at the club.

What part in all this was played by Mrs. CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT of the rival and non-militant organization does not directly appear. She is a marvelously tactful operative, whose hand has the invisible sleight. If she were to make any claim, it would doubtless be modest to humility, like that of BRUTUS—as an older, not a better soldier. Perhaps she had received ghostly warning of a meeting at Philippi. At any rate, when Secretary COLBY wielded his fateful pen he was unencircled by the eager fair, unfilmed by the guarantor of immortality. The pin feathers on the wings of Fame brushed by, but did not touch his or any cheek.

Was this wise in a diplomatist, a Secretary of State? Probably. It seems, in fact, so wise that one suspects Mr. COLBY of tearing a leaf from the book of his kinsman, AUGUSTUS THOMAS. The playwright also was once caught in a plight which obliged him to stage a drama with two leading ladies, each having a claim on the title rôle. He called the play "The Other Girl," and in his curtain speech he remarked that at least he would be able to explain himself to either, were t'other dear charmer away. The diplomatist has, in fact, scored even upon the crafty dramatist, for he enjoyed his dignified and most significant function, and also his breakfast, unperturbed by either dear charmer.

THE PEACE OUTLOOK.

General WEYGAND has left Warsaw for Paris, evidently convinced that the campaign is over. Marshal FOCH seems to agree with him, and these gentlemen ought to know. The question now is whether the peace negotiations will come to anything. If they do not, there may be another campaign next year.

The Poles have received much advice, and most of it good advice, from their friends further west. It is argued that, since most of these friends gave nothing but advice, there is no particular reason why the Poles should listen to them on a question which concerns Poland first of all. But the case of France is different. It is doubtful whether much of the war material which France was sending for the defense of Warsaw got through in time to be of use, but there seems to be no doubt that WEYGAND saved Warsaw. The armies that have won such brilliant victories in the last week or two were the same armies that were losing all along the line before that, and with pretty much the same equipment. The only new element introduced was WEYGAND'S leadership, which insisted that political considerations in Eastern Galicia should no longer interfere with purely military problems; and t is leadership made the difference between defeat and victory. Not without reason did the Poles give him the sword of King STEPHEN BATHORY, who smote the enemies of sixteenth-century Poland right and left, and, like Lord JEFFREY AMHERST, looked around for more when he was through. The Government which sent WEYGAND has a right to be heard.

And the French advice is sound. Let the Polish armies advance while peace negotiations are going on, for a strong military position is a useful argument; but let it be known that they will withdraw to the Paris Conference frontier as soon as peace is made. Yet Warsaw newspapers, encouraged by success, are now t king about the excellent chance to "liquidate Bolshevism." Already party discord is returning, according to Warsaw dispatches, and over the question of peace. The Socialists distrust the tendency of governmental policy, and some of them already demand that their leader, Mr. DASZYNSKI, resign from the Coalition Cabinet. The National Democrats, always leaning toward good relations with Russia, are renewing their opposition to PILSUDSKI, for whom Russia was always the great enemy. This is nothing new; Mr. DMOWSKI, the National Democratic leader, returned hastily from a holiday abroad last Spring, when PILSUDSKI'S Ukrainian offensive was going well, in hope of dissuading his countrymen from taking too long a chance. The Ukrainian offensive ended in disaster, due chiefly to a line too long for the troops available to hold it. Surely PILSUDSKI cannot be thinking of trying it again.

The Bolsheviki have withdrawn one insuperable obstacle to peace. Though their note contains a good deal of argument, long-winded and irrelevant and sometimes downright ridiculous, as in its insistence on the "democracy" of their Government, it does give up the demand for a proletarian militia in Poland. Moreover, their other terms are not irrevocable; they are all subject to discuss n. With the Russians in this frame of mind, it can hardly be to the Polish interest to demand impossible terms and talk about liquidating Bolshevism.

STATEN ISLAND'S TROUBLES.

Richmond Borough has now lost both trolleys and buses, and is dependent upon taxicabs and a steam road not well situated for general service. The city administration explains that the miscarriage of its benevolent plans is due to a "studied policy of harassment." The courts will not allow the city to take over the trolley plant on its own terms. There is difficulty about getting a million dollars to start the city in the establishment of city buses. And the stubborn trolley lines refuse to increase wages unless they are allowed to increase fares. Those unable to ride would rather pay a cent or two more fare, but there is no such word as surrender in the Mayor's dictionary, and he will sacrifice the comfort of everybody rather than abandon his principles. It is a noble resolve, but it will hardly tempt the city into spending a million dollars for the Mayor's hobby. Commissioner WHALEN has ciphered it all out. On the basis of 100 buses the city could earn a profit of $376 a day, or $137,532 a year. It would take only a thousand buses to earn $1,375,000 toward the reduction of taxation, and a million buses might make taxes unnecessary.

It is an alluring prospect. The city operates the Staten Island ferries, and last year earned $1,296,788.78, but, alas, the costs were $1,353,250.96. The accuracy of the accounts is admirable, but somehow it seems as though the ferries ought to be more profitable if any confidence is to be placed in bus profits. Also, it is on record that other cities have tried municipal operation, and with cautionary results. London operates trolleys as the Mayor proposes to operate buses. The London Socialists twenty years ago were as hopeful that the trolleys would reduce the "rates" as the Mayor is that the buses would, if only the city would provide a million to prove it. The trolleys are $5,000,000 in debt, their operating loss is $900,000 for the last quarter, and the trolley service has no admirers. On the other hand, the privately owned buses are moderately profitable and popular and pay taxes, from which the trolleys are exempt. It is conceded that the Mayor and Commissioner WHALEN mean well, but there are a great many who would prefer that they should demonstrate capacity as profit makers before giving them city funds to learn the transportation business.

AN UNFORTUNATE ADMISSION.

"Politicians neither love nor hate"; and it is unkind for Democrats to revive Mr. HARDING'S ancient acid remarks about THEODORE ROOSEVELT. The mind of a politician in 1920 is a slate from which what he said or thought in 1910 or 1912 has been erased. Still, Mr. HARDING'S statement that he is "firmly convinced "that had Mr. ROOSEVELT been alive "this year I should be speaking for "him this moment as your candidate "for President rather than for my"self as the nominee of the Repub"lican Party" is apt to stir reflections and comparisons among the voters whose hero was THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

The Republican Senatorial machinists prevented the nomination of General WOOD, the Republican best entitled to pose as the heir of ROOSEVELT. They picked an excellent, uninspiring type of the backward-looking politician. Mr. ROOSEVELT was no admirer of the Senate. He loved to jeer at the pompous self-satisfaction of the Fathers Conscript. He magnified the function of the Executive. Only because they couldn't help it would the Elder Statesmen have renominated him. Mr. LODGE was about the only one of them who was on really friendly terms with him. They hated his commanding will, his instinct of social justice, his wonderful hold upon the people.

Mr. ROOSEVELT being out of the way, they show their contempt for his progressive and popular sympathies by naming a member of their own caste, an amiable Pre-Adamite. The contrast between the man of the people and the man of the Senate clique is of the sharpest. Mr. HARDING must have the Roosevelt voters; but every time he mentions Mr. ROOSEVELT'S name he evokes dangerous memories and dissimilitudes.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

He Wisely Begins with "If."

Possibilities that are decidedly interesting, though rather too remote to be considered at all important, are suggested by statements just made out in Chicago by SEYMOUR STEDMAN, the nominee of the Socialists for the Vice Presidency. "If the Socialists have a majority in the Electoral College," he said, "I can be inaugurated President in DEBS'S stead, and can then, by virtue of my office, pardon DEBS, restoring him to his rights. Or, the inauguration can be held in Atlanta Penitentiary and DEBS can pardon himself."

At first thought the assertion as to what DEBS can do seems to run up against and be shattered by the fact that a convicted felon is not eligible to public office, and that therefore to discuss an inauguration in a penitentiary is not worth while. Under the Electoral College system, however, no votes will be cast for DEBS, or Mr. STEDMAN either, and were a majority of that college Socialists the question of eligibility would not arise until after they had voted. Were it then decided against DEBS, Mr. STEDMAN could at least claim the succession on the ground of DEBS'S "inability" to serve, and if that claim were admitted there is no doubt that he could pardon DEBS and restore him to full citizenship.

Whether or not DEBS then would have, automatically or otherwise, a right to take the Presidential office is a problem that may amuse the leisure moments or hours of those who like to consider the consequences of what not only has not happened, but cannot happen. As even the most enthusiastic of Socialists does not hope to elect a majority of the Presidential Electors this year, the chances are that Mr. STEDMAN for once departed from the deadly seriousness that is his wonted manner and was seeking to cause smiles rather than alarm by his prophetic utterance.

Appreciative of Offered Advantages.

Proof that the State Department of Health was well advised or inspired when it planned the holding in rural counties of what it calls "group consultation clinics" is given by the fact that the first of them, just held in Orange County, commanded the interest and presence of both physicians and patients in large numbers.

The physicians came to see in actual application the new devices for accurate diagnosis that hitherto have been available only in the larger cities, and the patients, either on their own initiative or the advice of the local practitioners, arrived from many miles around in order to take advantage of an opportunity hitherto denied to many of them because journeys to the larger medical centres are expensive.

No trace of jealousy on the one hand or of distrust on the other marked the welcome of the visitors—good evidence that some part of advanced medical knowledge has spread far, outside of the medical profession as well as in it, and that the too prevalent resort to the worthless nostrums still so extensively advertised in the country papers may not be as much due as has been supposed to ignorance and obstinacy.

Clinics like the one in Goshen are to be held as soon as possible in the other rural counties that are asking for them eagerly, and thus there should be produced an appreciable improvement in general health conditions throughout the State.

People Still Trust Their Eyes.

Notable among the novelties of this Presidential campaign is the general utilization by both parties at their larger meetings and conventions of mechanical devices that extend by hundreds of yards the range of the human voice, and so enable the eloquence of candidates and of their advocates to make to far greater numbers of people than in the past the direct personal appeal to which politicians, probably with truth, ascribe such great importance.

In cold logic the voter ought to prefer to read what the candidates write, rather than to hear what the candidates say, for printed words can be studied far more carefully and effectively than those that are spoken, especially when they are spoken in the distracting circumstances and conditions of a political meeting. But while that is true, the fact remains that people like to see and hear the men who ask their votes, and, so nearly universal is the feeling that thus can be obtained a basis of judgment in some way better than is provided by printed articles, that there must be good reasons for it.

Whatever the reasons may be, the newspapers all recognize their existence and validity by the greater importance they usually ascribe to a delivered speech than to one that has only been written. The one is "news" and the other distinctly is not, though it may have, of course, much of a different importance as an "article."

Nobody Wants Them Back.

Should the Mexicans carry out their announced intention to arrest and send back across the frontier all of those peculiar Americans who crossed it to escape military service, they will rid their country of an element that is dangerous as well as despicable anywhere. If the Mexicans were to consult American preferences in the matter, however, instead of sending back to us our slackers and draft-dodgers, they would follow the simple plan of punishing them there for what they have done there.

According to entirely and easily credible accounts, these exiles have repaid the hospitality and protection of Mexico by plotting the establishment there of a Bolshevist government, with an incidental series of assassinations, the present officials and army officers being the selected victims.

Theoretically our own Department of Justice would like to have the fugitives returned, but really it would be well content never to see any of the sorry wretches again. In prison they are expensive, and out of it they are troublesome, and, as circumstances have enabled them to do in Mexico worse things than they did here, that is obviously the place for them to receive the law's attentions.

They are not Americans at all, really. They are merely people who lived in the United States—which is different.

The Lemon Issue.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Senator Harding's telegram to State Senator Flint says that a higher import tariff is needed to protect California lemons from the invasion of Sicilian lemons.

In New York the demand for lemons should be treble what it is, but is being artificially restricted. For instance, I can buy thirty-five lemons for 25 cents at stands across the street from Washington Market, but I can only buy ten lemons of the same size and kind for 25 cents at stores on Washington Heights.

Cut down the retailers' profits to a reasonable figure and the American market would absorb all the lemons that could be offered during dog-days.

A GREAT PRODUCER.

An Explanation of Reinhardt's Conception of the Theatre.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of the 16th you speak derisively of Reinhardt's production of "Julius Caesar," which has just been given at the great Playhouse in Berlin, and, in spite of The London Times correspondent's enthusiastic account, you are nevertheless moved to bewail the apparent immunity of some precincts of the theatre from that most uncommon sense of all common sense. This attitude leads one to believe that you are unaware of the great movement of progress in the dramatic art, a movement of which Reinhardt is perhaps the greatest exponent, and that it is because of your lack of understanding of its meaning and significance that you are pleased to compare the production to circus stunts.

One may judge from the correspondent's description, which you partially report, that Reinhardt has at last realized his ambition—the "Theatre of Five Thousand," as he calls it. This has been his dream as the theatre of the future for the production of the classic and modern great plays, through which the great elemental passions and problems of humanity can be expressed and the minds and hearts of the multitude stirred much as the Greeks were stirred by the amphitheatre productions of the dramas of Aeschylus and Sophocles in the golden period of Greek intellectual freedom.

In Reinhardt's conception of the modern theatre the characters and the chorus arise and move and meet and act practically in the midst of the audience. There is no curtain separating the stage from the audience. So taken is the attention of the audience that it becomes part of the play, part of the action, and gets the psychical stimulus and emotional stirring which the theatre should always but rarely does give. The tinsel of scenic detail becomes superfluous and unnecessary, for the attention of the audience is focused and held by the essential elements of the play—the word and the action. The lighting becomes the real source of decoration. This latter phase of the movement as well as the production of more intimate drama in this spirit has already been developed through the efforts of such men as Jones, Anderson, Simonson and others.

The result of all this is to produce actors worthy of the name. Only an actor of great resources can live in such an atmosphere.

The theatre of the future will be as different from the conventional theatre of today as the latter is different from the puppet show of the past.

Some day we may have here a theatre in harmony with the modern spirit, which, as Aeschylus puts it in Aristophanes's "Frogs," is brimful with heroical spirit

That inspired each spectator with ambition,
Courage and ardor and prowess and pride;
Replete with sublime patriotical strains,
The record and example of noble achievement,
The delight of the city.

But meanwhile the inhabitants of Eupheus, devotees of a discarded goddess, are still gathering in the market places and shouting to the unheeding skies. But the world nevertheless moves on.

Milk Freights and Prices.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am in entire accord with the principle expressed in THE TIMES editorial of Aug. 20, under the caption, "Freights in Prices"—namely, that freight increases and other taxes should not be made the excuse for exorbitant price boosts to the public. There are several statements of fact as regards milk, in the editorial, however, with which I wish to take issue. I will thank you for space for a brief reply.

Your editorial reads, in part:

"As change cannot be made in milk, the distributers are saying that the price of milk is likely to be increased '1 to 2 cents,' not all on account of an increase in freight rates, but 'in conjunction with other added charges.' Those who pay the added cent or two will rightly demand a more exact specification."

As the "one leading distributer" referred to in another part of the editorial is the Borden's Farm Products Company, it is only fair the company be given a chance to correct some wrong impressions. In the first place, the Borden's company has never indicated more than a 1 cent rise in the price of milk for September, as can be shown in my statement quoted in a TIMES article of Aug. 18, reading:

"H. A. Cronk, Vice President of the Borden's Farm Products Company, said he considered the outlook, fairly encouraging. He indicated the increase in milk prices in September would be only a cent a quart over the August price."

In the second place, the "more exact specification" for an increase, which you rightly call for, is contained in the very same article in THE TIMES. I said, in that article (issue of Aug. 18):

"This (Note—The freight rate increase) is not sufficient by itself to materially affect the price of milk to the public, but, taken in conjunction with other added charges, such as increases paid to the farmers for raw milk, it may force a change in the present price schedule. The September price to the farmer will be 30 cents a hundred pounds, containing forty-six and a half quarts, more than the August price."

By addition to the proposed rate increase, this makes an estimated total of between 41.5 and 46 cents more for 46.5 quarts, which the distributer will have to pay for September over August.

What "more exact specification," justifying a raise of a cent a quart, can this company, or any other company, give?

H. A. CRONK, Vice President,
Borden's Farm Products Company.

NEW YORK-TO NOME—1920.

Drumming over dark morasses, natural meadows deep with grasses,
Lake and stream like crystal glasses that reflect our racing planes;
Humming over peaks eternal, endless forests ever vernal,
Rapids boiling like infernal dinner pots from recent rains.
Far below our shadows speeding over flocks of wild ducks feeding,
Over lake to lake succeeding, ever to the northward fly.
Through the vast blue spaces winging, lo! our peerless planes are singing
Wondrous sagas, wild and ringing, of the conquest of the sky.
Where the bright aurora flashes, where the icy Yukon dashes,
Where the pick and shovel clashes in the rocks of virgin gold,
We are roaring, we are soaring, with the silver star dust pouring
In our wake as we go boring through the ether high and cold.
Brave immortal spirits meet us, souls of Clark and Lewis greet us,
Where's the man can ever beat us in the air which is our home!
Ho! we need no pole or paddle, guide or carrier or saddle,
As the continent we straddle from New York to frozen Nome.

HUGHES CALLS LAW BEST AMERICANIZER

Legal Aid's Work a Bulwark Against Bolshevism, He Tells Bar Association.

Closing Session Names W. A. Blount President — Adjourns Without Action on League of Nations.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 27.—Charles Evans Hughes spoke today before the American Bar Association on the necessity of obtaining swift justice for the poor at low cost if aliens are to become imbued with the confidence in American institutions essential to make them loyal citizens.

Mr. Hughes's topic was "Justice and the Poor," and in particular that of "Legal Aid Societies, Their Function and Necessity." He related what New York City had accomplished by reorganization of its lower courts.

"There is no more serious menace than the discontent which is fostered by a belief that one cannot enforce his legal rights because of poverty," Mr. Hughes declared. "To spread that notion is to open a broad road to Bolshevism.

"The way to assure the future is to promote confidence in our institutions through freedom of representation in the making of laws and through the assurance to every one, however poor or ignorant, that he can at any time be vindicated of his rights under the law. In no other way can respect for law be maintained.

"The question of Americanization is not merely one of instruction. The teaching of our language, the exposition of the Constitution, the diffusing of information as to institutions and the preaching of ideals are not enough. The final factor in determining attitude toward the Government is experience.

"The chief agencies in the interpretation of American justice to the unassimilated alien are our magistrates and municipal courts. There, and not from speeches, he finds out the extent to which he enjoys the equal protection of the laws.

"It is useless to attempt to build the administration of justice if you spread the false notion that our judicial establishment is only the mechanism of privilege. A true picture is not a mere matter of separate detail; it must give a true perspective."

Says New York's Courts Aid Poor.

Mr. Hughes described the reorganization of the New York Magistrates' Courts to provide a Woman's Court, a Domestic Relations Court, a Children's Court, a Probation Court and a court dealing with enforcement of health, tenement, labor, park and truancy laws.

He said the action of Municipal Courts had been speeded so that it was common for cases to be tried within two weeks after commencement of action, while cases involving wages received such precedence that their disposal often was accomplished on the day of action. The total court costs could not exceed $2, or even $1, if there was no defense. However, there still was difficulty in collecting judgments.

"It is the money that the poor litigant wants, not a barren opinion that he is entitled to it," he said, adding that the remedy would be to make the marshals of the court responsible to the court, whereas they are now political appointees.

"There remains, however," Mr. Hughes continued, "the more serious difficulty and its existence shows the need for legal aid societies. Without opportunity on the part of the poor to obtain expert legal advice, it is idle to talk of equality before the law. The Legal Aid Society is the poor man's lawyer and gives him the essential assistance he cannot obtain elsewhere.

"The question naturally arises, why should not this service be rendered by the municipal government? There is no theoretical reason, but unfortunately the administration of municipal government in this country has not been so successful as to justify at present its extension to this field. The service needed is one which politics would ruin."

The speaker emphasized the opportunity for service which the legal aid bureaus offered to lawyers and urged that the forty such bureaus now existing be increased in number.

"We need expert criticism of the workings of our tribunals," he added. "Legal aid organizations are the acute observers of the defects which lie beyond the ken of most successful lawyers, and they can readily serve to detect weak spots in administration where the poor are concerned."

Judge Lindsey and Others Speak.

Mr. Hughes was one of four speakers in the symposium on legal aid which occupied the morning session.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey, who developed the Juvenile Court of Denver, told the association that such courts should be established in every city, and urged the extension of their function to a further class of adults, "mostly poor people, who might be treated very much as we treat children."

Other speakers were Ernest L. Tustin of Philadelphia, on "The Relation of Legal Aid to the Community," and Reginald Heber Smith of Boston on "The Relation Between Legal Aid Work and the Administration of Justice."

William A. Blount of Pensacola was elected President of the association at the close of the morning session. He was for three years

ROCKEFELLER LIKES TRIP.

Calls Motor Boat Ride Best $10 Fun In Twenty Years.

Special to The New York Times.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 27.—"That is the most fun I have had for $10 in twenty years," said John D. Rockefeller as he stepped jauntily from a motor boat at the Paul Smith Hotel landing this afternoon. The aged but comparatively active oil magnate made the remark to Leo Kelly, who had piloted Mr. Rockefeller and his party on a two-hour trip through the upper and lower St. Regis Lakes.

Mr. Rockefeller has been visiting his brother, William Rockefeller, at the latter's camp near Paul Smith's.

Stops were made at the camp of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, and Dr. James, a motor boat owner who has been grumbling at paying 37 cents a gallon for gasoline in the Adirondacks, inquired of Mr. Rockefeller if gas was ever going to be any lower.

"Never so long as the public continues to consume more than the wells in the country can produce or are producing," replied Mr. Rockefeller, with a grin.

TELLS OF PROLONGING LIFE.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 27.—Dr. M. G. McCorkle of Portland announced today that for the last ten months he has been successfully transplating glands of youth from the goat to the human body. Each of forty-one operations, he declared, had proved successful in rejuvenating patients. Operations have not been confined to men, he says, and seven women have undergone gland transplanting.

In an interview this afternoon Dr. McCorkle said that he had every belief that his operations would not only increase vitality but prolong life.

"I transplant the glands just like an appendicitis operation and in almost the same locality," he said. "They become imbedded in the peritoneum. These glands may be absorbed in a year's time.

"Persons formerly morose and worried regain their spirits and face life with a new outlook. In addition, patients with an extremely high blood pressure have had almost unbelievable reductions in pressure."

He further added that all his men patients ranged between 61 and 74 years, while the women were between 45 and 48 years of age.

BRITISH YOUTHS FOR STRIKE

Miners' Balloting Shows General Trend for Downing Tools.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The threatened strike of coal miners continues to engross the attention of the newspapers and the public.

The balloting in South Wales on the question of whether the men shall strike virtually has been concluded. The result of the balloting as announced early today is as follows: In favor of striking, 143,471; against striking, 42,013. This gives considerably more than a two-thirds' majority in the South Wales district in favor of the men ceasing work.

The newspapers point out that boy employes in the mines, whose ages range between 14 and 18 years, are voting heavily in favor of a strike. According to The Daily Mail they are believed to have cast seven of every ten of the votes recorded in the Scottish coal fields.

Dancing Masters Hope Methodists Will Approve "Wesleyan," Which Resembles Waltz.

SLOW AND GRACEFUL STEP

Convention Hopes That It Will Appeal to Very Young and More Mature—Description Issued.

The only dance approved by the National Association of Masters of Dancing is the "Wesleyan," which was adopted yesterday at the closing session of the convention at the Astor Hotel. The new dance, it was announced, is one which the dancing masters hope may gain the approval of the Methodist Church. It is above reproach, they say, and for that reason was named for the founder of the religion that has disapproved of dancing.

The "Wesleyan" resembles the waltz, although it is somewhat slower and is more graceful than the old time minuet. It was adopted as a supplemental dance to the one step, fox trot and waltz previously approved by the dancing masters. It is believed that it will appeal to the very young and the more mature dancers. A description of the dance as issued at the convention yesterday follows:

ALTAR OF LIBERTY UNVEILED

Governor Smith and Senator Calder Speak at Brooklyn Ceremony.

The Altar of Liberty, a gift of Charles H. Higgins of the King's County Historical Society, as a memorial to the men who fell in the Battle of Long Island, was unveiled in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, yesterday. The services were impressive, the principal speakers being Governor Smith and United States Senator William M. Calder. The monument is a heroic figure of Minerva standing beside an altar of stone.

Governor Smith spoke briefly. The word liberty, he said, was sometimes greatly misconstrued and he warned that the mistaking of liberty for license and free speech for abuse of the very means that guaranteed liberty will not be tolerated.

Senator Calder reviewed the history of the Battle of Long Island. He said Brooklyn sent 144 men to Washington's army at the Battle of Long Island and gave 100,000 men to the World War.

Other speakers included David A. Boody, former Mayor of Brooklyn, and Augustus Thomas.

MEET TO PROMOTE PEACE.

International Alliance of Churches in Session in Switzerland.

BERNE, Aug. 27.—The sessions of the Royal Alliance for Promoting International Friendship Through Churches, which opened Thursday at Beatenberg, are being presided over by the Rev. Dr. William P. Merrill of New York and Professor Choisy of Switzerland.

At today's meeting the French delegation offered a statement of the conditions under which the churches are cooperating. Resolutions expressing the religious convictions underlying the movement also were adopted.

The Archbishop of Canterbury was elected President of the alliance, the German delegates taking no part in the balloting. Among the Vice Presidents elected were the Archbishop of Upsala, Metropolitan of Athens; Dr. Merrill, Dr. David S. Cairns, Professor of Theology in the United Free Church College, Aberdeen, Scotland; the Bishop of Raffay, Hungary; Dr. Spieter, Germany, and Dr. Visser, Holland.

12,000 SAILING TODAY.

Eight Liners to Depart—Betting on Time of Two Oil Burners.

Eight liners sail today for European ports with 12,000 passengers. This number indicates an improvement in the slump that occurred recently in eastbound Atlantic travel. The International Mercantile Marine Company heads the list with five steamships—the White Star liners Olympic and Celtic, the Red Star liners Finland and Gothland and the American liner St. Paul. The others are the Cunard liners Aquitania and Pannonia, the Holland-America liner Rotterdam and the Swedish-American liner Drottningholm, for Gothenburg.

Some of the important passengers on the Olympic, which is bound for Cherbourg and Southampton, are Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sabin, Sir E. Mainfold Raeburn, Marquis and Marquise de Belmont, Countess C. Cartes, Sir Alexander McGuirg and Lady Mackenzie. Some of those sailing on the Aquitania for the same ports are Crown Prince Carol of Rumania and his suite, Viscount and Viscountess Maitland, José Pardo, ex-President of Peru, and Lady Francis Bedfield.

On account of the tide, the Aquitania will sail at 4 o'clock, an hour ahead of her rival, the Olympic. Although the commanders of both oil burners deny there will be any attempt to race across the Atlantic, the passengers are looking forward to some excitement on the trip and are betting on the result.

HARD COAL AWARD CAUSES DISSENT

Miners Assert It Allows Only What Companies Would Have Granted Last Spring.

MAY ASK RECONSIDERATION

Supposed Text of Finding, Still in Wilson's Hands, Given at Wilkes-Barre.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—According to information received here tonight from the hard coal regions, the report of the Anthracite Wage Commission, now in the hands of President Wilson and not yet officially made public, is unsatisfactory to the leaders of the United Mine Workers. A reopening of the case will be asked, it is declared.

It is said that the award, which has not yet been approved by the President, will not benefit the workers any more than if they had accepted the maximum offer made by the coal companies in the negotiations last Spring. The award was signed by W. O. Thompson, Chairman of the commission, representing the people, and W. L. Connell of Scranton, representing the operators. A minority report, it is said, has been filed by Neal J. Ferry, the miner member of the commission.

C. J. Golden, President of District 9 of the Miners' Union, at Shamokin, tonight said the majority report "makes but little improvement upon the proposition of Secretary of Labor Wilson, which was rejected by the Tri-District Convention. A meeting of the Miners' Scale Committee will be called immediately and demand a reopening of the agreement in order to increase the wages of the anthracite mine workers to a living scale."

Wilkes-Barre Gets Text of Award.

"(f) Monthly men coming under the agreement of May 5, 1916, shall be paid an increase of 17 per cent., said increase to be applied to the total rate now in effect, namely, the base rate established under the agreement of May 5, 1916, plus $54 per calendar month in the case of outside employes and the base rate under said agreement plus $60 per calendar month in the case of inside employes.

"(g) The employes of stripping contractors shall be paid an increase per day or per month corresponding in amount to the difference between the rate in effect March, 1920, and the rates established under this agreement for employes of the operators in similar occupations at the same colliery.

Clause G was stricken out at the final hearing as a matter not before the commission.

EULOGIZES JAMES WILSON.

Harding Says Former Secretary Made His Department a Model.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 27.—Senator Harding issued the following statement today on the death of James Wilson, former Secretary of Agriculture:

"It was a great shock to learn of the death of former Secretary James Wilson. He was one of the pioneers in modernizing and improving agriculture. He served in the Cabinet longer than any other man in the national history.

"Two men have won and deserved the credit for planning, organizing and launching departments of our government. One was Alexander Hamilton, who created the Treasury establishment on the lines that have been followed ever since. The other was James Wilson, who, though not the first Secretary of Agriculture, was the man who placed that department on the map and made it a model that almost every progressive Government in the world has copied.

"His death takes one of the great Americans, to whom the nation owes a debt of gratitude and high regard."

YANKEES TRIUMPH IN OVERTIME GAME

MAYS STARTS ON MOUND

Pitches Well After Poor Beginning —Chicago Takes Early Lead and Nearly Wins Contest in Tenth.

The Yanks tickled 18,000 fans at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon when they unpeeled a ding-dong finish and beat the White Sox in a twelve-inning effusion, 6 to 5. Carl Mays pitched nine innings of the game for the Yanks, and although he was a bit unsettled at the start he pitched fine ball up to the ninth, when a Sox rally of three hits sent a run over and tied the score at 4 to 4.

Mays was taken out of the game in the tenth to make way for Sam Vick as a pinch hitter, and Samuel delivered with a two-bagger which was afterward carved into a run that again tied the score after the Chicago lads had taken a one-run lead in the first of the tenth. The eleventh inning was unproductive and then came the seething twelfth, with the Yanks' great defensive, which staved off the White Sox attack on Jack Quinn, and the uprising against Roy Wilkinson, which resulted in the Yank victory.

Ruel opened the last of the twelfth with a single which just glanced off Buck Weaver's glove. Quinn sent him to second with a sacrifice, and when Peckinpaugh crashed a steaming liner over Weaver's head, Ruel romped home with the victory. The Yanks were without the services of Babe Ruth. The home-run king is laid up temporarily with an infected right hand. Babe thinks perhaps a Jersey mosquito nipped him when he wasn't looking. Meusel played in right field.

Ping Bodie Issues Challenge.

The rivalry between the Yanks and the White Sox in the pennant chase almost caused a pugilistic conflagration yesterday. McMullin, coaching at first base, made a remark about Ping Bodie in the second when Ping fanned. Bodie didn't like the remark and challenged McMullin to mortal combat. The fight would have taken place except for two reasons. These were Bodie and McMullin. Neither of them went through with the optimistic predictions of their respective ability with their dukes.

"They can call me anything they want to," said Ping, "but they got to cut out personalities."

Bodie invited McMullin outside under the grand stand to settle the argument and McMullin took him up, and they were both going to leave the ball game flat when Umpire Bill Evans told them to take a look off their feet. Kid Gleason, the manager of the Sox, pushed out when he saw the storm signals and there seemed to be a look of disappointment on his face when Evans declared peace.

When Mays came out to warm up a few minutes before game time the crowd applauded him several minutes, and did not stop until he took off his cap. There was no indication of any sort that the Chicago players were antagonistic to him. After three innings of uncertain moments Mays settled down and pitched a fine game up to the ninth, when the Sox tied the score.

After Pratt tossed out Strunk in the first Eddie Collins singled to left and Weaver skied to Lewis. Jackson's single sent Eddie Collins to second, and he scored when Felsch rapped a single to left. The Yanks got their tally back in their section of the same inning. After Peck lined to Strunk, Pipp got a pass, went to third on Meusel's single to left and scored while Eddie Collins was exterminating Pratt at first.

Sox Score Two Runs.

Mays had a bad inning in the second. With one out Schalk singled and went to third on a lucky double by Cicotte down the third-base line. After Strunk flied to Peck, Eddie Collins sent Schalk home with a single, and Weaver's single scored Cicotte. After that Mays settled down.

Peck walked in the third and went to third on Pipp's single to right, scoring on Meusel's sacrifice fly to Felsch, which Happy speared on the run. The Yanks took the lead in the fourth. Lewis singled and was forced by Bodie. Ward whacked a long fly to centre which Felsch gathered with one hand after a long run. Ruel singled to left, sending Bodie to second. Mays helped his own cause with a single to left which scored Bodie, tying the score. Peck's single to centre sent Ruel home with the run which put the Yanks in front. Mays tried to score on this play standing up, but was an easy out at the plate.

It looked like the Yanks' game right up to the ninth and the people started to go to their good homes. Eddie Murphy batted for Cicotte in the ninth and Peck threw him out. Strunk singled and went to second on a single by Eddie Collins. Weaver lashed a drive down through Pipp at a mile a minute and the ball rolled to the wall for a two-bagger, Strunk scoring with the run which tied the count.

The Sox went right out after the victory in the first of the tenth. With one gone, Schalk doubled to left. Wilkinson smashed a hopper to Ward who made a wonderful stop and chucked the runner out at first, Schalk going to third. Strunk singled to right again and scored Schalk.

Vick a Good Pinch Hitter.

Sam Vick went up to hit in Mays's place in the last of the tenth and favored with a two-bagger to right field. Chick Fewster was inserted to run for Samuel. Fewster went to third while the two Collins boys, Eddie and Shano, were disposing of Peck. Pipp poked a single to right and Fewster scored with the run which gummed up the score once again.

The Sox threatened all kinds of complications in the first of the twelfth. With one down, Risberg singled and went around to third when Quinn uncorked a wild pitch which ended its career in the White Sox bench. Quinn gave Shalk an intentional pass. Jourdan, batting in place of Wilkinson, rolled to Pratt and Risberg was plucked at the plate. Strunk skied to Lewis for the third out.

With Dick Kerr pitching in their half of the twelfth, Ruel got his single, went down on Quinn's sacrifice and scored the winning run on Peck's single to left. This poke of Peck's was a red-hot liner which sailed over Buck Weaver's head. Buck went up in the air several feet for the ball but missed it and came down doubled up like a cruller.

Official Yanks-White Sox Score.

The official score by which Chicago defeated New York in the American League Thursday was 16to 5 instead of 16 to 4. In the Yankees' half of the ninth inning Fewster, batting for McGraw, was retired. Peckinpaugh walked, stole second, and went to third on Pipp's infield hit. Ruth lined to Eddie Collins, who threw to John Collins at first, doubling up Pipp. The official scorer declared that Peckinpaugh crossed the plate before the second part of the double play was accomplished, and the scoring made New York's total five.

GIANTS MAKE LONG TRIP TO BEAT REDS

Pound Out Victory Over World's Champions in Seventeenth —Second Game a Tie.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 27.—The Giants had it all framed up to win two ball games in Cincinnati today. It was a nice picture, but the frame cracked. It didn't break all to pieces at that, for the New Yorkers bit off a victory over the Reds with a savage snap in the seventeenth inning of the first game and held the local ball players level through five innings in the second, whereupon darkness settled upon the scene and put a stop to further activities except such as can be conducted by lamplight, such as mooning with Harold Bell Wright or watching kings and sevens fall down. The score of the first encounter was 6 to 4, and the epilogue resulted in no scoring whatever.

As a consequence of the afternoon's warfare, coupled with the conquest of Chicago by Kings County, the unhappy Reds took a tumble into second place, yielding the top rung of the ladder to the Robins.

The word "warfare" was used above in connection with the matinée at Redlands Field, and it is an accurate appraisal of what went on in the presence of nearly 20,000 fans. The Reds had on their kicking clothes and they staged violent protests every little while against this, that or the other decision. In fact, they kicked as much as they played, and they were playing some at that. Conventions of indignant players in the diamond were frequent, and fisticuffs were narrowly averted at times. The champions sounded the entire tragic scale from murmurs of misery to howls of horror, but their performances got them nothing except a prolongation of the game.

Arthur Nehf was in the box for the visitors in the opening encounter and was opposed by Ray Fisher. Both twirlers took a few bumps in the early stages and then settled down to a great duel. Nehf was invincible until the finish, but in the seventeenth inning the Giants found a vulnerable spot in Fisher's armor and pounded out the victory.

Game Off With a Rush.

There was plenty of action at the very outset of the game, for the first inning closed with the tally 3 to 2 in favor of the Reds, a score which appealed to the home fans as quite equitable and they would have been willing to let it go at that.

To get things under way in the initial session Burns stood around until Fisher had missed the plate four times and then sauntered down to first base. Bancroft was thrown out by Sicking. Young beat out an infield hit. Frisch scratched another hit to the infield, Burns scoring. Kelly singled sharply to centre and Young finished his trip when he threw out Spencer. Doyle flied to Duncan.

Now this was quite a telling argument to advance so early in the debate, but the Reds showed great ability at repartee in their half of the period. Groh drew a base on balls and advanced on Daubert's infield hit which Doyle could not handle in time for a play at second base. Roush acquired two strikes attempting a sacrifice and then shot a single to centre, scoring Groh. Duncan moved up both runners by sacrificing, Frisch to Doyle. Neale tied the score with a long sacrifice fly to Spencer which sent Daubert home. Sicking singled to right. Young made a good throw, but Smith missed Roush, who slid inside the plate. Rigler waited for another play on Roush, but as Smith did not attempt to tag the runner again the run scored. Bancroft threw out Crane.

Giants Draw Up Even.

The second and third innings paid no dividends to either team, but in the fourth the Giants tied up the tally. The session started with quite a tidy little scrap when Neale picked Spencer's liner off the grass and turned a complete somersault. The umpires ruled that the ball had been trapped and there was a fierce argument when Spencer was permitted to remain at first base. Not until Umpire Harrison threatened to throw Daubert out of the game did the contest get under way. Doyle doubled to right and Roush blocked a hard hit drive after a fast run. Smith singled to centre, scoring Spencer.

The Reds had enjoyed that one-run lead so much that they took it right back in the next inning. To begin with, Roush was safe on Bancroft's fumble. Duncan singled to right, and Young's throw to head Roush off at third skidded away from Frisch, Roush scoring. Duncan tried to reach third on the play, but was nailed, Frisch to Bancroft.

This didn't seem like a nice condition of affairs, and so the Giants went to batting in the sixth, cashing in three straight singles for a run, and once more equalizing the score. Spencer, the first man up, singled to right, and Larry Doyle laid down a one-base blow to centre, Spencer stopping at second. Smith lined to right for another single, and Spencer came in with the tieing run. Doyle, however, overran second base and was caught, Neale to Crane to Groh. Nehf filed to Roush. Smith ran with this hit, and as he touched second base before the ball was caught he was declared out on a double play when Roush threw to Crane, although Smith had returned to first base. The Giants were guilty of apprentice base running in this inning. They might have scored several runs.

Doyle Makes Timely Double.

As the seventeenth inning opened, Young beat out a hit to Crane. Frisch popped to Crane. Kelly singled to right, Young taking third. Spencer grounded to Daubert. Young was run down, Daubert to Rariden to Groh, Kelly taking third and Spencer second. Doyle came through with a double to left centre, scoring Kelly and Spencer. Groh threw out Smith.

The last desperate effort of the World's Champions to save the game resulted in plenty of words but no runs. Frank Frisch threw out Bressler, who batted for Fisher. Larry Doyle threw out Heinie Groh. Groh insisted Smith had interfered with him, and the players engaged in a bitter argument for a few minutes. Roush and Groh indulged in a bit of baiting and Roush made a rush for Smith. As he did so players from both clubs swarmed on the field, but the row ended with the interchange of words only. Daubert doubled to centre, but was left stranded as Doyle fielded Roush's grounder for the third out.

Douglas took the mound for the Giants in the second game, and in the five innings of the game's duration just one safe blow was made from his delivery, a double by Roush. Bressler, twirling for the Reds, was found for five safeties, including a triple by Kelly, but the visitors couldn't squeeze over the lone run which would have been ample. The tie will be played off in another doubleheader tomorrow.

In the second game Crane and King indulged in a fist fight at second base. The Reds' shortstop asserted that King had interfered with his attempt at a double play. All the players of both teams rushed to the scene and King was knocked down, but Umpire Rigler prevented serious injury to any of the athletes. Neither man was put out of the game.

CLOTHIER TO MEET RICHARDS IN FINAL

YOUNGSTER BEATS BEEKMAN

Junior Champion Takes Two Hotly Contested Sets, 11-9, 6-4—Tilden and Garland in Doubles Final.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 27.—The coming tennis generation faces that of the past, with an actual difference of two decades in age, when young Vincent Richards, the national junior champion, meets William J. Clothier, the American titleholder of 1906, in the final round in the invitation singles at the Meadow Club tomorrow. These two sharply contrasted players survived the semi-finals today, the veteran pulling out an uphill victory over Hugh Kelleher at 4—6, 9—7, 6—2, while the youngster had almost equal difficulty in eliminating Leonard Beekman in straight sets, 11—9, 6—4. The finalists in the doubles will be Tilden and Garland, and Richards and Burdick, the former pair getting past Caner and Beekman today by scores of 2—6, 6—4, 7—5, while the latter triumphed over Clothier and Dabney in easy fashion at 6—3, 6—0.

The remarkable showing made by Kelleher against the former champion was the surprise of the day, and, on the strength of his actual hitting, the younger man should have won. He made the mistake of trying to force matters as often as he seemed to be in a winning position, and invariably fell into errors in his anxiety to win the points outright. So long as he exchanged drives with the veteran, taking his time and refusing to hurry his shots, Kelleher fully held his own, and his slight superiority in volleying actually gave him the better of the argument, to the extent of winning the first set and keeping on even terms to the very end of the second.

Lobbing Saves Clothier.

Some remarkable lobbing saved Clothier in the crucial stages of this session, five of the last six games going against the service and the set being several times within his grasp before he was able to clinch it and square the match. In the third set Kelleher twice lost his service after apparently having the game on ice. Once, with 40—0 called in his favor, and again 40—15, his tendency to press his shots was again in evidence, where a continuation of his more deliberate tactics might still have won for him. At that, the speed of the loser was quite unexpected, and his accuracy and steadiness likewise came as a surprise.

Clothier played the same wonderful driving game from deep court with which he had previously eliminated Washburn, making all kinds of astonishing gets, and anticipating almost every shot in uncanny style. His ability to land the ball just inside the base line, with his deceptive top-spin, constantly puzzled Kelleher, who let many a shot go under the impression that it was sure to sail outside. Several of Clothier's lobs dropped with similar effect in crucial rallies, completely beating his opponent by their depth and accuracy.

In the opening set Kelleher advanced to a lead of 3—0, but his impatience to increase this advantage had disastrous effects. After his opponent had won a service game, he lost his own on errors and saw the score tied at 3—all with four straight points on Clothier's delivery. After losing another service through his anxiety to end the rallies too quickly, Kelleher settled back into his early method and the tide immediately turned in his favor. He broke through the veteran for a love game and took another on his own delivery, the eight straight points being gained by almost flawless tennis. Another break gave Kelleher the set, 6—4, and an upset seemed imminent.

Clothier Makes Brace.

Clothier braced, however, and won a deuce game against service, to start the second session, adding another even longer session for a lead of 2—0. With service alternating in winning, the score reached 4—3, when Kelleher once more struck his best form and upset Clothier for his second love game in succession, tieing up the games. He went to 5—4 on service, but Clothier's love game equalized.

The former champion gained a 6—5 lead when Kelleher missed the base line by a hair, but the latter caught up again with a good volley. He was in the hole, 0—30 and 30—40, in the next, losing his delivery again when Clothier planted a beautiful backhand drive in deep court, close to the side line. The veteran also trailed at 30—40 on his service, when beaten by a clean passing drive, but he made it deuce on an error, and then brought up the set point with a perfect lob, his second of the game. Kelleher's good smash saved the situation, but a third lob landed in exactly the same spot, and again it was Clothier's vantage. He hit out, however, and after two more calls of deuce, threw away the game on two successive nets.

Another great lob, coming from a remarkable recovery by Clothier gave him a winning advantage against Kelleher's next service, and, after he had floated another well-topped shot to the base line, which his rival completely misjudged, the fifth successive break in service came on Kelleher's out. Clothier dropped a neat lob-volley into deep court for his first point toward winning the game. Then he dropped a point, but passed cleanly for 30—all. A great get, followed by a decisive volley, brought up the set-point, and the match was square at 9—7, when Kelleher missed the side line.

Kelleher won his opining service in the rubber, but lost the next after leading 40—0, a surprising drop to the base line, baffling him once more for the game point. Clothier kept his lead to 4—2 and then again overcame a long lead to break through his rival's service for 5—2. Kelleher's errors lost the final game at love, and it was Clothier's set and match, 6—2.

Richards Strong in Pinches.

Richards and Beekman had a tremendous battle for their opening set, with the latter four times within a point of victory. The youngster was unsteady all the way, particularly on his usually reliable volleys, but in the pinches he invariably came through with magnificent shots, keeping his nerve admirably. After making sure of the opener, Richards had the upper hand the rest of the way, although he still threw away far too many points for comfort. Beekman was badly winded toward the close, however, and contributed some helpful errors, besides falling into a fatal softening of his game, being content to chop and push the ball instead of driving it. Up to that time, nevertheless, his game had been a remarkably steady and resourceful affair, and it was only the vast amount of running he had to do in the noonday heat that robbed him of his punch in the closing games.

Beekman was the first to serve, and the games alternated up to 3—2 in his favor. Then a double fault and the netting of three volleys lost Richards his delivery at love, but he came right back in the next game, breaking through his opponent in turn, with a fine smash for a finisher.

A love game on service brought the score to 4—all, and after Beekman had advanced to 5—4, he was within a point of the set with a clean passing shot, after Richards had twice netted easy volleys. The youngster gamely smashed a well-placed lob for the deuce point, however, and pulled the game out with two more good shots. Richards broke through again in the next game, getting a double fault and two bad errors, one following a great get of his own, and scoring the last point on a splendid cross-court placement. But he threw away his delivery once more, smashing an easy one out, after contributing a double fault toward a love game.

The Turning Point.

When Beekman had made it 7—6 on service, he was three more times within a point of the set, Richards again smashing courageously and fighting his way out of danger and eventually winning on two forced errors. This was the turning point in the match, for from that time on Richards became increasingly confident, while Beekman flagged more and more. They divided service for four more games, and then Richards got the crucial break on a succession of errors. He cleaned up the set 11—9, with a love game on his next service, getting three outs from his opponent, and then splashing a deep high bounder right into the chalk of the side line, a beautiful finisher.

The youngster lost his first service of the second set, but got it back immediately and broke through again for a lead of 3—2. He lost this advantage by carelessness on the volley into overhead, but again upset Beekman's delivery in a long deuce game, beating the server's backhand as he came in for the final point. Proceeding to 5—3, the Yonkers boy waited confidently for his next service, making little effort to stop Beekman from getting his fourth game, and then finishing the match with the loss of only one more point, 6—4.

Surprise for Tilden and Garland.

Tilden and Garland were handed the surprise of their lives by Caner and Beekman in the feature doubles match of the afternoon, the pick-up team going right through them for the opening set at 6—2, and then getting a winning position in the second when Garland twice lost his service. The latter was again distressingly ineffective, failing to put the ball away overhead and missing many a set-up, besides overlooking his opportunity to get the ball into play off service. His usual steadiness seems to have deserted him of late, and without it his game falls easy prey to average hitting. Tilden also was erratic and showed a lameness which made him take things easy.

A few gifts by Craner, particularly in flubbing overhead shots, helped to save the second set, which Garland eventually finished at 6—4 with a marvelous backhand volley of Beekman's smash. This pull-up threatened to be in vain when the eventual winners trailed at 1—5 in the rubber, and, in spite of their large defense at this critical stage, they were lucky to win. Beekman was the first to crack, but when Garland had won his service, Caner brought up the match-point, after trailing 15—40 and reaching deuce on Tilden's errors. The latter saved the situation with a jumping volley at the net, and two shots tied up the games at 5—all. Then Caner joined his partner in blowing wide open, and the losers gave away two straight games with nothing but errors. It was altogether far from an inspiring exhibition of doubles.

Burdick and Richards were much too strong on their volleys for the Clothier-Dabney combination, and won as they pleased, dropping only three games in the entire match. The singles final will be played tomorrow morning and the doubles in the afternoon.

INJURED IN AUTO RACE.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Aug. 27.—Sall Manzo, 29 years, of 174 Henry Street, Brooklyn, driving an Abbott Detroit Special, and Michael J. Cirina, 25 years, of 527 Henry Street, Brooklyn, his mechanic, were seriously injured this afternoon when the steering gear gave way while on the second lap in the fifteen-mile handicap race at the Flemington Fair. Their machine turned about and landed upon bales of hay that had been placed about the race course for protection. Manzo had his right leg broken and he was otherwise badly hurt. Cirina was buried about thirty feet. His jaw was broken and he was otherwise injured. Dr. Barclay S. Fuhrmann cared for the men at the Red Cross headquarters. Later they were taken to St. Francis Hospital, Trenton. The automobile was wrecked.

In the mile tryout Manzo had made the circuit in 1:20½. J. A. Benedict of Katonah, N. Y., won the five-mile race, making the last three miles in 2:37. Ira Vail was second and J. W. Kent of Goshen, N. Y., third. Vail took the second event, going three miles in 3:50. Benedict was second and Roy Sewalt of Philadelphia, third. In the time trials Vail made the mile in 1:10⅘.

Fordham Football Practice To Get Under Way Sept. 13

The first 'Varsity eleven that has represented Fordham University since 1917 will commence practice at Fordham Field on Sept. 13, it was announced last night by Edward de Pasquale, the manager of football at the Bronx institution. Joe Dumoe, who starred for Fordham in 1917 and who was a star end at Lafayette last year, will coach the Maroon aggregation. Although handicapped by lack of experienced material, Halloran being the only veteran who will return to college, Dumoe expects a host of promising young players out of which he hopes to mold a powerful eleven. The schedule includes games with Georgetown, Holy Cross, Boston College and George Washington University.

NAVY EIGHT WINS HEAT AT BRUSSELS

U. S. Oarsmen Defeat Belgians in Olympic Regatta—Kelly in Double Victory.

SCORES IN SINGLE SCULLS

Champion, with Costello, Then Takes Doubles Event—U. S. Divers and Wrestlers Win.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 27 (Associated Press).—The American Olympic oarsmen qualified easily in all the preliminary heats in which they were entered in the initial day of the Olympic regatta today. Jack Kelly of Philadelphia, the American champion single sculler, defeated L. Jungiof of Sweden by one and one-half lengths in the single sculls.

Kelly and Paul Costello, in the double sculls without coxswains, won from Hass and Veth of Holland by two and one-half lengths. The time made in these events was the fastest of the day.

The American midshipman eight defeated the Belgians by four lengths, leading all the way. The English eight won its heat in 7 seconds faster time than the midshipmen, but this was due to the fact that they were pushed hard by the Swiss, European champions. The Swiss eight had a good chance to win until their coxswain swerved from the course while the oarsmen were spurting near the finish.

Saturday's semi-final in the single sculls will bring Kelly in competition with Hatfield of New Zealand, and on Sunday Kelly and Costello will row against the Italian and French pairs in the double sculls without coxswain.

The midshipman eight will row the French team tomorrow and England will meet Norway. This is expected to result in a meeting of the midshipmen and England in the final on Sunday.

There was a larger attendance of spectators to see the races today than at any of the previous Olympic events. Thousands of francs were wagered on the results of the races.

The opening races of the Olympic regatta were held under favorable conditions of weather and calm in the Brussels Maritime Canal. The grandstands at the finish were decorated with flags and crowded, while the banks at that point were lined with motor yachts and launches. Large crowds filled both banks of the canal along the entire 2,000-metre course. With approximately a dozen nations represented and more than forty craft to compete in the five classifications scheduled, the preliminaries will be continued tomorrow, with the finals on Sunday.

A Straight Course.

The canal is practically without current and the course, with the start at the village of Trois Fontaines and the finish at the Yacht Club at Marly, about five miles from Brussels, is very nearly a straightaway. All along one bank of the canal, especially near the finish line, are a number of clubhouses, the Belgians having taken up rowing in earnest, and paralleling this bank is a paved highroad, which was dotted with benches for the spectators. Along the other bank is a railway line, and there were cars there which also provided seating capacity for several thousands. All regular traffic was barred for the time of the meet. The canal is about 100 yards wide, and there was little chance of crowding the boats.

All of the five scheduled events, which are as follows, were at 2,000 meters: Single sculls, double sculls, without coxswains; pair oared boats, with coxswains, four-oared boats, with coxswains, and eight-oared boats, with coxswains. All of the boats were equipped with outriggers.

In addition to the Olympic medals, the challenge trophy, offered by Count Brunetta d'Usseaux, a statuette of Pallas Athene, which is now held by the Leander Club of England, was to be competed for in the eight-oared race.

Americans Win Diving Final.

ANTWERP, Aug. 27 (Associated Press).—Americans won the first three places in the springboard diving finals of the Olympic Games today. L. E. Kuehn, Multnomah A. A. C., Portland, was first; C. Pinkston, Olympic Club, San Francisco, second, and L. J. Balbach, New York A. C., third.

In the semi-finals of the 400-meter free stroke swim, Norman Ross, Illinois A. C., and the Canadian, Vernot, won their heats. F. K. Kahele, U. S. N.; W. W. Harris, Jr. of Honolulu, and Ludy Langer, Honolulu, qualified for the finals.

The catch-as-catch-can wrestling championship of the Olympic Games was won by the American team with a total of 9½ points. Finland was second with 8 points, Sweden third with 5½ points, Switzerland fourth with 5 points, and England fifth with 2 points.

Sweden Wins Modern Pentathlon.

Sweden captured the first three places in the modern Pentathlon finals today, when Dryssen, Deleval, and Rund finished in the order named. Lieut. Col. Robert Sears and Captain Harold M. Raynor, the American contestants, finished sixth and eighth, respectively.

The five events composing the modern Pentathlon are the following: Rapid fire at target with revolver or pistol at 25 meters range, 300 meters free-style swimming, fencing, cross-country riding (distance 3,000 meters), and crosscountry running (distance 4,000 meters).

CROWD AT OLYMPICS BOOS BRITISH ANTHEM

Victory of England in Water Polo Game Angers Spectators—Apology Is Demanded.

ANTWERP, Aug. 27 (Associated Press).—The "booing" of the British national anthem at the conclusion of this afternoon's water polo match, in which England won a colsely fought game from the Belgian team, resulted in the British representatives calling a meeting of the representatives of all the nations competing in the Olympiad this evening. At the meeting a protest was made over what was termed a "national insult," and it brought a promise of the publication in tomorrow's official program and in the Antwerp papers of an apology for the action of the spectators. The apology will be made on behalf of the Belgian Olympic Committee. The American representatives attended the meeting.

The incident occurred at the conclusion of what was virtually the gala day of the Olympic swimming competitions. The Belgian Princess Marie Jose occupied the royal box. The British Black Watch Military and Piper Bands played at intervals during the program. Main interest centred in the polo championship match. The British and Belgian teams had been picked by the public as the best teams entered and, as a result, the grand stands were crowded.

The feelings of the spectators were manifest early in the contest, when each adverse decision against the Belgian team by the Swedish referee occasioned prolonged booing from the Belgian supporters. This was heightened when the referee disqualified two Belgian players and one Englishman for fouling.

The Princess was leaving the royal box amid the cheering of those in the nearby sections of the grandstand just as the Union Jack proclaiming the English victory was being run up and the band was playing "God Save the King." Those who saw the Princess continued their cheering until she entered her motor car, but a majority of the thousands present, ignoring the attempts of the Belgian officials to quiet the demonstration, booed and hissed even for a few minutes after the band had finished the anthem.

WALNUT FRISCO IS WINNER OF PURSE

Trots to Victory in Feature Race at Poughkeepsie After Losing Two Heats.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Walnut Frisco, with Valentine in the sulky, took the 2:11 trot, the feature event of Grand Circuit Getaway Day at the Hudson River Driving Park this afternoon. Four heats were necessary to settle the issue, breaks in the first two having prevented Walnut Frisco from winning in regulation time. It was Valentine's fourth victory of the meeting. Forest B. was second, with Dudette, which won the first heat, but thereafter showed little speed, third.

Electron Dillon won the 2:15 class trot, leading in the first two heats and rating second to Baroness Cochato in the third, while Red Border took the last event of the day and the meeting, the 2:20 class trot. There were nine starters in each of the last two events.

DEMPSEY UNCORKS SPEED.

Farrell Sets Furious Pace—Champion Weighs 190 and Miske 196.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Aug. 26.—Boxing critics who watched Jack Dempsey go through his paces today observed the heavyweight champion uncork a burst of speed that is astonishing for a heavyweight. The reason for the outburst was the furious pace set by Marty Farrell, a California middleweight, the latest addition to Dempsey's staff of sparring partners.

Dempsey announced today that he weighed 190 pounds, and Miske announced his weight at 196 pounds.

Miske limited his boxing to four rounds, stepping two with Jack Heinen, the Chicago heavyweight, and two with a local heavyweight named Carl Davis. The challenger, however, spent forty minutes in the ring, heaving the medicine ball, shadow boxing and punching a sand bag.

Miske also gave a snappy exhibition with Johnny Tillman, a Minneapolis welterweight, who is to meet Jack Britten for the championship in that class in Cleveland, Sept. 3.

LEVINSKY BOUT ASSURED.

Carpentier's Manager Sets Rumor of Cancellation at Rest.

Rumors that Georges Carpentier, the French champion heavyweight, intended to cancel his prospective bout with Battling Levinsky at Ebbets Field on Columbus Day, Oct. 12, were set at rest last night by Jack Curley, promoter of the bout, who made public a cablegram from Carpentier's manager, Francois Descamps, confirming the arrangements for the bout. Curley cabled to Descamps regarding the rumors and was informed in reply that Carpentier would sail for this country on the Lorraine and that he intended to live up to the agreement for the Levinsky match.

Promoter Curley's cablegram to Manager Descamps in Paris was as follows:

"Conflicting and hurtful reports current here that you have canceled the Levinsky bout; also that you are signed by Cochran to box Dempsey here during November or December. Answer."

Descamps's reply was as follows:

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The stable of Sam C. Hildreth, which has been most unfortunate this season, suffered another stinging blow this afternoon when Mad Hatter, the best of the horses which the veteran trainer has left in training, was soundly beaten in the Glens Falls Handicap at a mile and a quarter. Though a strong favorite, Mad Hatter was so far out of it at the end that he was only third, three lengths back of E. R. Bradley's Best Pal, which ran a remarkably fine race and won in one of the closest finishes of the day from William Martin's Bell Solar.

The defeat of Mad Hatter may mean the last appearance of a Hildreth horse at Saratoga, for some of his string have already been shipped to New York. There were no excuses for Mad Hatter, however, as Best Pal not only made all his own pace for the entire distance, finally racing the Hildreth horse into submission, but he displayed excellent courage in the stretch drive when he held on to win by a head from Bell Solar, which finished with a rush.

Without taking any glory from Best Pal, which ran what was probably the best race of his career, Mad Hatter is quite evidently not in the form which he displayed as a three-year-old. He has proved now that he cannot carry weight against high-class horses. He was no match for Best Pal, though the two were in at scale weights.

Best Pal Sets Fast Pace.

Best Pal took the lead passing the stands for the first time and set a terrific pace all the way. Clarence Kummer, who rode the Hildreth colt, moved up in the backstretch and attempted to race with the leader. Mad Hatter got to within half a length of the Western colt when Best Pal, under urging, drew clear again. Mad Hatter was practically beaten at that point. He tired badly and was hopelessly out of it when the stretch was reached.

Best Pal shot into the stretch with a lead of three lengths, but was kept under a hard drive all the way, for Bell Solar, with her light impost, was fast moving up and Jockey Lyke had to give Best Pal all the assistance he could to get him home in front. Bell Solar would have been the winner in another stride or two.

P. A. Clark's Dunboyne made a very impressive comeback in the opening race of the day, a six furlong sprint, in which some of the crack performers went to the post. It was his first appearance under colors since his defeat in the Toboggan Handicap at Belmont Park, and he came back fit. He won by half a length from Star Master, with Crank third, while Lion d'Or, which carried the top weight of 128 pounds, staggered under the impost and was fourth, after setting the pace for half a mile.

Bad Start for Crank.

Dunboyne was rated close behind Lion d'Or to the turn in the stretch, where he moved up and easily assumed the lead. Lion d'Or had displayed excellent speed, but the weight told on him when he was forced to stand a challenge from so good a horse as the winner, and he dropped out of the race completely. Star Master made a desperate effort in the final furlong, but never seriously threatened the winner. He had all he could do to save second from Crank, which finished only a head back of him. Crank had suffered badly from a slow start, having been the last to leave the barrier. He was forced to go wide all the way or he might easily have been second.

One of the "biggest killings" of the Saratoga meeting was engineered successfully in the third race, a five-furlong dash for two-year-old maidens, when the Red Stone Stable's Sailing B. romped home two lengths in front of Rancocas. Squaw Man was third in a field of ten. It was the first start for Sailing B., and little or nothing was known about him except by those who had been invited to participate in the coup. As a result he won at 4½ to 1, having been backed down at the last minute from 8 to 1.

There was no mistake about his ability, for once he left the barrier he raced into a long lead and was galloping at the end. Rancocas was second all the way, while Wild Thoughts, which had been made the choice, tired in the stretch and lost the third share of the purse to Squaw Man. Sailing B. was lost to the Red Stone Stable as a result of his smart victory, for he was claimed by Emil Herz after being bid up to $6,000. The colt ran as though he was worth much more.

England Uncovers New Golf Star in Mishima, a Japanese

A Japanese golfer, who can really make brilliant shots instead of just dubbing around as several are doing weekly at Van Cortlandt, is being watched in England this year, for he is the first of the race to reach the dizzy heights of the semi-final of an open tournament. He is Y. Mishima, who learned his game several years ago while a resident of New York, and he is now playing at Oxhey, home club of Ted Ray. In the recent Peace Challenge Cup Tournament at North Foreland, home club of Abe Mitchell, he reached the semi-finals. Mishima first drew attention in the world of sports back in 1912 when he represented Japan in sprint races at the Stockholm Olympic games.

ELMER HOLDS TITLE IN ARCHERY SHOOT

Scores 2,268 in Annual Tournament — Miss Wesson Is Women's Champion.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—Dr. R. P. Elmer of Wayne, Pa., present national archery champion, retained his title today by making the highest total score of any contestant in the three days of the fortieth annual tournament of the National Archery Association. His total score was 2,268. James Jiles, Pittsburgh, finished second with a total of 2,170; Homer S. Taylor of Massachusetts, third with 2,020, and Cyrus E. Dallin, Massachusetts, fourth, with 1,702.

The national championship for women was won by Miss Cynthia Wesson, Cotuit, Mass.

Dr. Elmer won the double York event, which was begun yesterday and completed today. His score was 802 in 184 hits. Jiles was second with a score of 771 and Taylor third with 759.

Miss Wesson won the wand event after being tied with Miss Palmer, and also won the flight shoot.

ARIE SHOOTS WELL IN GRAND AMERICAN

Illinois Gunner Breaks 97 Targets from 23-Yard Mark, Leading Troeh by Three Birds.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—A severe electrical storm and heavy rain late today marred the shooting of the Grand American Handicap, the feature event of the week's international trap shooting tournament here. Only five squads had finished shooting the specified 100 targets when the storm broke. Shooting will be resumed tomorrow morning, weather permitting.

Of those who finished their strings of 100 clay pigeons today, Mark Arie of Champaign, Ill., winner of the American amateur championship event earlier in the week, headed the list with a score of 97. Arie shot from the 23-yard line, the extreme handicap distance, and marksmen consider his performance today a noteworthy one.

G. W. Lorimer of Chicago, won the 1919 Grand American Handicap with a score of 98, shooting from the 18-yard line.

Following Arie today in the list of completed scores was Frank Troeh of Vancouver, Wash., who had a score of 94, shooting also from the 23-yard line. Troeh missed only two targets in his first 75, but missed four in the last 25.

A number of gunners have a chance to take the lead by perfect scoring tomorrow, but no one has a chance to break 100 straight.

Short Sales and High Money Rate Unsettle Stocks—Gold Coming from France.

Stock market trading yesterday showed a lack of uniformity, which denoted the absence of positive influences to send prices in either direction. The appearance of the list at the close of business indicated that professional sharp-shooting at particular groups of industrial issues comprised the bulk of the day's activities. In this process the motor and sugar stocks were the chief sufferers, one or two of the former going through rather abrupt reactions. The bears have found ammunition against the automobile stocks in reports of slackened manufacturing at some centres and also through belief that credit restrictions may have application in this field if certain of the companies find it necessary to borrow in the next few months. It is to be said, however, that the automobile makers for the most part have substantial working capital and if a pinch should come in respect to a lighter demand for their products they ought to be able to live on their "fat" until business improves. These corporations enjoyed an excellent eighteen months up to the end of last June.

Railroad shares were steady and, in case of a few there were signs of accumulation on a generous scale. Rail bonds held their own in the face of what looked like realizing sales among issues which had gone forward quite rapidly in the earlier days of the week. The railroad shares and bond market might have done better than it did—and the same supposition goes also for industrial stocks—if call money had acted differently. The renewal rate of 8 per cent. was the highest since the first week of the month and before all applicants had filled their needs the quotation was up to 10 per cent. This was the highest rate in more than five weeks and stood in contrast with a 6 per cent. rate a year ago. The money and credit market came in for fresh discussion in brokerage circles because of the stiff rate and by reason of Governor Harding's remarks about the Reserve Board's attitude toward bank loans. His assertion, in a statement Thursday, was merely a reiteration of what had been said by Reserve Board officials before, namely, that the authorities had not attempted to discriminate between borrowers and had left it to the member banks to use discretion in loans so that credit be used most wisely. It has been known that the banks have aimed to decrease the use of credit in speculation and business in some directions has undoubtedly been affected, which is made much of by partisans of the economic school in stock market circles that would permit further inflation for the sake of stimulating speculation in securities for the rise.

The country's credit base is to be increased in the near future through receipts of gold sent by France in anticipation of the Anglo-French loan payment. It was learned yesterday that between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 is on the way and while the probable movement has been reckoned at $20,000,000 to $50,000,000, no official announcement has been made in regard to a limit of shipments. Sterling exchange receded more than a cent during the morning from Thursday's final quotation, but firmed up in the afternoon to 3.56¾, a rate only a half-cent lower than the day before. Should information come that France was preparing to liquidate a larger portion of the loan through gold than has been expected, it is possible to conceive of a rally in sterling, although the trade situation hardly points toward a consistent and protracted rise. The July commerce figures show that the outflow of wheat and manufactured goods, with petroleum and its products, is maintained on a scale much heavier than a year ago.

NEW MARINE ENGINE SAVES 67% ON OIL

PROVES WORTH IN TESTS

Charles M. Schwab Announces a Triumph for Bethlehem Steel Co. Achieved by Designer West.

Charles M. Schwab, Chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, announced yesterday that Arthur West, designer for the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, had perfected a marine Diesel engine which, with one-half the number of cycles in use on the present type of engine, can be operated with one-third the amount of oil generally used by ships with oil-burning steam machinery.

Giving credit for the achievement to Mr. West, Mr. Schwab says the new engine is as far ahead of the present oil-burners as the oil-burning ships are superior to coal-fired vessels and that the new engine can be used on vessels of any size. A thorough trial has been given the new engine, both ashore and in vessels, and Mr. Schwab says that his corporation is now building more of the engines. This is his announcement:

"It is a great pleasure for me to announce that the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Ltd., have perfected a new two-cycle fuel-saving marine Diesel engine especially designed for American operating conditions and adapted to land use as well as cargo vessels of any size. In the science and practice of marine engineering this new engine represents a far greater advance over the oil-burning steamship than the latter is over the coal-fired steamship. It is also regarded as a signal triumph for American engineering skill in a field hitherto dominated entirely by Europeans.

"The development of the new Bethlehem fuel-saving Diesel engine represents two distinctive phases of advance in marine engineering.

"1—For the first time an internal combustion heavy oil engine for either marine or land uses has been perfected which is not only designed and built by Americans but is built especially for Americans and is adapted to American operating conditions.

"2—For the first time a two-cycle internal combustion heavy oil engine has been perfected which produces the same horse power as a four-cycle engine practically twice its size and is at the same time adaped to large cargo ships, while saving two-thirds in fuel cost alone, as compared with steam-driven oil-fired vessels.

"Neither of these developments is theoretically a new idea. For years Europeans have successfully operated large ships with Diesel engines. The achievement of Arthur West, the Bethlehem designer, who is at the head of our power department, is in the adaptation of the two-cycle engine to American operation and in its perfection for practical use in cargo vessels of any size.

"The success of this engine has already been demonstrated in two ways. It was installed and operated for ten months as part of the power plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at Bethlehem, Pa. It was then installed in our new ore-carrying vessel, the Cubore, which today completed on regular schedule time its first voyage to Cuba and return."

PROMISES QUICK ACTION ON NEW EXPRESS RATES

Little Opposition Develops at the Interstate Commerce Commission's Hearing on Application.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Testimony in support of its application for an additional increase of 15 per cent. in express rates to cover increased wages was presented by representatives of the American Railway Express Company today to examiners of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The hearing developed virtually no opposition on the part of shippers.

The examiners stated at the conclusion of the hearing that the case would be submitted without delay to the commission, which will expedite its consideration although no decision is expected before Sept. 1, when the increase of 12½ per cent. already allowed the express company will become effective.

M. R. Gwyn, Chairman of the Wages and Working Conditions Committee, and Charles A. Lutz, Controller of the express company, appeared in support of the application, while Harry T. Moore, traffic manager for the Atlanta, Ga., Freight Bureau urged limitation of the advance to 10 per cent.

Mr. Gwyn told the examiners that instead of the increased wages as awarded by the Railroad Labor Board totalling $30,000,000 as estimated by the board, it would reach $42,296,340, because of the necessity for a readjustment of pay for supervisory officials who were not benefited by the award.

Immediate relief is necessary, Mr. Lutz asserted. The express company for the first six months of 1920, he said, had a deficit of $21,097,132, which did not include increased pay retroactive to May 1, provided in the wage board's award. He estimated the back pay at $30,000,000 monthly for both May and June.

Mr. Moore said that because of increased business and of improved morale among the employes due to the wage award, a 10 per cent. increase would be adequate.

$6,000,000 IN GOLD COMES FROM FRANCE

This Is First Consignment for Liquidation of Share in $500,000,000 Anglo-French Loan.

Some time today $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 in gold will be carried across the city in closely guarded motor trucks and deposited in the Sub-treasury. It will be the first shipment of French gold sent here to aid in paying off France's share of the $500,000,000 Anglo-French Loan which was negotiated and floated here in the Fall of 1916, and will probably be followed at irregular intervals by similar consignments until the total shipped from abroad reaches a minimum of at least $40,000,000 or $50,000,000. The bullion was shipped here on the Cunard liner Mauretania, according to information obtained in the financial district yesterday, although the Savoie, sailing direct from Havre, was said in other quarters to be the vessel carrying it.

In banking circles news that the movement had started was interpreted to mean that the French will test the effect of such shipments on the exchange market. Should it stiffen francs appreciably, it was the opinion that it would have considerable bearing on the size of the offering made in this country. Many different statistics have been submitted by both the French and the American bankers, and while it was asserted in authoritative quarters yesterday that no announcement of the loan would be forthcoming until after Labor Day, it was understood that a good deal depends on the cable advices which will pass between the representatives of the French Government and Paris.

Maurice Casenave, head of the French War Services here, returned to New York yesterday from Washington, where he had gone to introduce the French loan emissary, Jean Parmentier, to friends. It was stated that Mr. Parmentier's visit was formal and should not be interpreted as having any connection with the terms of the loan.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Market Irregular.

The course of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday was marked by irregularity. Here and there some strong spots appeared, but most of the ultimate changes did not show other than narrow swings, as compared with the closing prices of the preceding day. The bears were again active, endeavoring to pick out the weak points for further attack. Short selling, however, did not appear to make any great headway, but the bears had better ammunition than has developed in some time, as money rates were high, touching 10 per cent. and closing at that level. Reports indicated there was some good buying going on in the rail shares, but the industrials as a group were not so much in demand. The motor stocks were under pressure almost from the outset of trading and several showed substantial losses at the close.

Call Money at 10 Per Cent.

Traders on the long side of the market were looking a bit dubiously yesterday at the call money market. The renewal rate was 8 per cent., and later money soared to 10 per cent., which was the closing level. This is the highest rate that has ruled in many weeks and it was recalled yesterday that demand funds at this time a year ago were to be had at about the 6 per cent. level. There have been various explanations offered as to the rise in call money, not the least of these referring to the crop movement. Still, if call money could remain at about 6 per cent. last year at this time, with the crop movement calling for funds then, it would be natural to assume, it is contended, that the supply of funds is low this year if the transfer to the West is causing the upturn in call rates. Most bankers agree that there is no overabundance of call money to be diverted to stock market purposes.

Replogle Steel Earnings.

Those who were paying big prices for Replogle Steel a short time ago in the stock market and held the stock may feel disappointed when they read the earnings statement for the first six months of this year, which shows 90 cents a share on the 250,000 shares of stock outstanding. It is explained that delays in putting plants in operation have been encountered, but this does not offset the fact that earnings for the period mentioned are decidedly low, compared with the price at which the stock was selling not long ago. It is the opinion of many that the stock had been in the hands of some expert operators who, by pool activity, boosted stock market quotations. Predictions of a big future, which have been numerous, have yet to be fulfilled.

Higher Steel Prices.

There has been much talk recently in trade circles, which have already felt the sting of lower prices, that the prosperity which appeared to be indelibly associated with the steel industry would before long begin to disappear. The predictions may ultimately turn out to be correct, but steel prices are advancing and most companies have enough business on their books to keep them busy over a long period. This is on the presumption that wholesale cancellations do not take place. With reference to prices The Iron Age, in striking an average of the eight principal iron and steel products, reports that the quotation this week is $54.50, as compared with $84.41 on Aug. 17. This gain follows a slight decline in price, but steel prices are holding remarkably well, and, with higher freight rates, advancing prices are anticipated. In some cases the United States Steel Corporation is selling its products at a price about $40 a ton lower than the independents.

The Anthracite Commission Report.

News that the report of the Anthracite Coal Commission, which has been awaited eagerly by producers, distributors and dealers, as well as by consumers, had been sent to President Wilson was received with general approval. The feeling now is that in due course the report will result in establishing a basis for the price of hard coal and the confusion which has been so evident since last Spring will at last be settled. In some quarters the fact that both a majority and minority report had been submitted was not considered in a favorable light, but the fact that the matter had been finally passed on to the President afforded relief to the trade and inspired the hope that a definite price basis will at last be possible.

One Blooming Auto Rose.

The statement has been made so many times of late that the bloom was off the automobile rose that it was surprising yesterday to hear from a man who has just visited the Ford automobile plant in Michigan that production there is being speeded up. In the last six weeks production has advanced from 3,200 cars a day to almost 4,000, according to the report, and it is the aim of the Fords to turn out 4,200 or more cars every day after Sept. 1. He said also that in two other plants he visited inventories were being scaled down to fixes the rate per mile. This, they said, would be found to be true in several other instances.

Hurrying the New Express Schedules.

There has been a great rush to prepare the new express rate tariffs by the express companies, so that they may be put into effect Sept. 1. The news that the companies had applied for another rate increase in addition to the one they were granted was not altogether a surprise. The second increase has been asked to meet the increase in operating expenses due to the award to express employes by the Labor Board a short time ago.

Rails React Slightly.

The railroad shares which had been the early strength of the stock market in most of the trading sessions during the week reacted fractionally yesterday, although Reading, which had enjoyed a substantial advance from day to day, reacted more than a point, and Southern Pacific at the close was fractionally off. Union Pacific and some other issues advanced, but the more active rails, both high and low priced, gave some evidence of profit-taing on a small scale. This was attributed in some measure to selling by those who saw good profits for the week on the long side and were not willing to wait until the half holiday session to take them.

Enjoining the State Commissions.

One of the real tests of the powers conferred upon the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Transportation act will be made when the Federal Court in Nebraska acts on the application of the Rock Island System for an injunction restraining the State Commission from enforcing the two-cent-a-mile law on Sept. 1. M. L. Bell, general counsel for the road, said some time ago that this is the time for the courts to look at the railroad problem as one of business and industry, and that proper transportation should be the most important consideration.

COTTON FUTURES CONTINUE CLIMB

LIVERPOOL LENDS HOPE

Active Buying Advances British Market 80 to 93 for Near Months and 50 to 65 for Later.

Cotton prices in the local futures market continued to make progress forward yesterday despite the opposition offered at times by what looked like short selling of large calibre. Quotations were easily bid upward 50 to 80 points in the first half hour, aided by a strong market at Liverpool, and while later reactions eliminated temporarily much of the advance, a late rally carried the list up with power. Final quotations showed gains of 60 points in October contracts, 58 in December, 72 in January, 72 in March, 40 in May and 33 in the nominal July figure, compared with the day before.

The correction of a previously oversold position was aided by cables from British spinning centres, which told of a fair demand for yarns and cloths and of an active buying movement at Liverpool. The British market closed firm at 80 to 93 points advance for the near months and 50 to 65 for the later months. While prices over there had been better on Thursday, there were then few indications of a real rally. In addition to professional selling, the unsteady periods at New York were brought about by Southern liquidation and hedge selling, due to unsettlement caused by the recent sharp declines of spot prices. Weather reports showed considerable rain in Southern Texas and in Arkansas, with an unfavorable map showing for today.

The New York Cotton Exchange will be closed Saturday, Sept. 4, as an extra holiday in advance of Labor Day, and on Sept. 7 the semi-centennial of the institution will be celebrated by closing at noon.

LOANS CUT $219,900,000.

War Finance Board Now Has $132,200,000 Outstanding.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Loans of the War Finance Corporation have been reduced $219,900,000 since it ceased making loans and began liquidation of its affairs. Total outstanding loans on Aug. 21 amounted to $132,200,000, according to figures made public today by Managing Director McLean.

Advances to railroads, which at the highest point aggregated $204,700,000, have been reduced by repayment to $64,600,000. Practically all of those outstanding are call loans, and officials expect a further substantial reduction before the new year.

Cattle loans, made principally through Kansas City and Dallas cattle loan agencies, have been largely repaid. Accommodations extended through the Dallas agency have been wiped off the books, and $67,000 remains to be repaid by the Kansas City agency.

Banks and bankers to whom aid was given so they might meet the demand for loans have returned all but $158,000 of their borrowings.

Public utilities, to which nearly $40,000,000 was loaned during the war, have repaid less than half and are the only group which has not liquidated to the extent expected, $21,233,000 remaining unpaid. Industrial corporations, however, have reduced their original borrowings from $23,800,000 to $953,000.

The figures reveal that earnings of the corporation for the first half of the year were $12,477,000, against about $10,000,000 for the same six months in 1919.

Offers Prizes for Commodities.

The Chicago Board of Trade has offered $10,000 in prizes for the best exhibits of grain, hay and seeds at the International Grain and Hay Show, to be held at the International Livestock Exposition at the Union Stock Yards, Nov. 27 to Dec. 6.

A desire to aid in improving the quality and quantity of grain yields prompted the voting of the $10,000 premiums.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The directors of the Standard Bank of South Africa, Ltd., have declared an interim dividend at the rate of 14 per cent. per annum less income tax.

The Board of Directors of the Keystone Tire and Rubber Company have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent. on the common stock.

WHEAT PRICES HIGHER.

Increased Offerings at Close Causes Upturn.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Buying which was credited to shorts was a feature of the early wheat market. The demand for cash grain from the seaboard was less urgent, and the market seemed to feel the effect of the offerings of Canadian grain at lower prices than previously here, due to the difference in exchange. After starting unchanged to ⅜c. higher, with December $2.33½ to $2.34 and March $2.29½, additional strength developed and prices soon advanced above yesterday's highest point.

Wheat prices advanced around six cents from the previous day's close, when offerings increased on the bulge and caused a reaction which resulted in part of the upturn being lost, but at the finish the market showed a net gain of 2¼ to 3¼c. over the previous close with December $2.36¼ to $2.36⅝ and March $2.30¼.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER—Receipts yesterday, 8,271 packages. Trading is quiet, as is usually the case during the August week ends. There is no surplus of strictly fancy butter, although the movement in the wholesale market is lighter and a slightly easier feeling prevails in medium and lower grades. Danish continues to sell slowly. Creamery, higher than extras, pound, 57¼@58¼c; extras (92 score), 56¾@57c; firsts (90 to 91 score), 54@56¼c; firsts (88 to 89 score), 51¼@53c; seconds (83 to 87 score), 48¼@51c; lower grades, 47@48c; Danish casks, 52½@54½c; unsalted, higher than extras, 60@61c; extras, 58¼@59½c; firsts, 54@57¼c; seconds, 51@53c; State dairy tubs, finest, 56@57c; good to prime, 51@55½c; common to fair, 46@50c; ladles, current make, firsts, 46@48½c; seconds, 43@45½c; lower grades, 42@42½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 43@44c; No. 2, 42½c; lower grades, 38@42c.

EGGS—Receipts yesterday, 14,138 cases. Arrivals of high-grade fresh eggs are still a little short of the needs of the trade and the market closed firm, with some sales at a further slight advance. Medium and lower grades irregular but meeting a fair call at prices proportionate to quality. Storage eggs held firmly with a fair demand. Fanciest grades of nearby white eggs are favoring the seller under short supplies. Medium and lower qualities irregular and without material improvement. Fresh gathered, extras, dozen, 61@62c; extra firsts, 58@60c; firsts, 54@57c; seconds, 49@53c; dirties, No. 1, 44@46c; checks, fair to choice, dry, 41@43c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, 54c; firsts, 50@53c; seconds, 46@49c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western, hennery whites, extras, 72@75c; extra firsts, 68@71c; firsts, 64@66c; gathered whites, firsts to extra firsts, 64@71c; under grades, 57@63c; Pacific Coast, white, extras, 72@75c; extra firsts, 68@70c; firsts, 63@66c; under grades, 54@62c; Petaluma, small, 54@56c; other Western and Southern, gathered whites, 55@66c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western, hennery browns, extra, 64@68c; gathered brown and mixed colors, graded extras, 61@63c; firsts to extra firsts, 54@60c.

TRADE REVIEWS OF WEEK.

The trade reviews of the last week say that there was a continuance of dullness and that buyers are becoming more discriminating. Dun's Review says:

"The inevitable transition began some time ago in certain directions and has since become sufficiently extended to compel widespread attention, although some trades are not yet participating in the movement, and the price reductions in primary channels are not fully reflected in retail circles. The purchasing disposition of consumers, however, has undergone an unmistakable reversal, which partly accounts for the liquidation of some goods previously taken on speculation, and the increasing competition for business that has appeared in different lines is another indication that sellers no longer hold the commanding position. That the advancing season may be accompanied by some renewal of buying activity seems not improbable; but the scope of the improvement will depend very largely upon the action of prices. Constant reiteration of this fact is essential in any discussion of the commercial outlook."

Bradstreets says:

"Trade and industry continue irregular, with rather more quiet conditions visible in a number of lines as August draws to a close. On the other hand, several rather favorable features deserve mention in order that the exhibit should not be regarded as an entirely gloomy one. The really big developments of the week are, indeed, rather outside of the line of purchasing and manufacture, these including a very decided gain by the railroads in the matter of clearing up past and present congestion, the going into effect of the new and higher freight rates, and, stimulated thereby, the apparent parting of the railways from the industrials as regards strength and market activity, and the slightly better tone of the bond market, especially in railway securities."

REPLOGLE STEEL EARNINGS.

The Replogle Steel Company for the first six months of this year reports a net income of $224,629, or the equivalent of 90 cents a share on the 250,000 shares of stock. This income is derived entirely from income on securities owned and revenues from interest and dividends, and the only charge against gross income is $4,119 to cover administration expenses. In the report W. H. Brevoort, President of the company, says that the statement reflects only interest on bank balances, call loans and bonds.

"Owing to unavoidable delays in obtaining fabricated materials," he says, "the new blast furnaces of the Wharton Steel Company, owned entirely by the Replogle Steel Company, will not be put in operation until the last of the year."

The ore reserves asserted that more than 300,000 tons of mined ore is in reserve. The new Replogle mill and reduction works, constructed at a cost of more than $1,500,000, is working three shifts a day, producing and stocking at the blast furnaces concentrate averaging 60 per cent. iron, with low phosphorus content. The new freight tariffs, it is said, will increase the cost of delivery alone on 50 per cent. Lake ore to the Eastern district by approximately $5 a ton, an amount which is more than sufficient to cover the entire cost of producing Replogle 60 per cent. concentrate.

The balance sheet shows cash assets to the amount of $1,681,440 and accounts receivable of $2,875,000. Loans and notes receivable amount to $1,500,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 27.—It is reported from Christiania that the customs authorities there have seized a box containing 70,000 rubles in Russian gold coins, as well as Bolshevist literature.

The supposed owner of the box is a man named Madsen, editor of the journal Ny Tid, in Drontheim. He brought it from Russia to Kerkenaes in a motor boat. He was accompanied by two foreigners. All three will be proceeded against in the Norwegian courts.

GOVERNOR GREETS MRS. CATT HERE

Four hundred suffragists and Governor Smith welcomed Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, when she returned from Tennessee with three of her co-workers yesterday afternoon. "I am very much pleased to assist in extending a welcome to the leader of the nation's forces which have played such a large part in bringing about the political freedom of the motherhood of America," said Governor Smith.

Included in a group which escorted Mrs. Catt from the train to a limousine decorated with suffrage colors was United States Senator William M. Calder. With Mrs. Catt were Mrs. Harry Taylor Upton of Ohio, Vice Chairman of the National Republican Executive Committee; Miss Charl Williams of Tennessee, Vice Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Miss Marjorie Shuler, an officer of the national suffrage organization, all of whom were in the Tennessee battle for ratification. Mrs. Catt was welcomed also by Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Mrs. John Blair, Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip and others. Mrs. Blair presented a wreath of yellow chrysanthemums and blue Canterbury bells.

Led by six mounted policemen, Mrs. Catt's automobile was driven slowly up Seventh Avenue, followed by the 71st Regiment Band, behind which came a group of suffrage leaders bearing banners. Mrs. Blair and Miss Hay led the group. The national suffrage banner was carried by Mrs. Frederick Edey.

At the Waldorf a mass meeting was held in the ballroom. Miss Hay presided. After several persons had emphasized the hard fight won in Tennessee Mrs. Catt spoke. She disclaimed credit for the victory, praising Governor Roberts for his share in the ratification.

"If any one dares oppose your right to vote," she said, "we're coming there with a legal battle and we'll beat them. But let us remember always that we must consecrate ourselves to the realization of government by the people, and let us refuse to support, regardless of party, the man or woman who does not promise to support that principle."

Mrs. Catt will go to her farm at Briarcliff, N. Y., in a few days for a rest.

GOV. HOLCOMB TO CALL SESSION ON SUFFRAGE

Election Laws to be Amended to Permit Vote This Fall—Tennessee Workers Return.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 27.—Governor Holcomb will call the General Assembly into special session on Sept. 14 to amend the election laws of Connecticut so as to permit women to have full participation in the Fall election. It is expected the session will last but a single day. The Democratic State Convention will be held Sept. 15 and 16.

Ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment will be observed by the women of Connecticut tomorrow with the ringing of bells and the blowing of whistles in every city and town in the State.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The Tennessee organizers for the National Woman's Party returned tonight after a month's work to obtain the thirty-sixth ratification. All the workers of the Woman's Party remained in Nashville until word was sent them yesterday morning by Alice Paul that the suffrage proclamation had actually been signed and issued.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 27.—Women of this municipality today claimed the distinction of being the first to vote under the provisions of the Nineteenth amendment, the ratification of which was proclaimed yesterday by Secretary of State Colby. A special election was held on a proposal for an $85,000 bond issue.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—Not more than 175,000 of the 500,000 women eligible to vote in Philadelphia may take advantage of their opportunity, according to the view of officials of the Bureau of Elections, based on the report of assessors who have made a house-to-house canvass as required by law.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—Numerous newly enfranchised Allegheny County women have been defrauded by a sham tax collector, who went into action shortly after declaring Colby signed the proclamation declaring woman suffrage a law, according to an announcement made today by H. H. Rowand, district attorney.

Victims reported that the spurious agent informed them that they must pay him a poll tax if they wanted to vote in November, collected the money, gave a receipt, then disappeared.

REPORTS CHILEAN MUTINIES.

Lima Hears of Bloodshed Among Troops in Frontier Provinces.

LIMA, Aug. 26.—Reports received through official channels from the Peruvian frontier state that serious mutinies, resulting in the killing of a number of persons, have occurred within the last few days among 15,000 Chilean troops reported to be concentrated in Tacna and Arica.

The mobilization is said to be political, for the purpose of removing from Santiago and Valparaiso troops which were favorable to the Presidential candidacy of Arturo Alessandri, nominee of the Liberal Alliance.

Machine guns were used in the course of the disturbances, and many were killed and wounded, according to the advices.

Brooklyn Bandits Line Workers Against Wall—Commandeer Auto and Escape.

Three men yesterday held up the paymasters of D. H. Best & Co., contractors, at Fifty-sixth Street and Second Avenue, Brooklyn, and, with forty workmen pursuing them, escaped in an automobile with $4,000. They had seized about $11,000, in a small wooden box, but they were forced to throw away the box and about $7,000 to prevent their capture.

The two paymasters were beginning to pay out the week's wages to the 100 men employed in the construction of a new building for the American Machine and Foundry Company when the holdup men entered the open door of an unfinished room on the ground floor of the structure. Taken by surprise, the paymasters were unable to use their guns, and they and the forty other men in the pay line were lined up against the wall.

Snatching the box containing the pay envelopes the men left the room but, instead of running out another exit on the ground floor, ran up to the second floor, crossed the structure to Second Avenue and slid down some timbers that had been placed against the wall there. By this manoeuvre the pursuers were thrown off the track, but they saw the men running toward an automobile that was just swinging into Second Avenue at Fifty-fifth Street.

To gain time the holdup men jumped to the running board of a passing car and, shoving their pistols against the driver's back, commanded him to make speed toward the waiting car. Seeing that their pursuers were catching up, the holdup men, who had stuffed envelopes containing $4,000 into their pockets, threw the box away. They reached the waiting auto, in which were three armed confederates, and the auto sped down Second Avenue. Every workman who saw it recorded a different license number.

WANT SULTAN TO LEAD ARMY

Turkish Cabinet Urges This Step to Combat Nationalists.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 26 (Associated Press).—Sultan Mohammed VI. must personally lead Turkish troops against the Turkish Nationalists in Anatolia to prevent dissolution of the empire, it has been decided at a special Cabinet meeting.

The Sultan's army virtually does not exist, but the Allies are apparently willing to permit the organization of a Turkish force to co-operate with the Greeks in attacking Mustapha Kemal's armies under conditions guaranteeing them against desertion to the Nationalists such as occurred when Anzavour Pasha attempted to lead the Sultan's troops.

Mustapha Kemal, according to reports from travellers returning here from Asia Minor, has taken the Supreme Court of the Nationalist Government from Angora to Sivas, where preparations are being made to receive the Government, should impending military movements threaten the former city.

HOPES TO REGAIN THRONE.

Constantine Denies Plotting Against Life of Venizelos.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Former King Constantine of Greece still hopes to regain his throne, claiming he never abdicated and that he is still considered the sovereign by a majority of the Greeks, says the Lucerne correspondent of the Excelsior. In an interview with the dethroned monarch, the correspondent was told that Premier Venizelos would not be able to so conduct affairs in Greece as to give that country her true place among nations. Constantine denied being involved in the attempted assassination of the Premier.

"The prosperity of my country is indispensable to great Mediterranean interests," said the former ruler. "I may be permitted, however, to regret the division of Greece, caused by the too individualistic policy of Premier Venizelos. Notwithstanding his undoubted statesmanlike abilities, he has been unable to maintain in Greece the amity necessary to her growth and prestige."

KANEKO TO LECTURE HERE.

Japan Plans to Send Him to Improve Relations with America.

TOKIO, Aug. 26.—According to the Nichi Nichi, Japan plans to send an unofficial commissioner to the United States with the object of facilitating mutual understanding and improving the relations between Japan and the United States by the delivery of public lectures and other appropriate means. The newspaper thinks Viscount Kentaro Kaneko, member of the House of Peers and Privy Councillor, will be designated.

HONOLULU, Aug. 27.—Viscount Kaneko, President of the Japan-America Society of Tokio, is going to the United States on a special mission connected with anti-Japanese agitation in California, according to a Tokio cable to the Nippu Jiji.

SEEK COALITION IN CUBA.

Conservative Nationalists Consider Uniting with Popular Party.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 27.—Coalition between the Conservative Nationalist and the Popular Party was the principal subject before the convention of the former organization held here today.

The Conservatives unanimously nominated General Rafael Montalvo as their Presidential candidate on May 23, and later, after fruitless efforts had been made to induce Dr. Alfredo Zayas, former Liberal leader, to accept the nomination for the Vice Presidency and join forces with the Conservatives, reassembled and nominated Senator Ricardo Dolz as General Montalvo's running mate.

It is intimated that while Montalvo, in case the convention nominates Zayas, will not present a personal appeal to the Central Electoral Board, he is certain his followers will do so, and, if necessary, carry the fight to the Supreme Court.

Another dispatch states that in a recent Bedouin raid on a train near Damascus an Italian naval officer was among the killed.

Authorities Now Estimate That the Liabilities May Exceed $10,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—The receivers of Charles Ponzi's affairs seized his home and estate at Lexington, Mass., purchased during the height of his affluence. His three motor cars were also taken. His wife and his mother have been occupying the home. They have not yet been ousted, but this is expected in a few days.

The seizure of their home was a bitter blow to the young wife, although she has voiced no criticism, but she complained that "all the fair weather friends have deserted her."

"I have dismissed all my servants," she said. "I have today sent my automobile to town to the authorities, and they will probably sell it to some one for a couple of thousand dollars. They can add that to the assets.

"I am penniless and without friends, but, thank God, I am strong and can work."

She said she expected to hunt up a small tenement in which to live.

She again visited her husband at the East Cambridge Jail, and for the first time made the trip in a street car. Practically all her money is gone, she admitted.

Their home, which a month ago was alive with servants and life, today has nearly all its shutters closed and all is quiet and changed.

The half dozen strong boxes which Ponzi had scattered in as many banks about the city, from two of which impressive looking parcels were taken during yesterday's hunt by the receivers, netted about $15,000 to be added to the total of assets, although Ponzi had declared he "thought he had $300,000 in Liberty bonds in one of them."

In their effort to secure everything that might be listed as an asset the receivers today filed a bill in equity against Joseph Daniels to regain possession of the $40,000 paid him by Ponzi in settlement of his million-dollar suit in which he claimed partnership with Ponzi. Judge Sisk issued a temporary injunction forbidding Daniels from disposing of his shares in the Daniels & Wilson Furniture Company, in which he is a stockholder. In the event of his refusal to refund the receivers ask that an equivalent of these shares be converted to furnish the cash demanded.

The receivers today issued a statement and large advertisements calling upon all persons who are holding Ponzi assets to turn them in at once. This statement is believed to be a preliminary "warning" to give all persons involved an opportunity to "deliver up" before action is taken against them.

Ponzi operated under the last eight names, it is disclosed in the receivers' statement, in handling the various phases of his business. These names, in addition to the firm name, the Securities Exchange Company, are Lucy Martelli, John S. Dondero, Rose M. Ponzi, Plo Conti, Imelda Ponzi, Mary C. Bosselli and Joseph Daniels. The receivers add that Ponzi had upward of 15,000 "clients," principally in New England States.

Receiver John E. O'Halligan of Ponzi's rivals, the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, announced that during the first four weeks of its existence the firm paid out more than $21,000 to attorneys. At least two office clerks received $100 a week, plus 2 per cent. of all the money they took in, he said. Two others of the office staff received $2,400 each in four weeks on a 1 per cent. basis. The receiver "has hope" that some of the money received by attorneys will be returned.

Ponzi's liabilities continue to move steadily upward. Officials have been estimating them at $7,000,000, but there is every indication, they now say, that they will amount to $10,000,000.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

The Number of Declines Greater Than Advances This Week.

Prices in the leading wholesale commodity markets this week continued to move toward a lower level and, though a few important articles improved their position, 48 recessions appear in the quotations received by Dun's Review against 26 advances. Light receipts and a brisk cash demand strengthened quotations of corn, but a disappointing export movement and favorable crop advices had a depressing effect on wheat, oats, rye and barley.

In live meats, beef and sheep were sustained by limited offerings of desirable stock, but hogs were inclined to yield, because of lack of interest on the part of buyers. Provisions moved within a narrow range and net changes for the week were relatively slight. Moderate arrivals and some increase in the consumptive demand were reflected in higher prices for all kinds of dairy products, choice eggs being especially firm.

Transportation conditions continue to curtail deliveries of iron and steel, and quotations are firm at a high level with some further advances in pig iron. Unsettlement still prevails in the cotton goods markets, reflecting the uncertain outlook in merchandising channels and the recent severe decline in the raw material. Sentiment in hides and leather remains reactionary, with buying holding the advantage.

In the following table are given the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

Western eggs of the first variety showed the greatest gain during the week among dairy products. The price went up 4 cents a dozen. Nearby fancy eggs advanced a cent a dozen. State dairy butter went up a cent a pound and choice creamery three-quarters of a cent. The rest of the foodstuffs list showed no movement except downward, the greatest declines occurring in flour patents and potatoes. The former dropped 50 cents a barrel, and a similar recession took place on the latter. Only one advance was scored among provisions, a higher quotation appearing for sheep, which sold for 75 cents more a hundredweight in Chicago. The price of live beef kept stationary, but hogs declined 40 cents and lard 10 cents a hundredweight. Corn furnished the only advance among the grains, with an increase of 8¾ cents a bushel. Barley dropped 4 cents, oats 8 cents, rye 1½ cents, and wheat a half a cent a bushel.

In the metal group pig iron sold at Philadelphia for 45 cents a ton more than last week. With a fractional advance in spelter this was the only price increase, as tin dropped a cent a pound, and copper and lead a quarter of a cent.

Cotton constructions, in the main, kept around former prices with the exception of brown sheetings, which dropped off a cent a yard. Hemlock sole leather remained at the former price level, but union backs dropped 3 cents a pound. Fine rubber and the plantation variety both saw declines, the former of a cent a pound and the latter 2 cents. Japanese silk dropped 35 cents a pound and China silk 25 cents.

Extending Use of Linoleums.

Linoleums are showing a big increase in carpet and matting designs and in many colors, with the idea of their taking the place of the matting and the cheap carpet, being cleaner and more sanitary. The retail trade is pushing these goods in small towns to take the place of the mattings in the hotel sleeping rooms, where once down they are permanent and simple to keep clean. They are filling a special need in closets, being unfriendly to the moth and it is said that in these servantless days the linoleums are finding increasing use for spare rooms. Even where there are still a few servants left they economize time and they are going into houses where they might not have been considered a few years ago. There is a remarkable variety of very attractive small designs.

Pay for Better Woven.

The data of the Bureau of Statistics and Information of the New York State Industrial Commission bear witness from month to month, according to the American Cutlery Bureau of Information, to the increase in the manufacturing activity in the American cutlery industry. Figures for June show the number of employes to be 174 for every 100 employed before the war. Total wage payments exhibit a new increase from $344 in May to $348 in June, for every $100 paid before the war, this increase being due primarily to wage advances. In their effort to turn out a superior blade, the American cutlery makers have been paying high wages and affording ideal living conditions at the factories.

Reading Back with Coal Supply.

The resumption of company towing from Port Reading is regarded in the coal trade as an important factor in helping to restore conditions to normal. This port, according to Saward's Journal, loads more anthracite from New York than any other. The service was suspended from April 1, owing to the railroad tug strike. Under the new railroad rates, the increased tariff on domestic sizes is 76 cents and on steam sizes 72 cents. Steam sizes are not particularly active in this market, but prices are firm at recent levels. Bituminous prices have declined.

Adjust Disputes in Waist Trade.

Disputes involving close to $3,000,000 have been adjusted without litigation by the Arbitration Board of the United Waist League of America. The annual report of the board tells of an increased demand on the part of both buyer and seller in the women's apparel trades to make use of arbitration instead of costly legal adjustments. In the waist trade the arbitration is accomplished by representative blouse manufacturers and fabric producers who understand the complex problems of the needle industries, and who, consequently, can give expert judgment to the cases which come up.

Brown Season Promised.

From a millinery standpoint, the coming Fall promises to be a brown season. The Fall hats shown in almost every instance give that color a leading place. Henna, the reddish brown color so popular last Spring, is not so much in evidence in the Fall displays. In its stead is pheasant brown, a light, golden brown hue. Topaz brown, combining the glow and color of the topaz, is another of the new shades much favored. Nigger brown, an extremely dark shade; rust and copper brown, with a coppery, reddish tinge; amber, tobacco and chow browns are much seen.

New Kind of Tapestry Rug.

Becoming increasingly popular in a new tapestry rug of close weave fibre which is equally good Winter and Summer. Tried out in the retail department of a big wholesale house, it was found to be a splendid seller. It comes in many colors, its stenciled designs are clear cut and attractive and it is several dollars lower priced than the cheapest wool tapestry rug.

Getting Garment Reorders.

Some reorders on Fall garments have been reported in the local trade. These additional purchases do not amount to large totals but, nevertheless, are regarded as encouraging by the wholesalers. To them it is indicative that the orders thus far placed by the stores are by no means all that are to be expected for the season. In other words, the quick appearance of reorders is accepted as confirming the theory that the retailers will make small but frequent purchases throughout the season. No special price trend is shown in the new bookings. This, too, is regarded as significant of public willingness to buy in the price ranges fixed for Fall.

MILK PRICE GOES UP ONE CENT ON SEPT. 1

MAY CONTINUE IN OCTOBER

Far East Buys 35,000 Tons of Cuban Sugar—May Affect Price Here.

The retail price of milk will be advanced 1 cent a quart on Sept. 1, according to announcement yesterday by the two big distributing companies—Sheffield Farms Company and Borden's Farm Products Company. The increase is made necessary, it was explained, on account of the increase to be paid the producer combined with the increase in freight rates. D. S. Horton, Secretary of Sheffield Farms Company, declared that 1 cent a quart will not provide for all the increased cost, but that his company did not feel like passing any additional burden on to the consumer, preferring to try to effect economies in some other direction sufficient to offset the increased cost to them. Mr. Horton remarked also that the price to the producer is about 1 cent a quart more than it was this time last year.

H. A. Cronk, Vice President of Borden's Farm Products Company, announced that effective next Wednesday the following would be the prices of milk furnished by his company:

Grade A, quarts	21 cents
Grade B, quarts	18 cents
Grade B, pints	11 cents

This is an increase of 1 cent a quart over the August prices, Grade B milk now selling for 17 cents.

It was stated that the distributors hoped to be able to continue the September price through October, but this, it was said, would depend upon the price that must be paid the producer. The producers and distributors, through their respective committees, will bargain for the October price early in September, it is thought. Feed is said to be selling for much less than at this time last year and the distributors are said to feel that this reduction should be reflected in the price the producer receives for his milk.

It was announced here yesterday that the Far East has bought approximately 35,000 tons of the new crop of Cuban sugar for January to March shipments at about 10.75 cents a pound f. o. b. Cuba. This is fractionally above the equivalent of 11 cents, cost and freight, New York. The amount involved is between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000.

The price paid for the sugar is more than would be paid here for it, an authority on sugar said last night. He pointed out that this is a particularly high price as compared with the preliminary sales of the 1919-1920 season, which were made at 6¼ cents a pound. The sales just made to the Far East represent an advance of about 4¼ cents over the sales at this period last year.

One reason advanced for the high price paid for the sugar is that the Far East recently oversold itself to this country and fears a shortage. It is regarded by some as indicating that higher prices for sugar next Winter and Spring may be expected, notwithstanding the recent slump in sugar prices in this country. Among those who predict a high price for sugar next Winter is John H. Floyd, sugar statistician of the Flying Squadron of the Department of Justice, who is now gathering data for a statement he expects to issue early next week to show the basis for his conclusions.

RILEY'S AID RESIGNS.

J. J. Price, Quitting Flying Squadron, Gives Tribute to Merchants.

In announcing yesterday his resignation as assistant to Armin W. Riley, chief of the Flying Squadron of the Department of Justice, engaged for the last several months in a campaign against profiteers, J. J. Price said that the merchants of this city, upon the whole, had been able to show a fairly clean slate, so far as profit-taking is concerned. The merchants generally, he stated, have cooperated most heartily with the department in its investigations.

Mr. Price said that while in many stores the merchants were taking a big profit on certain articles, they were able to show, on the other hand, that there were many other articles upon which they received only a small profit which, because of the vagueness of the Lever act, made it exceedingly doubtful if there had actually been a violation of the law in any particular.

Mr. Price said that he would devote his time after Sept. 1 to private investigation of industrial relations only.

George Blagden, administrator of the estate of Evert Jansen Wendell, philanthropist, filed an accounting yesterday showing that of the total estate of $514,606 the value of his bequests to Harvard University amounted to $230,000. The gift included Mr. Wendell's collection of stage and musical literature, playbills and programs. It embraced 20,000 photos, 75,000 sheets of music, 30,000 playbills, 2,000 autograph manuscripts, 5,000 pamphlets, 5,000 plays, 4,000 theatrical portraits, 5,000 American portraits, 4,000 foreign portraits, 4,000 daguerreotypes, 600 coins and medals, 10,000 drawings, 4,000 engravings, 500 newspapers, 5,000 paintings, 1,000 sundry articles and 64,000 books.

The accounting stated that Professor Barrett Wendell of Harvard, to whom his brother left $1,000 "as a mark of my affection," and gave him $5,000 additional, declined the bequest.

BUMPER APPLE CROP TO BE CARED FOR HERE

O'Malley Obtains Warehouse for Overflow Shipments—Growers and Consumers to Benefit.

Commissioner of Public Markets Edwin J. O'Malley announced last night that he had completed arrangements yesterday to render all aid necessary to the New York State apple growers, who have asserted that unless the demand for apples is increased and the dealers play fair with them, millions of bushels of apples will go to waste.

A large storage warehouse to accommodate all overflow shipments has been obtained by Mr. O'Malley and will be placed at the disposal of the producers. A moderate storage charge will be made. Present plans provide that these apples will be in storage for only a short time, as already several persons have volunteered to canvass the grocers for orders. One man, Mr. O'Malley said, had already obtained a large number of orders for apples.

Mr. O'Malley said that through the arrangements he has made the apples will be sold to the consumer for 4 to 5 cents a pound, as against 10, 15, and even 25 cents a pound now charged. It is also planned to help handle peaches, plums and pears which the up-State growers say they have had difficulty in marketing without loss.

"The present situation has been brought about," Mr. O'Malley said, "because certain merchants here refuse to handle more than a certain quantity of any commodity. They had rather handle a small quantity at a great profit than a great quantity at a small profit. They are not concerned about the producer or the consumer."

Mr. O'Malley said that the apple growers had been refused cold storage facilities in this city as one of the methods employed to control prices. It is in such cases as this, he declared, that the terminal markets would prove of inestimable benefit to the producer and the consumer.

Neil Strom of Walden, N. Y., representing the New York Federation of Agriculture, and Frank M. Bradley of Appleton, N. Y., President of the organization, have arranged for a conference with Mr. O'Malley in his office here next Monday, soon after which, Mr. O'Malley said, he expected to put into effect his plan to aid apple growers and consumers.

MAY END BAGGAGE STRIKE.

"Progress Made" Toward Adjustment, Says Commissioner Barrett.

Possibility of an amicable adjustment of the strike of baggage transfer men was indicated yesterday by Acting Public Service Commissioner Alfred M. Barrett, following a two-hour conference with representatives of the unions and the two companies involved—the Westcott Express Company and the New York Transfer Company. "Developments" had caused him to call the conference, Commissioner Barrett said, and he added: "Some progress has been made," although he would not disclose the nature of the "progress."

Encounters between the striking baggagemen and the drivers of taxicabs whom travelers engaged to carry their luggage, because of the complete suspension of the regular baggage transfer service, continued yesterday. The method of the strikers is to hail a taxicab with baggage and then attempt to take possession of the baggage when the cab is brought to a stop. After a few hours of this the taxi men learned to refuse to stop.

A group of strikers locked hands and extended themselves across the street at Lexington Avenue and Fiftieth Street yesterday in an attempt to stop an approaching taxi carrying baggage. The driver, instead of stopping, increased his speed and made the strikers scramble to the sidewalks.

Travelers found no difficulty yesterday in getting taxis to carry their baggage. The taxi men and independent transfer men at the Pennsylvania Station and New York Central Terminal were protected from interference from pickets by a large force of police reserves and railroad police.

James Brady, 35, of 128 West Fifty-eighth Street, and Arthur McGoldrick, 30, of 416 West Forty-first Street, both striking truckmen, were held in $1,000 bail each for the Grand Jury yesterday by Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan in Yorkville Court. Elmer B. Fisher, a private truckman, charged that twelve strikers, the prisoners among them, crippled the mechanism of his car and made threats against Fisher's helper.

Mrs. Menken Gets Reformatory Post

Governor Smith has appointed Mrs. Alice D. Menken of New York City as a manager of the New York State Reformatory for Women at Bedford, to succeed Dr. Pearce Bailey, resigned. Mrs. Menken for ten years has been identified with correctional work in the courts of New York and the various city and State institutions dealing with delinquent girls. She is a member of the Board of the Inwood House, the Florence Crittenton League and the Committee of Fourteen and also has given daily service to girls placed on probation from the Night Court for Women.

Queens Borough Transactions.

The Lewis H. May Company resold for L. Schlissel the corner store property, fronting on the Edgemere Station, Edgemere, L. I., to Charles H. Lowe, the present tenant.

G. E. Clay sold for Margaret Chrinian a plot 50 by 95 on the east side of Marion Street, 315 feet south of Harris Avenue, Long Island City, to N. W. Durnin of the Houpert Machine Works, on which will be erected an addition to their present shop.

J. Albert Johntra sold the two one-family dwellings at 53 and 55 Farrington Street for Edna Van Dewater to William J. Steinle, for occupancy.

$1,500,000 Worth of Space Sold.

According to a statement issued yesterday by Major S. F. Weaver, President of the Weaver-Crawford Corporation, which plans to erect the Park-Madison Building, covering the blocks bounded by Madison and Park Avenues, Forty-sixth to Forty-seventh Streets, $1,500,000 of co-operatively owned office floor space has been sold in the building during the last four weeks.

The Park-Madison Building will represent the investment of a very large amount of money and the fact that this structure, one of the largest office buildings in the world, is to be erected and held free of mortgages, has commended the plan to many corporations in New York City and throughout the country.

89 MAIDEN LANE SOLD FOR $100,000

Buyer Is Client of Title Guarantee and Trust Co. — Property Free of Mortgage.

Another transaction was reported yesterday involving real estate holdings in Maiden Lane, where there has been a consistent buying movement within recent months on the part of firms seeking permanent homes in that neighborhood.

The four-story building at 89 Maiden Lane, northeast corner of Gold Street, was sold by the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, as trustee of the estate of Richard S. Clark, for a consideration of $100,000. The purchaser is a client of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, who will hold the property in the name of the City Real Estate Company. The property fronts 27 feet on Maiden Lane and 66.8 feet on Gold Street, the other dimensions being 28.6 and 65.11. The property was leased for a long term of years about a year ago to the National Surety Company for its brokers' branch and burglar departments, the rental aggregating $100,000 net. A report that the surety company had purchased the property was denied.

The building, which has been modernized, is one of the oldest in the city, having been at one time the residence of Mayor Kingsland. It is carried free of mortgage and has been in the possession of the selling family for a great many years. The late Mr. Clark acquired it in 1887. It is assessed at $100,000, the selling price in the present transaction.

SAYS DRY PENALTIES ARE $185,000 SHORT

W. H. Anderson Attacks Attitude of Federal Court and Demands Collection of Full Forfeits.

CALLS FINES A CHEAP TAX

Complains to Prohibition Head in Washington—Whisky Sold in The Lambs, Asserts Shevlin.

Contending that the penalties imposed in Federal courts in this city on violators of the prohibition law are wholly inadequate, really amounting to a cheap license tax, William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, yesterday gave out a letter he had written to Prohibition Commissioner John F. Kramer in Washington, in which he asserts that the seventy-five defendants let off with fines of $100 each in this city Wednesday are liable, under the law, for further penalties and taxes, totaling $2,575 each. This would be a total for the seventy-five defendants of $193,125. The letter to Commissioner Kramer follows Mr. Anderson's open letter on Thursday to Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer in which he asserted that the small fines imposed "merely accentuates a condition which has become a national scandal."

Mr. Anderson in his letter to Commissioner Kramer writes:

"In view of the way your department is handicapped in its work by the imposition by some Judges of ridiculously inadequate penalties upon men who sell liquor in violation of the law, thus amounting not merely to a license but a very cheap license at that, I wish to call your attention to the fact that seventy-five men yesterday in New York City were fined $100 apiece by a Federal District Judge and released, in order that you may secure the record and have every one of them put on the prohibitive tax list for the penalties in such case provided. You can thus prove that even though the activity of the prohibition department of the Government is not as yet being adequately backed up by some Judges, still your department can demonstrate up to a certain point that violation of the law is not such a cheap pastime as some of the sentences imposed upon so-called first offenders would indicate."

Explaining his letter to Commissioner Kramer, Mr. Anderson, in a statement, said:

"Section 35 of the National Prohibition act, commonly known as the Volstead law, provides that this act does not relieve any one from paying any tax, and does not repeal any other law except insofar as it may be inconsistent and 'shall be considered as in addition to existing laws.' It provides that upon evidence of illegal sale of liquor a tax shall be assessed against and collected from the person guilty in double the amount provided by law, with an additional penalty of $500 on retail dealers and $1,000 on manufacturers and that even the payment of such penalty tax shall not confer any future right to sell.

"The retail dealers' tax is $25, with 50 per cent. added, if not paid in advance, making $37.50. Double this is $75, to which is to be added the $500 additional penalty, or $575.

"On top of this, the War Prohibition act, which is still in force, and will be until the treaty is signed, provides that any person who sells in violation of any State law shall be taxed $1,000. New York has a law which prohibits the sale of liquor in the State without a liquor tax certificate, and there are no New York liquor tax certificates in force. The above-mentioned section of the Volstead act also doubles this thousand-dollar tax, making a grand total of $2,575 of penalties and taxes, which every one of the seventy-five men who got off with a fine of $100 can be compelled to pay or suffer the usual consequences. And we are advised that this procedure is already in operation in some portions of the country."

James Shevlin, Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent, said yesterday that he knew definitely that liquor was sold in the Lambs on the morning of the reported fisticuffs between William H. Boyd, the actor, and John J. McGraw, manager and part owner of the Giants.

He also said that McGraw bought whisky that night at the Lambs.

Prohibition Director Charles R. O'Connor said yesterday that applications for permits to purchase and transport liquors are made to his office at the rate of 500 or more a day. As an indication of the amount of liquor that is being legitimately handled in this city at the present time, Mr. O'Connor said that about 40 per cent. of the applications are granted, the other 60 per cent. being turned down for one reason or another. The permits to purchase are for varying amounts, and Mr. O'Connor said that he did not have any figures to show just how much liquor is involved in each day's list of permits issued. He said, however, that they involved a very large quantity.

FOOTBALL VICTIM DIES.

Boy Was Hurt While Playing with St. Paul's School Last Fall.

Otto Louis Huber, 18 years old, whose spine was injured last November while he was a member of the football team of St. Paul's School, at Garden City, died early yesterday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Hattie Bossert Huber, in Clinton Avenue, Bay Shore, L. I.

Young Huber was in the Nassau Hospital at Mineola for fourteen weeks. A weak heart made an operation impossible. After he was taken to his mother's home specialists were called, but could do nothing for him. Huber was born in Brooklyn and formerly attended Adelphi Academy and the Taft School at Watertown, Conn. His father, Max Huber, was a member of the brewing firm of Otto Huber & Sons.

PRINCE CAROL LONGS FOR SUBWAY CRUSH

Ride During Rush Hours the Experience He Wanted Most, He Says.

HE DOESN'T LIKE JAZZ

"When Does Prohibition Begin?" He Asks—Finds Americans Essentially a Business People.

Crown Prince Carol has had such a good time during his unofficial visit to New York that on the eve of his departure for home he reconsidered his decision not to grant interviews and for half an hour faced a battery of newspapermen who sought his opinions on all kinds of subjects, ranging from jazz music to woman suffrage. Throughout the interview, which took place late yesterday afternoon in his suite in the Waldorf-Astoria, he demonstrated the accurate knowledge he possesses of American affairs and the English language.

After expressing his appreciation of the cordiality of his reception here, he said: "I expect to return to America in a year or so for a longer visit, when I hope to see more of the country."

"What has impressed you the most during your stay in the United States?" he was asked.

"Generally speaking, the all-important part played by business in the lives of your people. You are essentially a business people and business seems to be paramount to everything else. Most of the people I have met here have been business men. I have had no opportunity this time of studying your society life."

"What do you think of prohibition?" was the next question.

"When does it begin?" the Prince answered with a twinkle in his eye. Then seriously he went on: "On the whole I believe it is a wholesome thing and appears to be beneficial. No, I do not believe we will have prohibition in Europe, certainly not in my country, as we do not need it. My people drink light wines and there is no intoxication."

Prince Carol expressed his dislike for jazz music, saying that it had no harmony. Regarding American newspapers he thought those in the East were better than those in the West. The Eastern newspapers were more serious and further east across the pond they were still more serious, he added.

"When I was on the coast the newspapers gave more space to the account of the death of one of your leading baseball players than to the Russian defeat," Prince Carol explained.

"Do you know," he added somewhat wistfully, "the experience I have wanted the most, namely, to ride in the subway during your rush hours, I have not been able to have. I've been so rushed that it could not be arranged this time."

"Do you believe in suffrage?" was the final question asked him.

"Yes, decidedly," he replied. "There is a well defined movement for extending the ballot to women in Rumania. As woman is the home builder of a nation there is no question that the granting of the vote to her will be a stabilizing influence. And, in passing, may I pay a tribute to the charm and beauty of American women."

The Prince lunched in his suite at the hotel with former Ambassador Gerard, Judge Abram Elkus, Colonel Henry W. Anderson, former Commissioner of the Red Cross; Major Charles E. Spratt, William Nelson Cromwell and James A. Mills. He sails today on the Aquitania on his way home.

PASTOR RETURNS WAR RELIC

Motors to Worcester, Mass., with Mess Plate Found in France.

The Rev. Joseph Ryerson, D. D., rector of Grace Episcopal Church, at Riverhead, L. I., has just returned from a motor trip to Worcester, Mass., taken during his vacation for the purpose of returning to a young ex-service man of that city a tin mess plate which the clergyman picked up in September, 1918, on the battlefield of St. Mihiel. Dr. Ryerson was then a Y. M. C. A. secretary in France. He had lost his own mess plate and hunted about until he found another. On it was inscribed a soldier's first name, his number, and the word "Grace."

Dr. Ryerson kept the plate and, after returning to this country, learned the name and address of its owner by giving the number on the plate to the War Department. The owner, he learned, was Corporal George Allen of Worcester, Mass., who had been a member of the 104th Battalion, 26th Division. Dr. Ryerson learned incidentally that Allen is now engaged to "Grace," whose name was cut in the plate.

GOODWIN DIED A BANKRUPT.

Accounting of Actor's Estate Shows $15,000 Debts, $6,000 Assets.

An accounting filed in the Surrogate's Court yesterday of the estate of Nat Goodwin by his father, Nathaniel C. Goodwin of Roxbury, Mass., showed the assets were only $6,895, while the expenses of administration were $3,132. The debts aggregate $15,000. He had nearly $6,000 in cash and his wines sold for $231. While the contents of his apartment were valued at $3,265, these were claimed by Miss Georgia Gardner, to whom he was engaged, and to whom he left the property in a letter.

The actor owned many stocks that were valueless, including 267,998 shares of mining stock.

Bergdoll Guard Under Sanity Test.

Sergeant John O'Hare, who was in charge of the guard over Grover Cleveland Bergdoll when the slacker escaped while in his home at Philadelphia on May 20, was removed to the Walter Reed Hospital, at Washington, on Aug. 2, for observation as to his sanity, it was learned yesterday when it was announced at Governors Island that the trials of O'Hare and his companion guard, Sergeant York, had been indefinitely postponed. O'Hare and York face charges of permitting their prisoner to escape.

PALISADES MURDER NEARING SOLUTION

SCHULTZ STORY CHECKED UP

Husband of Slain Woman, Still in Hackensack Jail, Shows Signs of Collapse.

Officials of Bronx County, New York, and Bergen County, New Jersey, who are trying to find the murderer of Mrs. Blanche Schultz of 435 East 135th Street, whose body was found in the woods of Grantwood, N. J., last Wednesday, devoted yesterday to checking up the story told by her husband, Frank Schultz, now held without bail in the Hackensack Jail as a material witness.

Assistant Prosecutor Charles J. McCarthy of Bergen County and District Attorney Martin of the Bronx are anxious to find a number of characters, some of them idlers on the fringe of the underworld and others well within it, but they are reticent as to what they hope to learn. Mr. McCarthy admitted one man sought was named by Schultz as an object of suspicion because of his friendship with the young wife, but he appeared even more eager to get the stories of those upon whom Schultz relied to build up his own alibi.

Some of the Bergen County prosecutor's detectives were so optimistic as to assert virtually all mystery was gone from the case and that a charge of murder would be lodged against at least one person within the next forty-eight hours.

Meantime Schultz and Edward Faulkner, the friend who, Schultz said, helped him search for his wife after she disappeared, were left severely alone in the Hackensack Jail, where Faulkner, too, is held as a material witness. Mr. McCarthy did not expect to question them again before Monday.

At the jail it was said that Schultz showed signs of collapse. He cried hysterically and ate little. He did much writing upon what he said was designed to be a complete account of his movements during the period of the tragedy with which he hoped entirely to satisfy the authorities. He sent word that a woman named Zola was a companion of his wife, and if she could be found might be able to tell of her movements after she left her home.

It was said in Hackensack that a rumor had come to officials there that part of the time on Sunday while Schultz said she was with Faulkner searching for his wife, he was seen in company with a woman he did not mention in telling his story. The officials, however, did not confirm this report.

It appeared that the approximate time of the murder had been fixed when Father Anthony Ferretti of the Church of the Epiphany in Cliffside told that on Saturday night, between 10 and 11 o'clock, he heard, emanating apparently not far from where the body was found, several strange cries which he decided to be those of a woman in distress. He looked about for its source, but saw nothing of interest.

Some details were added to Schultz's history yesterday. Police records showed he had figured in several assault cases and also that he had been a pugilist of some local repute under the names of "Beansy" Schultz and Tommy Leonard.

County Detective Charles F. Seibel spent yesterday pursuing an investigation in the vicinity of the murder. He said he got results, but would not tell the nature of them. It was understood the knife with which the woman's throat was cut was not found.

District Attorney Martin of the Bronx, while he lent assistance to the inquiry, said he was more concerned, as a result of his examination of witnesses on Thursday, in hunting down bands of young white slavers who, he said he learned, once more were infesting the Bronx.

After making the report the Grand Jury adjourned until Tuesday morning.

FRENCH PILGRIM ENVOY URGES ALLIANCE HERE

Welcomed at Cape with Praise of France's Aid to Poland—Celebrations Start in Holland.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Aug. 27.—Speaking informally at an exchange of courtesies at the Town Hall here today, Captain de Ruffi de Ponteves Gevaudan of the French cruiser Ville d'Ys said that an alliance between the United States and France was favored in his country as an assurance of protection against another German invasion.

The cruiser is at this port to take part in the celebration of the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims.

Captain Gevaudan, as the representative of the French Government, came ashore today and was welcomed at the Town Hall by the Selectmen.

Frank Pope, former State Auditor, in a formal address of welcome, spoke of the long friendship between France and this country, and added that public opinion in America attributed to French military advice the recent Polish victories in driving the Bolsheviki back from Warsaw.

He said it was evident that France was on so strong a basis that she could extend help to other countries.

An informal response was made by Captain Gevaudan, speaking in English. He said that although France was strong, the country did not feel altogether secure against the dangers on her eastern frontier. The German menace, he said, in the opinion of the French people, never would be removed entirely until France and the United States joined in some kind of alliance.

The battleships Florida and Delaware came into the bay today to assist in the celebration. The British cruiser Constance, with Captain Geoffrey Blake, naval attaché of the British Embassy at Washington, aboard, is expected tomorrow.

Americans in Holland Selebration.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Delegates of the Anglo-American Society of London left here today for Amsterdam for the purpose of participating at Leyden and other places in Holland in the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth, Mass.

Sir Harry Britton acted as leader of the delegation, other members of the party being Lady Britton, W. H. Sugden, member of Parliament; Sir Robert Harvey and American Episcopal clergymen who have been visiting England for the last few weeks.

The "Reds" Are On The Run

The gallant struggle of the Poles to save their capital from capture has at last been crowned with success, and the Bolshevist reverse bids fair to become a rout, according to an arresting article in this week's number of THE LITERARY DIGEST dated August 28th, on this spectacular turning of the tide of war. The Minneapolis Journal is quoted as saying that "the Bolshevik menace to Western civilization, if any, is now political," while an Eastern paper is sure that "Bolshevism has shot its bolt." The Newark Evening News asserts that the "lowering of Bolshevism's prestige will naturally be followed by reactions within Russia," and the New York World declares that "it was not merely a battle that Poland won in front of Warsaw, but the right to assume a position of equality at the peace table."
